A Woman incapable of pettiness or malice

Alert, wide-awake, adventurous-minded, keenly alive and eager to enjoy life and make the best of fortune; with a longing for a place in the sun and a share of the world's good things, but wanting in decision, and unable to make up her mind what steps to take. Hasty-tempered and quick to anger, but blessed with a sense of humour, and all her faults are surface ones.

The above is a Delineation of a reader's character from her handwriting. See others in the Weekly Irish Times

LEGAL NOTICES.

JOSEPH CHARLES DEIGHTON, of Coolarne, Silchester road, Glenageary, Co. Dublin, Esquire, Deceased.

TAKE NOTICE that the above-named Deceased, who died on 12th January, 1932, by his last Will, dated 12th October, 1928, made the following devises and bequests (after making certain other specific and pecuniary bequests):—

1. The yearly rent which said Testator received out of part of the Presentation Convent property, Carlow (subject to superior interests), and all other Testator's estate and interest in said Convent property to his Executors upon trust to convey same to the Reverend Mother Superioress for time being of said Convent, and any other trustees for said Convent she may name, in trust for the benefit and objects of said Convent; and in case of any failure of said devise he gave same to said Reverend Mother of said Convent absolutely, said benefit to be free of duty.

2. To pay at end of twelve months from his death (a) to the Manager for time being of the National Schools, Barrack street, Carlow (No. 11325), for benefit of said schools, £50, free of duty; to the Treasurer for time being of the Carlow Protestant Poor Relief Fund, £30, free of duty, for the objects of said fund, and at the end of two years from Testator's death to pay to the Reverend Mother for the time being of the Convent of Mercy in Carlow £10, to be applied by her for such charitable purposes in the Irish Free State as she should think fit; (b) and after the end of two years from Testator's death to pay the following legacies, namely—To the Representative Church Body, having its offices in Dublin, £300 upon trust, to invest the same, and to apply the income thereof as follows, namely—If the Select Vestry of the Parish of Saint Mary, Carlow, shall, out of their own funds, keep in good repair and condition said Testator's family burial ground, stonework and monument in Killeshin Cemetery, and of such good repair and condition, the Incumbent or Curate for the time being of the said parish, or one of the Church Wardens thereof, shall at the end of six calendar months after the date of the payment of the said £300, and at the end of any subsequent period of six calendar months, furnish to the Representative Church Body a certificate signed by him in the words following:—"I have within the past month inspected the family burial ground of the late Joseph C. Deighton in Killeshin Cemetery, where and when I found the grass of said grave properly cut and free from noxious weeds, the railing thereof properly painted, and the monument and stonework over same clean and in good condition," then the Representative Church Body shall pay the said last-mentioned income of £300, or investments therefor, to the Treasurer for the time being of the said Select Vestry, to be applied by them to the Sustentation Fund, the Organ Fund, and the Church Requisite and Repair Fund of the said parish, or any of those objects as the said Select Vestry shall by resolution determine; but if at the end of any such period of six calendar months, or within thirty days after demand by the Representative Church Body, such certificate shall not have been furnished, then the trust in favour of the said parish shall cease, and the Representative Church Body shall thereafter apply the income of the said trust fund for the benefit of Protestant poor parishes in Ireland in such manner as they shall think fit. And to the trustees for the time being of the Deighton Memorial Hall, Carlow, £100, free of duty, upon trust, to invest the same and to apply the income thereof towards the repair or improvement of the said hall, the receipt of such trustees or of the Treasurer thereof for the time being to be a sufficient discharge to my trustees; and to the Representative Church Body (having its office in Dublin) £300 upon trust, to invest the same, and to apply the income thereof for the benefit of charitable works within the Protestant poor parishes in the Diocese of Leighlin in such manner as such Church Body shall think fit.

3. The said Testator devised and bequeathed the residue of his property to his said Executors and Trustees upon trust to pay thereout the immediate legacies on his death thereinbefore mentioned as so payable on his death, or at end of first twelve months and at end of first two years, respectively, and to pay out of his said residuary personal estate his funeral and testamentary expenses and debts and legacy and succession duties upon any legacies or benefits which are expressed thereinbefore or thereinafter by his will, to be given free of duty, and to also pay certain pecuniary bequests therein mentioned and subject thereto his said Executors and Trustees, or the Trustees or Trustee for the time being of said will, should, after certain directions respecting, retaining or selling his property and investments, hold same upon trust after meeting thereout and out of income thereof certain outgoings for Coolarne aforesaid and effects therein, and his debts, funeral and testamentary expenses to pay to his wife, the said Elizabeth Fleetwood Deighton, during her widowhood a certain annuity therein mentioned yearly net, after deduction of income tax, such net annuity to be payable and reducible as therein mentioned, and also income tax thereon out of such income of said investments, and subject as aforesaid to pay out of the income of said Testator's residuary estate to a certain person therein named during his life, so long as he should act as a trustee of said will and agent or receiver for purposes therein mentioned for Testator's Trustees over his real and leasehold and other trust estate a certain yearly sum therein mentioned, free of duty, in settlement and lieu of agency fees, and on conditions therein mentioned. And Testator directed that the said annuities shall be primarily payable out of the net income of said Testator's real estate or investments therefor, and, in the next place, out of the net income of his residuary leasehold property or investments therefor in case of his purely personal estate, but so that the income of the last-mentioned purely personal estate shall be resorted to after first applying the net income of his real and residuary leasehold properties for that purpose, but nothing therein was to delay the payment of the said annuities meantime out of any part of his said properties or the income thereof, respectively. And, subject to the trusts and powers aforesaid, his Trustees shall, during the widowhood of said Testator's wife, accumulate and invest in any securities aforesaid the surplus income of said trust property and hold same and of the investments therefor, and with power to vary same. And he directed that in case his said wife should remarry, then his Trustees should set apart such portion of said trust property as they should think fit to be of the value of £3,500 to invest and meet with interest thereon a certain annuity and income tax and duty thereon so contingently payable to his said wife, as aforesaid, and so that such annuity should not be payable out of the remainder of said trust property, which should then be distributed in accordance with the provisions of his said will, and, subject to the said legacies, and only upon the death or re-marriage of Testator's said wife (whichever event shall first happen), to pay the following pecuniary legacies, all to be free of duty—namely:

(a) To the Carlow Protestant Orphan Society, £200.

(b) To the Claremont Institute for the Education of the Deaf and Dumb at Glasnevin, Dublin, £100.

(c) To the Hibernian Bible Society, £100.

(d) To the Irish Auxiliary Branch of the Church Missionary Society, having its office at Dublin, £100.

(e) If said Trustees should, in their absolute and uncontrolled discretion, consider it wise and judicious to pay to the Trustee or Trustees for the time being of the Deighton Memorial Hall, Carlow, such sum, not exceeding £600, as will be sufficient to carry out the following work—namely: Raising the existing side wing of the said Hall sufficiently to provide apartments over the Hall, with entrance from the existing reading room, one apartment to be suitable for a billiard room and another for a museum and committee room, and two or more other rooms for such purposes as the said Trustees shall think fit, and improving the steps, railing and platform at the street entrance of the said Hall, and repairing and improving any other portion of the said Hall (in accordance with plans and estimates for such work to be obtained by said Testator's Trustees at the expense of Testator's estate before they exercise their discretion as to the propriety of expending the said sum up to £600). And, if Testator's Trustees should decide that the said £600 shall be expended as aforesaid, then as soon as the said works have been completed, or if his Trustees are satisfied that the same will be completed within a reasonable time, they may, should they think fit, pay over the said £600 to the Trustees of the said Hall, and may pay to such Trustees of said Hall the further sum of £400 upon trust to invest the same, and apply the income thereof for repairing and improving the said Hall.

4. And after the death or re-marriage of Testator's said wife (whichever event shall first happen) he bequeathed to the Commissioners of Charitable Donations and Bequests for Ireland, having their Office in Dublin, £2,000 upon trust, to invest the same and pay the income thereof to the Treasurer for the time being of the Select Vestry of Saint Mary's Church, Carlow, to be applied by him according to the direction of the Incumbent and People's Churchwarden of the said church for the benefit of deserving and necessitous members of the Church of Ireland resident in the Town or County of Carlow (but residents in the Town or Borough of Carlow to be preferred) in all or any of the following ways:—(1) By providing nursing for the sick and infirm and supplying them with food, fuel, clothes, linen or bedding; (2) by paying the travelling expenses of patients to or from any hospital, infirmary or institution in Ireland, for the treatment of any bodily infirmity; (3) by paying the cost (not exceeding £15) of providing an outfit or towards apprenticeship fees for any persons not exceeding 21 years of age, who may require such outfit or apprenticeship upon entering upon any trade or occupation and is unable to bear the cost thereof; (4) by making loans or gifts not exceeding £15 to any person who, through no fault of their own, have become unable to support themselves or their families for the purpose of assisting them to start in business or to purchase tools or materials for their trades. And Testator directed that such Treasurer shall once in every year, at least, furnish to the said Select Vestry an account of the application of the said income, and in every such account shall be entitled to deduct and be paid and have credit for such sum as the said Select Vestry shall from time to time think fit, as a fee for his services in connection with the administration of the said income.

5. And upon the death or re-marriage of Testator's said wife (whichever event shall first happen) he bequeathed the following further legacies, namely:—To the Adelaide Hospital, Dublin; St. Vincent's Hospital, Dublin; the Rotunda Hospital, Dublin; the Royal Hospital for Incurables, Dublin, and the National Hospital for Consumption, Newcastle, County Wicklow, £1,000 each, upon conditions that each such hospital who shall accept such bequest shall set apart and maintain in perpetuity a bed therein, to be called "The Deighton Bed," and distinguished by the name thereof engraved upon a brass plate and affixed at the head of the bed, and shall at all times, if so required, maintain and medically treat in such hospital without charge at least one patient from the Town or County of Carlow, to be recommended by the Incumbent and People's Churchwarden for the time being of St. Mary's Parish, Carlow, and, so that such patient shall, if convenient, occupy the said bed, but so that if the said bed be already occupied another shall be provided instead. And to the Maternity Hospital, Holles street, Dublin, £1,000, in memory of Testator's late friend, Sir Andrew Horne, M.D., for the purpose of expending same in or towards the erection of a new nurses' home, to be attached to or used in connection with said last-mentioned hospital within four years (from death or re-marriage of said Testator's wife), and, if not erected by that time, then for the general purposes of said last-mentioned hospital on like condition as to a bed in the other hospitals aforesaid. And to the Meath Hospital, Dublin, and the Children's Hospital, Harcourt street, Dublin, £500 each, and to the Rest for the Dying, Camden Row, Dublin, £300; to the Old Men's Asylum, Northbrook road, Dublin, £500; to the Sick and Indigent Roomkeepers' Society, Dublin, £300; and to the Mission to Lepers, Dublin, £300, and Saint Ultan's Infant Hospital, 37 Charlemont street, Dublin, £500.

6. If Testator's Trustees shall decide that the addition therein before-mentioned to the Deighton Memorial Hall shall be carried out as aforesaid, then, and in that event, Testator bequeathed to the Trustees for the time being of such hall, for purposes of forming a nucleus for a museum, his old coins and any foreign coins and curiosities, his old Irish silver sugar bowl and tongs, his Waterford glass bowl, his old china, and also his personal family portraits, namely, of his mother, himself and his two sisters, in one group, and of his grandfather, grandmother and father, in separate frames, all executed by Frith, R.A.; the views of the said hall before and after renewal and the framed address presented to said Testator by the Parish of Carlow when he made over the said hall for the use of the parishioners. And if his Trustees shall think fit to also include in such gifts the inlaid cabinet and bureau in the drawingroom, the bureau in the lounge, and the roll-top desk in the billiard room, respectively, at Coolarne, for the Museum and Committee Room in the said Deighton Hall, and also any other Pictures, and any of his Books which his Trustees may think fit for the purposes of the said Hall. And he directed that the Legacy Duty (if any) upon all the said articles, and the cost of packing and conveying the same to Carlow, shall be paid out of the residue of his estate.

7. And on the death or re-marriage of his said Wife, the Testator bequeathed to the Trustees of the Life Boat Institution, London, £200, free of duty, to be applied by them for the benefit of the Irish Free State Life Boat Stations and for equipment thereof, and towards upkeep and working thereof, the receipt of the Honorary Treasurer or of said Trustees of such Institution to be a sufficient discharge therefor to his Executors.

8. And the said Testator devised and bequeathed the residue of his property and investments therefor, including the surplus income accumulations aforesaid, in equal shares to (a), (b), and (c), three persons therein named, (d) the Carlow Protestant Orphan Society (e) the Claremont Institution, Glasnevin, for Deaf and Dumb, aforesaid; (f) the Molyneux Asylum for the Blind of Ireland, situate at Leeson Park, Dublin; (g) the Richmond National Institution for the Blind, Upper Sackville street, Dublin; (h) the Manager for the time being of the National Schools in Barrack street, Carlow (No. 11325), in trust for the use and benefit of the said Schools; and (i) the Dublin Branch of the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, Molesworth street, Dublin. And if any of the said three persons (a), (b), and (c), should predecease said Testator, he devised and bequeathed the share of him or her so dying of and in such residue to his other residuary legatees and devisees aforesaid in equal shares.

9. The Testator declared that the receipt of the Treasurer for the time being of any Hospital, Society, Convent, Hall, School, or Institution, aforesaid, shall be a sufficient discharge to his Executors and Trustees for the amount of any Legacy thereinbefore bequeathed to any such Hospital, Society, Convent, Hall, School, or Institution.

10. In case of failure (if any) of any Charitable Trust or provision aforesaid, the said Testator appointed the Right Reverend the Lord Bishop of Ferns and Leighlin to be his residuary devisee and legatee.

And Probate of which Will was granted on 6th June, 1932, to Elizabeth Fleetwood Deighton, of Coolarne, aforesaid, Widow; Henry Gregory Ryder, of 106 Pembroke road, Ballsbridge, Dublin, Esquire; and Edwin Boake, of Grace Ville, Carlow, Co. Carlow, Farmer, the Executors and Trustees named in his said Will, forth of the Principal Registry of the High Court of Justice, Saorstat Eireann.

Dated this 8th June, 1932.

MEDICAL APPOINTMENTS.

THE INDIAN MEDICAL SERVICE.

The Secretary of State for India in Council proposes to make a number of appointments to permanent commissions in His Majesty's Indian Medical Service. The Selection Committee will meet at the India Office early in July to consider applications.

Well qualified medical men of European descent (British subjects), under 32 years of age, who desire to be considered, should apply to the Under Secretary of State for India, Military Department, India Office, for forms of application, regulations and other particulars. Envelopes should be marked on the top left hand corner "Medical Recruitment."

The selected candidates will be required to undergo a course of instruction in this country, commencing early in August, 1932, prior to sailing for India early in 1933.

PERENNIAL BELLFLOWERS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Garden Correspondent says:—

Both blue and white varieties of Campanula persicaefolia, the peach-leaved Bellflower, are well-known subjects for the hardy flower border, but the very superior white form, Moerheimi, is a great advance, and may well replace the original. Campanula celtidifolia is a fine thing in its much taller heads of pale blue, while Telham Beauty, also tall, in its huge, pale china blue, has not inaptly been called king of the tribe. All named are free-growing and the better for replanting outside growths from the stools. The Chinese Campanula punctata, white with red spots "innards," is a rare plant worth having, and possible to have from advertisers in the daily edition. Campanula pyramidalis, the Chimney Campanula, is a noble plant for pots in the greenhouse with a five-foot central spike, and readily perpetuated by offsets.

POULTRY, CAGE BIRDS, DAIRY.

HOW LATE CAN WE HATCH FOR WINTER?

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says:—

It may be asked how late can we hatch so as to have eggs in winter. Several things have to be considered to give a correct answer to this question. We know that the general impression is that pullets should be seven or eight months old before they commence to lay, but even this is not a fixed rule. Some breeds will lay much sooner than others, and stimulating food will hasten laying, so that from pedigree-bred Leghorns we may have eggs in five months; we know they frequently lay in four. Of course, if the birds are not properly matured they will never grow large, as laying stops growth, and the eggs will be small; but, if this is no consideration, we can have eggs in December from pullets of this kind hatched in June. The season makes some difference in the length of time necessary for maturing, so that birds that would lay in five months if hatched in March, might take six months if hatched in June, and seven months later.

DEBTORS ACT REQUIREMENTS.

KILLARNEY COLLECTOR'S BOND.

The hearing was concluded of an appeal in the case of the Killarney Urban District Council against John Scully, rate collector; John Kenny, hotel proprietor; Edmond McEnery, Patrick Lynch, shopkeeper, and Daniel McMonagle, printer, all of Killarney.

This was an appeal by the defendant, John Kenny, from an order made by Mr. Justice Hanna on the trial of an issue, whether John Kenny executed a bond and warrant of attorney, dated September 21st, 1929, whereby he, together with Edmond McEnery, Patrick Lynch and Daniel McMonagle, went security to the amount of £750 for John Scully, rent and rate collector to the Killarney Urban Council.

Mr. Justice Hanna found that the bond and warrant of attorney was executed by John Kenny, and that the requirements of Section 23 of the Debtors (Ireland) Act were complied with in connection with the execution and attestation of the warrant. He thereupon made an order giving liberty to the Killarney Urban Council to issue execution for the sum of £396—the amount of the deficiency in Scully's collection—together with costs against Kenny and McEnery. From this decision Kenny appealed.

The Court unanimously held that, in signing the bond, the appellant had not such independent advice as was contemplated by the statute. They allowed the appeal with costs, the judgment against the appellant to be vacated, and the judgment and execution set aside.

Mr. FitzGibbon, K.C., and Mr. Bacon (instructed by Mr. Anthony Carroll) appeared for the appellant; and Mr. Phelps, K.C., Mr. FitzGerald, K.C., and Mr. Sweeny (instructed by Mr. D. C. Mangan) for the respondents.

"THE TRUE STORY OF MICHAEL COLLINS."

DUBLIN AUTHOR'S ACTION AGAINST NEWSPAPER.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE MEREDITH.)

An application for leave to issue a writ for service out of the jurisdiction was made in relation to an action in which the plaintiff is Mr. Piaras Beaslai, the well-known Irish author and journalist, and the defendants are the Dublin Wholesale News Agency, Ltd., 73 Middle Abbey street, Dublin, and Allied Newspapers, Ltd., having their registered offices at Withy Grove, Manchester.

Mr. Dickie, K.C., with whom were Mr. A. E. Wood, K.C., and Mr. Gearoid O'Sullivan (instructed by Mr. Michael Noyk), said that the application was for liberty to issue a writ for service out of the jurisdiction on the defendants, Allied Newspapers, Ltd. It was a pressing matter, in which an application would be made for an injunction.

The Sunday Chronicle newspaper was publishing articles which plaintiff alleges have been taken out of his book, "Michael Collins and the Making of a New Ireland," and plaintiff said that great harm would be done unless there was an injunction to restrain the proprietors, Allied Newspapers, Ltd.

Counsel referred to the affidavit of Mr. Beaslai, who stated that he is a journalist and author, and has published several books and plays, including the book the subject matter of the action. He is also a retired officer of the Free State Army, having retired on pension with the rank of Major-General, and he had also been a member of Dail Eireann. In 1922 he was requested by the then Provisional Government, and subsequently by the Executive Council of the Irish Free State, to compile a life story of the late General Michael Collins, who as Commander-in-Chief of the National Army was killed in ambush in County Cork on 22nd August, 1922. This work he (Mr. Beaslai) duly compiled, and it was published in November, 1926, by the Phœnix Publishing Company, Dublin. The work of compilation occupied upwards of three years, and he had at his disposal the documents in possession of the Government and of the friends and relatives of General Collins.

"For the six years prior to his death—which were the most important in his public career—I was his intimate and confidential friend, and occupied under him such posts as member of G.H.Q. and Director of Publicity of Oglaigh na hEireann and editor of An tOglach, the official publication of such organisation," the affidavit proceeded. "During the three years 1923-26 I gave my entire thought and time to the preparation of the work, which entailed, among other matters, many journeys throughout this country and England to interview persons and examine papers which would be helpful in my work, 'Michael Collins and the Making of a New Ireland,' which was published in two volumes. I hold the copyright."

The affidavit described how the plaintiff bought a copy of the Sunday Chronicle, in which what purported to be "The True Story of Michael Collins, written for the first time," is appearing. He alleged that the four instalments which appeared on May 15th, 22nd and 29th, and June 5th were taken from his publication, and are a breach of his copyright. The continued publication of such articles, he alleged, was likely seriously to interfere with the sale of his publication.

Mr. Justice Meredith gave liberty to issue the writ for service out of the jurisdiction.

USE OF EXPLOSIVES.

DAMAGES AGAINST COUNTY COUNCIL.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE SULLIVAN AND A JURY.)

The hearing of the case of Thomas Bourke and his wife, Hannah Bourke, of Currane, Co. Tipperary, against the Tipperary County Council (North Riding) was concluded. The plaintiffs claimed damages for injury to their property, and the female plaintiff claimed damages for personal injuries, arising out of the alleged negligence of the defendants in carrying out blasting operations in a quarry at Lackenavorna during October and November, 1929, and from October, 1930, until April, 1931.

The defendants denied negligence, and further pleaded estoppel.

The jury found for the plaintiffs, and awarded them jointly damages amounting to £300 and to the plaintiff, Mrs. Hanna Bourke, £75. They added an expression of opinion that there should be stricter supervision in the use of explosives.

Mr. Finlay, on behalf of the defendants, gave an undertaking that there would not be any further explosions.

Mr. Binchy, for the plaintiffs, said that that was far more satisfactory than if they got an injunction.

Mr. Binchy, K.C., and Mr. Esmonde (instructed by Mr. St. J. R. England) appeared for the plaintiffs; and the Attorney-General, Mr. Finlay, K.C., and Mr. Art O'Connor (instructed by Mr. Patrick McGrath) for the defendants.

DUBLIN BUILDER'S WILL.

WIDOW'S OPPOSITION FAILS.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE HANNA AND A JURY.)

The hearing of the probate suit of Thomas J. Greene, solicitor, of 11 Wellington quay, Dublin, and John Collins, solicitor's assistant, of 11 Sarsfield street, Berkeley road, Dublin, against Mrs. Margaret McHale, of 51 Raymond street, South Circular road, Dublin, was concluded. The plaintiffs, as executors, claimed to have established the will of 23rd February, 1928, of Richard McHale, a retired builder, late of 119 Emmet road, Kilmainham, Dublin, who died on 10th March, 1931. The defendant, who is the widow of the testator, opposed the will on the three usual statutory grounds.

Mr. Rice, K.C., Mr. Reardon, K.C., and Miss Moran (instructed by Messrs. Roger Greene and Sons) appeared for the plaintiffs; and Mr. Costello, K.C., Mr. Finlay, K.C., and Mr. Fausitt (instructed by Messrs. James O'Connor and Co.) for the defendant.

The jury found in favour of the will.

Mr. Justice Hanna decreed probate of the will in solemn form. He allowed the costs of the executors out of the estate, but made no order about the costs of Mrs. McHale.

THE TAILTEANN GAMES.

PUBLIC BANQUET ON OPENING DAY.

Mr. D. J. Burke, chairman, presided at a meeting in Dublin of the Organising Committee to promote a public banquet in commemoration of the opening of the Tailteann Games. Those present included Messrs. M. W. O'Reilly, L. C. Cuffe, Professor J. P. Drew, Vincent Crowley, P. J. Lawrence, Kevin J. Kenny, Denis Barrett, C. J. Joyce, F. M. Summerfield, M. P. Rowan, T. M. Murphy, C. E. McConnell, M. J. Campbell and W. Lacey.

Mr. P. J. Lawrence was appointed vice-chairman, Mr. Vincent Crowley hon. treasurer, and Messrs. C. E. McConnell and W. Lacey hon. secretaries.

Apologies for non-attendance were received from the following, who have consented to act on the committee and use their influence for the support of the banquet:—Messrs. M. Maguire, K.C.; T. E. Brindley, J. Harold Aylward, A. M. Pearson, Westropp Bennett (Chairman of the Senate), E. Bohane (R.D.S.), J. J. Shiel (chairman, General Council of County Councils), S. P. Callahan, Sean Collins, W. Davin, T.D.; P. Floyd (G.S.R.), F. Fahy (Ceann Comhairle).

A public banquet formed one of the distinctive features of the Games in 1924 and 1928, and in each instance was the occasion of a distinguished gathering of the Irish race from at home and abroad.

The Committee have undertaken the organisation of the forthcoming banquet in order to give the citizens of Dublin and visitors an opportunity of showing their appreciation of the efforts of the General Council of Aonach Tailteann, and, incidentally of paying tribute to its director, Mr. J. J. Keane, for his life-long devotion to the development of athletics and national games.

The banquet will be held at the Gresham Hotel on Wednesday, 29th June, the evening of the opening day of the Tailteann Games.

BUILDING & RECONSTRUCTION

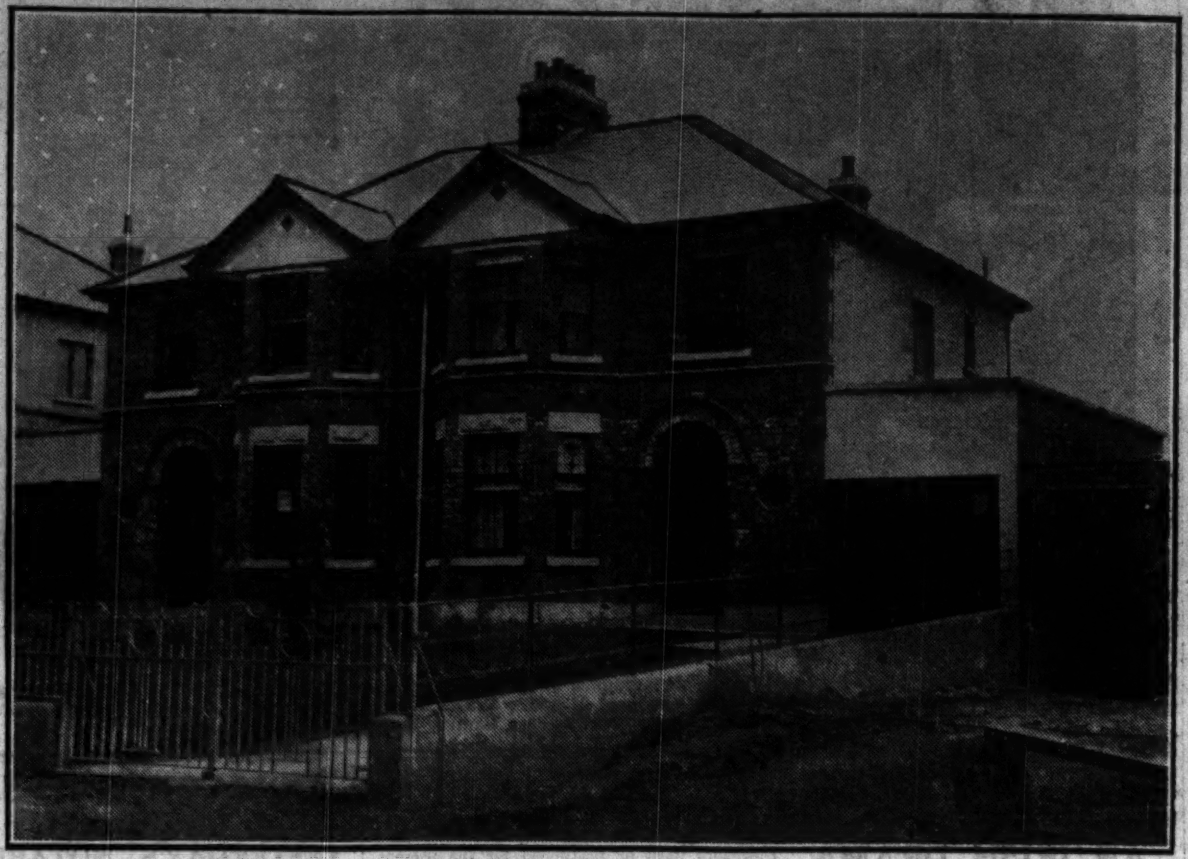
BUILDING ALL-BRICK HOUSES AT DRUMCONDRA.



The modern semi-detached houses built by Mr. Patrick Cronin on the Sion Hill Estate at Grace Park road, off Griffith avenue, Drumcondra, are entirely of brick, walls and partitions according to pre-war standard, with red brick fronts, Dublin granite sills and heads to windows, and slated roofs.

Every essential detail has been embraced in the construction to make the houses model labour-saving residences, and the elimination of passages and waste spaces affords the maximum floor space.

On the ground floor there is a drawing-room, diningroom, breakfast room, kitchenette, scullery, and cloakroom, and a pine floor hall. On the first floor are three large bedrooms, bathroom, separate lavatory.

Electric light and gas supplies are laid on.

There is a large garage and ample accommodation for coals, and an outside lavatory.

The frontage is 31ft. and the depth 213, affording large garden spaces.

The houses were built under the practical supervision of the builder-owner, Mr. Cronin, to the designs of Messrs. Higginbotham and Stafford, architects, Clare street, Dublin.

The houses are situated on a high, healthy site, convenient to trams, 'buses, churches and schools.

The following firms are responsible for the work and materials mentioned:—

Messrs. Brooks, Thomas Co.—Facing bricks, slates, cased window frames and sashes, leaded glazing, cement and plaster, etc.

Messrs. T. and C. Martin, Ltd.—Doors, screens, Hope's steel sashes, etc.

Messrs. Baxendale—Tiled surrounds, grates and mantels, baths and rainwater goods.

Messrs. Smith and Pearson—Villa railings, gates and fencing.

Messrs. Thomas Dockrell and Sons—Sanitary fittings.

PLANS FOR BUILDING WORKS IN DUBLIN.

The following plans for new buildings and works of reconstruction have been approved by Mr. Horace T. O'Rourke, City Architect, Dublin Corporation:—

25-27 Exchequer street (additions)—James J. Nicholls.

Granby lane (shop)—Mrs. Susan Purcell.

53 Rathdown road (motor shed)—Richard Gough.

Alexandra road (office building)—Dublin Port Milling Co.

Clontarf road (three bungalows)—E. Casey.

Beresford lane (alterations and additions)—Brooks, Thomas and Co.

Bothar Mobhi (temporary bank office)—Bank of Ireland.

5 Beresford place (pantry)—James Smith.

15 Valentia road (extension to garage)—A. E. Boyd.

Charlemont road, Victoria Villas (9 garages)—Andrew W. Noble.

DUBLIN NOTES.

The Department of Local Government has informed the Dublin County Council of the allocation of a £16,000 grant towards the cost of maintenance of trunk and link roads in the county for 1932-33.

The Dublin Board of Public Health will, on 14th June, appoint a clerk of works at six guineas per week in connection with the Skerries sewerage scheme.

Dublin County Council has approved of the borrowing of £38,360 by the County Board of Health for improvement works. The proposed loans included £1,260 for a sewer along the Camac at Crumlin, £27,600 for the building of labourers' cottages in North Dublin, £3,000 for sewer extension in Balbriggan, and £6,500 in connection with Malahide sewerage scheme.

CLONMEL HOUSING EXPERIMENT.

Two experimental four-roomed houses have been included in a 32-house scheme carried out by the Clonmel Corporation. The main idea of this scheme has been to provide accommodation for persons of varying means.

The two experimental buildings are of special interest. They supply not a mere estimate of cost of erection, but a cost proved by practical experience. Their erection was undertaken by the contractors on the site at £208 5s. 0d. per house; the lavatory, an annexe, instead of occupying portion of one of the rooms, raised the price by £2 16s. 0d., so that as they stand the two houses cost to build the sum of £211 each. Fencing costs £10 per house, roads, sewers, water and footpaths, £17; acquisition of land, engineer's fees, etc., £7;—making the total all-in cost of each house £245. Loan charges on annuity system, assuming 6 per cent. to include sinking fund and interest, £14 13s.0d. per annum; repairs, £1 per annum, and insurance, collection of rent, etc., 10s. per annum—making a total charge per house £16 3s. 0d. per annum. From this is deducted £7 13s. 4d., made up of Government contribution, 30 per cent. of loan charges for 15 years, and 20 per cent. of loan charges for 15 years, £3 13s. 4d., and Corporation contribution £4, leaving the net rent per hous at £8 9s. 8d. per annum, or 3s. 3d. per week. Rates, estimated at 6d. per week, make the all-in rent 7s. 9d.

This house has a living-room 13ft. 6ins. – 12ft. 6ins., and is fitted with kitchen range, sink and drainer. The sizes of the three bedrooms are—13ft. 6in. x 8ft. 6in. (containing fireplace), 8ft. square, and 11ft. 3in. x 6ft. 3in. The ceilings are 8ft. high. The walls are built of concrete in situ 7in. thick, and the roof is asbestos slating. Partitions are of 3in. concrete breeze blocks. The outer walls are finished with cement. Interior walls are given one coat of plaster. The ceilings are of fibrous plaster slabs. The windows are large, and are in timber, with up and down sashes. These, as well as the doors and fibrous plaster slabs, were manufactured locally.

This is the type of house most favoured by the Corporation as being most suited to the capacity of the poorer classes to pay rent. The design has been adopted as standard for the scheme of 110 houses to be built by the Corporation on the Garrymore site.

GLASS BRICKS.

Glass bricks, so strong that stones would bounce off houses made of them, have been described to the American Institute.

They are said to be suitable for ornamental building and for lighting. "These bricks," it was stated, "have a high degree of heat resistance, and are somewhat stronger in compression than ordinary clay bricks. They admit light freely, but are so designed that outsiders cannot see into a building constructed of them." They will be used for decorative and ornamental effects, and will be especially useful for buildings with modern air conditioning, as they will permit full natural day-time lighting without the heat losses caused by most types of windows.

Monaghan County Board of Health accepted the tender of Mr. P. McEntee at £247 for repairs to Dawsongrove dispensary residence.

Mr. Glasgow moved that Mr. Clements's tender, at £1,545, be accepted. They were allowed to give 5 per cent. preference to a local man, and his tender was only three-fourths of one per cent. higher than the lowest. The motion was passed.

TENDERS FOR CO. CLARE HOSPITAL.

Clare Board of Health received the following ten tenders for the erection of a hospital on the site of the old Workhouse grounds at Ennistymon:—

Mr. Patrick McMahon, Ennis, £6,938.
Mr. Michael Gough, Limerick, £6,963.
Messrs. M. Doyle and Co., Limerick, £7,295.
Messrs. John Ryan and Son, Limerick, £7,478.
Messrs. Michael Linnane and Son, Ennistymon, £7,540.
Messrs. T. Kennedy and Sons, Galway, £7,739.
Messrs. P. Molloy and Sons, Limerick, £8,427.
Messrs. J. Kenny and Sons, Dublin, £10,370.
Messrs. O'Sullivan and Sons, Limerick, £10,612.
Messrs. McCaffrey and Carroll, Limerick, £10,619.

The tender of Mr. P. McMahon was unanimously accepted.

Subsequently, when the business of the meeting had nearly concluded, a tender was handed in marked "Ennistymon Hospital."

The Assistant Secretary (Mr. J. Griffey) said that the tender was late and could not be considered. He requested the Chairman to initial the envelope containing the tender, which he said would be returned unopened to the person who had sent it in. The postmark was "Galway," but the address of the person tendering would appear in the bill of quantities, which was returned under separate cover.

The Chairman marked the tender as requested, and also marked the time—1.15 p.m.—at which it had been received at the meeting.

THE ONE-PIPE SYSTEM.

At the Associated Master Plumbers' and Domestic Engineers' annual dinner in London, the new president, Mr. W. H. Stitson, said their attention would shortly be focussed on the one-pipe system. Their attitude towards this proposal could best be summed up in the resolution passed at their annual meeting:—

"This Association of Master Plumbers and Domestic Engineers (London) is agreed that the one-pipe system, as compared with the existing practice, will incur grave risk to public health, unless the work is carefully designed and properly carried out. It necessitates the introduction of a National Code of by-laws and a standard minimum specification with accompanying illustrations, together with the retention of the intercepting trap, and a form of licensing or registration of all persons undertaking, installing, supervising or inspecting sanitary work."

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT.

ALLEGED USE OF REVOLVER.

YOUNG MAN CHARGED.

(BEFORE MR. CUSSEN.)

Charged with attempting to obtain money by menaces, a young man named George Brack, of Dean's Grange, Dublin, who was alleged to have used a revolver, was remanded in custody until Saturday.

Evidence was given by William O'Loughlin, of 14 Dean's Grange, that as he was walking home along Stradbrook road at about 10.30 p.m. on the 28th ult. the accused man suddenly jumped over a wall at a bend in the road, produced a large revolver and told him to put his hands up, as he wanted money.

"I refused to put my hands up, and told him I had only fivepence," said the witness. "When I told him how much I had he jumped over the wall again and disappeared."

The witness, continuing, said that about ten days before that incident, in the village of Dean's Grange, he saw the accused man, who told him that he would "plug" anyone who would say anything about his being in the wood. He had a revolver in his hand on that occasion also.

Cross-examined by Mr. T. Maguire, solicitor for the defence, Mr. O'Loughlin said that Brack was not disguised when he jumped over the wall. The witness added that he had considerable experience of revolvers, having taken part in the 1916 movement.

Mr. Maguire then produced a toy revolver and the witness said that it was not the "gun" that was pointed at him.

John Sterry, of 4 Dean's Grange road, said that he had known the accused man for five years. On the 26th May he was gathering sticks near a wood at Dean's Grange when Brack came down to him, produced a "gun" and told him to put his hands up.

"I refused to do so," said witness, "and then Brack walked away and remarked that he would not be bothered killing me."

Michael Kavanagh, who was also gathering sticks, said that Brack came down to him, produced the revolver, and told him that he would "send him home with a wooden waistcoat."

Mr. T. Clarke, of the Chief State Solicitor's office, prosecuted.

ALLEGED "SWEEP" FRAUD.

A young man named Robert A. Pierce, of Louisville, Sutton, Co. Dublin, was remanded in custody, charged with forging an Irish Hospitals' sweepstake receipt in April last and uttering it to a Miss Smethurst, a cashier in Manchester.

Mr. T. Clarke (Chief State Solicitor's office) prosecuted, and Mr. Sean Ryan, solicitor, defended.

Mr. Renville Austin Edmunds, of Mardle Green road, Birmingham, said that in April last he received some books of tickets for the Irish sweepstake on the Derby, and gave one book to a friend of his, a Mr. Barton, who sold the tickets and gave him back the counterfoils and £5. He later sent Mr. Barton's counterfoils and his own, with a cheque for £12, to Mr. D. M. Pierce, the father of the defendant. He then got a receipt, which he thought was genuine, and handed it to Mr. Barton. The witness added that on the 26th May a representative of the Hospitals' Trust called on him, and they went together to Mr. Barton's house, where they got a receipt.

To Mr. Ryan—I did not know that anything was wrong with the receipt until the representative of the Trust called upon me.

INFORMATIONS REFUSED.

Informations were refused in a case in which Edward McDermott (52), of Gracepark avenue, Drumcondra, was charged with receiving sums of money amounting to about £27 from people in Dublin by representing that he was authorised to collect the money on behalf of Messrs. Sheridan Bros., D'Olier street.

In evidence, Mr. Sheridan said that, although the defendant had no authority from him to collect the money, a member of his firm had sent him receipt books.

Mr. Thomas Kerr, secretary of the firm, said that he had sent the recipt books to the defendant.

UNPAID TAXI-DRIVES.

When brought before the Court on remand, charged with refusing to pay the fare of £2 0s. 9d. for the use of a taxi-cab which brought him to various banks in Dublin and suburbs, a labourer named Charles Farrell, of Blackrock, was ordered to be sent to the Dublin Union.

At the previous hearing it was stated that Farrell, when arrested, had said that he had won first prize in the recent Derby sweepstake. A medical officer stated yesterday that Farrell was suffering from general paralysis.

NOT THE REAL STUFF.

A sentence of one month's imprisonment, with hard labour, was imposed on Thomas McLaughlin (54), of no fixed address, for breaking a plate-glass window in licensed premises in South Great George's street, and stealing a bottle of coloured water, valued at threepence, which represented whiskey.

DUBLIN CIRCUIT COURT.

JUDGMENT RESERVED.

(BEFORE JUDGE SHANNON.)

A claim for £300 damages for slander was made by Mary Anne Kenny, spinster, of Lugmore, Saggart, against Nicholas Healy, of Corballis, and Thomas Murphy, of Saggart, both farmers, the slander alleged being that the defendants made remarks over two years ago imputing unchastity to the plaintiff.

Mr. P. J. Roe (instructed by Messrs. O'Connor and Coonan, Naas) appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. William Black (instructed by Miss Helena M. Early) for the defendants.

The defence was a denial that the slander alleged was uttered.

Having heard the evidence, Judge Shannon reserved judgment.

Joseph Sheridan Le Fanu : Royal Artists : Mrs. Stocks.
Cricket in South America : Badgers.

An Eccentric Author.

A recent article on Joseph Sheridan Le Fanu, author of the recently produced "Carmilla," has prompted a correspondent to send me some supplementary details concerning the life and habits of this author, who seems to have been as eccentric as his later work was macabre.

During the last years of his life, writes my correspondent, Sheridan Le Fanu never left his Merrion square home save by night, and then only by necessity. He had evolved a regular system of work. He never rose until about mid-day, when he sat down to work in a sunless room at a small desk which had belonged to his grandfather, Richard Brinsley Sheridan. He worked on until about midnight, when he retired to bed. By his bedside was a small table, on which were two candles, one of which was always burning—so that he could immediately resume work on waking. At 2 a.m. he would brew strong tea, and then, in the stillness of the small hours, he would execute some of his eeriest work.

A Strange Dream.

Much of the macabre detail of "Green Tea," "Carmilla" and his last works was the fruit of these half-waking, half-sleeping imaginings. Indeed, Le Fanu seems deliberately to have adopted the hermit-like life of his last years in order that his mind would be freer to run in these morbid channels—as it was not in his younger days, when he was described as "the beau ideal of an Irish wit and scholar of the old school." This life resulted in the slight unbalancing of his mind during his last illness. In the last weeks of this illness he was constantly haunted by a strange dream. He was standing before an old house—he wrote of many such houses himself. The house seemed to totter, but always he awakened in time to avoid being overwhelmed in the falling wreckage. Always he screamed and writhed and awoke in terror. When his death came he was sleeping—he screamed and writhed in the accustomed manner, but this time he did not wake. Had the house of his imaginings crushed him at last?

Royal Artists.

The recent visit to Dublin of Prince Georges Chavchavadge, who is rapidly making a name for himself as a concert pianist, reminds me that art is well represented in royal circles to-day. Among the recent exhibitors at the Royal Hibernian Academy show in Dublin, for instance, was Princess Patricia Ramsay, daughter of the Duke of Connaught, and cousin of the King. Prince William, brother of the King of Sweden, too, is an artist with a European reputation. One of the Infantas of Spain is also a skilful painter, and before the revolution used to spend many hours copying pictures of the old Spanish masters in the Prado Gallery, Madrid. Prince Urach, Count of Wurtemburg, who is at present exhibiting in London, is another clever and versatile young artist, who actually refused the succession to the Principality of Monaco because he preferred to follow his profession as a painter. He is third cousin of the Prince of Wales, and connected with most of the royal families of Europe; and he takes his art very seriously, and has an increasing reputation.

South American Cricketers.

The All Indian cricketers are not the only tourists of whom the present season can boast. On May 25th last a South American team—composed of English cricketers resident in the Argentine, Brazil and Chile—opened a short tour with a match against Worcestershire. The captain of the side is C. H. Gibson, the old Etonian and Cambridge "Blue," and the programme arranged for the side comprises matches with a few of the first-class counties, some of the leading clubs and Service sides, and one or two country-house games. The tour will extend to the middle of July, ending with a match against Sir Alfred McAlpine's XI. on his charmingly situated ground at Marchwiel Hall, near Wrexham. In following the side's performances during the tour cricketers must remember that opportunities for the game are decidedly limited in the Argentine and the other South American Republics, where matches are confined to Saturday afternoons and Sundays.

The best of South American cricketers come from the Argentine, and the best of the Argentine players have been, and are, British by extraction. Perhaps, the finest player in the history of the game in South America was H. G. Garnett, of Lancashire, who played many good innings in the North v. South games, and against Lord Hawke's team that toured South America in 1912. Since the conclusion of the War teams led by Mr. P. F. Warner and Sir Julian Cahn have visited South America.

Honour for Mrs. Stocks.

Mrs. Stocks, who gave an interesting address at the recent annual conference of the Alexandra College Guild, has been honoured again by the British Government. She has been appointed one of the two women to sit on the Royal Commission which is to inquire into the question of lotteries and betting in Great Britain, owing to the many anomalies in the existing law. Her colleague is Lady Emmott, president of the Central Council for the Social Welfare of Girls and Women in London. This is not the first time when Mrs. Stocks has been called to deliberate on important social questions. She was a member of the committee on methods of dealing with persistent offenders.

Mrs. Stocks, who made her name as Miss Mary Danvers Brinton, is a magistrate and a Bachelor of Science and lecturer in economics at King's College, London. Her husband is the former international hockey player, John Leofric Stocks, now Professor of Philosophy in Manchester University, and they have one son and two daughters.

Badgers Raiding Fowlhouses.

I wonder (writes a correspondent) if any of your readers can tell whether badgers are in the habit of raiding fowlhouses. A fowlhouse belonging to friends of mine, and quite close to their dwelling-house, was broken into. A large hole had been made in the wooden door, and four hens and two ducks were killed. They were not eaten, though all were badly torn and left lying where they had been killed. The owner could not think what animal had done the damage, and suspected dogs or foxes.

On the following evening they waited for the thief, and just at dusk our friend "Brock" came along and was caught red-handed in the same fowlhouse. He ignominiously ended his career of crime.

This happened about six weeks ago. My friends repaired the door and hoped that the danger was over. They have been undeceived, as the same thing happened again last week, when a hole was torn in the door, and two hens were killed in the same way. This time the thief has not shown himself, but there is not much doubt who the murderer is. I have heard of badgers killing young rabbits and robbing nests on the ground, but never that they killed full-grown fowl in a house.

SUBSCRIPTIONS AND APPEALS.

THE HELEN BRADSHAW MEMORIAL FUND—A CHALLENGE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The above fund, to which many Irish friends subscribed, has now reached £1,000, and the annual interest therefrom, about £50, is available for the partial support of a missionary to be sent out under the scheme to China. Miss M. Burrows hopes to sail in the coming autumn for Kwangsi-Hunan as the first Bradshaw Memorial missionary. The full allowances of a missionary amount to £150 per annum, so that £100 is still needed for Miss Burrows's annual support.

A friend has offered a sum of £10, provided that the remainder of the £90 required for her first year's support be raised before July 31st, 1932. Contributions, large or small, will be gladly received at the office of the Hibernian Auxiliary, Church of England Zenana Missionary Society, 11 Hume street, Dublin.—Yours, etc.,

G. BROWNE, Secretary.

ANOTHER SOVIET INTERNAL LOAN.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MOSCOW, Wednesday.

The Soviet authorities have promulgated a decree for the issue of a State internal loan, to be called "The Loan of the Fourth Concluding Year of the Five Years' Plan," to the amount of 3,200,000,000 roubles, redeemable in ten years.

In so doing, says the Tass Agency, they emphasise the success that has attended former internal loans of a similar nature.

EMPIRE SHIPPING FOR EMPIRE TRADE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

WELLINGTON, Wednesday.

The question of foreign competition with British shipping will be raised at the Ottawa Conference by the New Zealand delegation, said Mr. Forbes, the Premier, to-day.

Having shut out British vessels from the Hawaiian-United States trade, a deputation from the Navy League pointed out, American shipping lines, backed by enormous Government subsidies, had been enabled to follow British vessels into their own waters, where they were competing freely in the trade between Fiji, New Zealand and Australia. The deputation also claimed that much lower wages conditions existed on board American vessels as compared with New Zealand and Australian standards.

SAPPING AMERICA'S GOLD.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Wednesday.

The enactment of the 1,100,000,000 dollar Revenue Bill has not stopped the drain of America's gold reserves, as to-day's daily return of the Federal Reserve Board shows.

This reveals that during the past 24 hours 30,171,000 dollars have been engaged for export. Over half of it is bound for France. England is taking only 50,000 dollars.

BETWEEN THE ACTS.

AN IRISH DRAMA LEAGUE.

LONDON'S REPERTORY THEATRES.

BY OUR THEATRE CORRESPONDENT.

THE suggestion recently made in this column that there should be some organisation for the guidance and assistance of Irish amateur dramatic societies is likely to bear fruit this year. Tentative steps have been taken with that object in view, and a meeting of representatives of all amateur dramatic societies in Ireland is to be convened in Dublin during the progress of the Tailteann Dramatic Art Competitions. The ten societies which will be competing in that competition would, even if no other support were immediately forthcoming, be sufficient to launch an Irish Drama League with every prospect of success; and if all the amateur dramatic societies in and around Dublin joined the movement a very strong organisation would be at once assured. There can be no doubt that a central organisation is badly needed by Irish amateur dramatic societies, and it will be a great thing if such an organisation is actually in being by the beginning of the next theatrical season. As a beginning, societies should arrange to be adequately represented at the preliminary meeting.

CONNACHT DRAMA LEAGUE.

In the meantime, the recently formed Connacht Drama League has got to business in the most practical manner. At its meeting a week ago there were representatives of six societies, and it was decided to support in every way the formation of an Irish Drama League when a gathering for that purpose assembles. It was plainly realised, as one of the Executive Committee said at the Sligo meeting, that "through the aid of the Drama League much could be done in the interests of the drama, and of the amateur dramatic societies, particularly in regard to the selection of plays, and in securing the reduction of acting fees." The provision of a library of plays, and about plays, the gradual accumulation of stage settings for the plays available, the possession of costumes which could be hired at low rates, and the employment of a competent producer who could give service to such societies as were willing to pay for them, are all of greater and more immediate importance than the reduction of acting fees. Playwrights have to exist before they can write plays, and if they are to continue in existence they must receive adequate remuneration for their work.

It is with the utmost regret that all connected with the theatre in Ireland will hear that Whitford Kane cannot be one of the judges at the Tailteann Dramatic contest. It was thought that the exigencies of his work in America would have permitted him to visit Dublin this year, but he has now informed the committee that he is reluctantly compelled to forgo the visit. Whitford Kane is an Irish actor and producer of distinction, who made his first appearance on the stage in Belfast in 1903. He was a member of Miss Horniman's famous company at the Manchester Gaiety, and also spent some time at the Liverpool Repertory Theatre, before his departure for the United States in 1912. In the United States his reputation is very high, and he has occupied academic positions in leading American cities. Last year he published a charming autobiography entitled "Are We All Met?" in which he reveals the inner history of some important theatrical enterprises. All connected with the theatre in Ireland would have been glad to have him with them again, but that pleasure must be postponed for the present. It is possible that the famous London producer and actor, Mr. Tyrone Guthrie, will take Whitford Kane's place as adjudicator.

UNIVERSITY SOCIETIES.

The really excellent production of Reginald Berkeley's chronicle play, "The Lady with a Lamp," which was given at the Gate Theatre last week by the Dublin University Elizabethan Dramatic Society, sets me speculating as to the reason for the absence of all the university dramatic societies from the Tailteann Dramatic Art Competition. There would seem to be no obvious reason for their absence from the competition, and their presence would have done much to raise the standards. At least the presence of the Dublin University Elizabethan Dramatic Society would have raised the standards both of plays and acting, but probably the other university dramatic societies could have had no such confidence. Whatever may be the explanation, it is certainly a pity that the societies from the two Dublin university colleges should not come into open competition with other amateur dramatic societies, as does that from the Queen's University in Belfast. In the future, perhaps, the Dublin University Elizabethan Dramatic Society, the familiar D.U.D.S. and the U.C.D. Dramatic Society, together with companies from Cork and Galway University Colleges will be confident enough to try their powers against all comers.

It is a striking coincidence that at the very time that Lord Longford's dramatised version of Sheridan Le Fanu's grim story, "In a Glass Darkly," was being acted in the Dublin Gate Theatre, under the title "Carmilla," there should have been a film version shown in a Berlin cinema under the title "Vampire." The film is said to have caused a sensation in Berlin, although there was nothing novel in its development or its photography. It is reported that Herr Dreher, who directed the film, "has managed to depict the acting of dreadful figures with blood-curdling eerieness." In contrast with the Gate Theatre play, which was talkative enough to satisfy the requirements of the stage, the film is reported to have had "very little talking; weird noises 'off' best characterise the sound accompaniment." The film is summed up as "rather a disappointment;" all who are familiar with Le Fanu's story must have come from the Gate Theatre with rather similar opinions of the play. The story is ghastly enough to defeat both stage and screen in any attempts to transfer its horrors from the printed page and the imagination of the reader to "thrills" by ear and eye.

GILBERT AND SHAW.

Next week the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company will give its third and last series of performances of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas at the Gaiety Theatre. These operas are as enjoyable to-day as they were thirty or more years ago, and a brilliant company adds greatly to the enjoyment. At the Abbey Theatre the play for next week will be "John Bull's Other Island," which was first given to the Abbey Theatre as Bernard Shaw's offering to the Irish Dramatic Movement, but had to be refused because the theatre had not the resources at the time to stage it adequately. It has now been included in the repertory for many years, and is always worth seeing. At the Theatre Royal Hippodrome there will be the usual first-class vaudeville programme, and Olympia patrons will have another excellent variety show at that popular house. The Capitol policy of giving half its programme to variety "turns" proved popular, and it is being continued next week. Within the next few weeks the always attractive Rathmines and Rathgar Musical Society will present "Monsieur Beaucaire" at the Gaiety Theatre, with a cast of well-known Dublin singers and actors.

YESTERDAY'S WEDDINGS.

MR. G. ROBINSON AND MISS M. KENNEDY.

At Kill Church, County Kildare, the marriage took place yesterday morning of Mr. George Robinson, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Robinson, Phepotstown, Kilcock, County Kildare, and Miss Maeve Kennedy, second daughter of the late Mr. Edward Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy, Bishopscourt, County Kildare.

The ceremony was performed by the Very Rev. Andrew Macardle, S.J., Gardiner street, Dublin, assisted by the Rev. J. Byrne, parish priest, Kill, County Kildare. Sir Francis Brooke, Baronet, a cousin of the bride, gave her away. Her beautiful wedding gown of white silk marocain was designed on graceful lines. From a wreath of real orange blossom, which came from Palmerston Gardens, her veil of exquisite Limerick lace, which had been lent by her mother for the occasion, fell over her gown, and instead of the customary bridal bouquet she carried a white kid prayer book.

There were two bridesmaids—Miss Clodagh Kennedy, sister of the bride, and Miss Gwen McCormack, daughter of Count and Countess McCormack. They each wore pretty frocks of gladioli pink marocain, and beige silk lace; small silk hats to tone completed their toilettes, and they carried bouquets of blue hydrangea. Mr. Edward Higgins acted as best man.

After the ceremony the bride's mother held a small reception at Bishopscourt, and later in the day the bride and bridegroom left for their honeymoon. The bride travelled in a navy blue and white tailored suit, with a smart white hat, and silver fox furs.

MR. J. T. BLUNDEN AND MISS K. J. McGEARY.

AT the Church of the Holy Name, Beechwood avenue, Ranelagh, Dublin, the marriage took place early yesterday of Mr. John Trevor Blunden, second son of the late Mr. John Edward Blunden, Belgrave Park, and Mrs. Blunden, Leeson street, Dublin, and Miss Kathleen Josephine McGeary, younger daughter of Mr. Patrick and Mrs. McGeary, "Avoca," Albany road, Ranelagh, Dublin. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. J. Kane, C.C., Beechwood avenue.

The bride was given away by her father, while Miss Jenny Blunden was the only bridesmaid, and Mr. Maurice Blunden acted as best man.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was given at the Royal Hibernian Hotel, where later the bride and bridegroom left for their honeymoon, which will be spent in the South of England.

CAPTAIN D. CORRY AND MISS M. C. DONNELLY.

The Rev. Patrick Loughran, St. Peter's, Scarborough, officiated, assisted by the Rev. M. J. Kennedy, C.F.; the Rev. M. Dillon, P.P., Kinnegad; the Rev. P. Dunne, C.C., Castletown; the Rev. J. Kelvin, C.C., Coole, and the Rev. J. A. Cogavin, at the marriage in St. Patrick's Church, Monkstown, County Dublin, yesterday, of Captain Daniel Corry, the well-known member of the Free State Army jumping team, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Corry, Loughrea, County Galway, and Miss Mary Claire Donnelly, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Donnelly, Kinnegad, Westmeath. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a lovely gown of white satin, with a long veil of tulle, held to the head with bunches of orange blossom. Her sheaf bouquet was composed of Harrisi lilies and fern.

Miss Lily Donnelly, Miss Maureen Donnelly, and Miss Maureen Corry were the bridesmaids. They each wore pretty frocks of gold satin, with coatees of gold brocade, and Dutch caps of pink lace, while their bouquets were of pale pink carnations and asparagus fern.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Salthill Hotel, Monkstown, and later the bride and bridegroom left for London, where their honeymoon will be spent.

TRAFFIC IN CONGRESS WEEK.

The bill introduced in the Dail yesterday by Mr. J. Geoghegan, K.C., Minister for Justice, to make certain modifications in the law for the purposes of the Eucharistic Congress, provides for the exemption from motor car duty of omnibuses imported for use during the Congress period. It also gives the Commissioner of Civic Guards power to make regulations in the City and County of Dublin as to the control of traffic with a view to preventing obstruction.

It is also proposed that exemption orders may be made by a judge on application, if satisfied that it is in the public interest, enabling licensed houses to continue business outside the usual hours. In this connection exemption may be granted to hotels and restaurants in the neighbourhood of Dublin. Special regulations will also be made with regard to the issue of occasional licences. Nothing in the Licensing Acts of 1833 to 1929 shall be deemed to prohibit or restrict during the Congress period the sale of intoxicating liquor on vessels moored in the harbour of Dublin for the Congress to persons bona fide residing on such vessels.

COLLEGE RACES.

YESTERDAY'S NOTABLE GATHERING.

THE old-time spirit of the College Races was brought back to the minds of many when yesterday afternoon the members of the Dublin University Harriers and Athletic Club held their annual event. Favoured by ideal weather, the fixture was most successful from first to last. The sloping banks were filled with those who took up an advantageous position early in the afternoon, while the rows of seats arranged under the spreading elm trees gave an excellent view. Visitors took full advantage of the delightful climatic conditions, and throughout the afternoon the broad walk was thronged with people greeting and chatting with old friends.

Pleasing selections of music were provided during the afternoon by the band of the British Legion, under the direction of Mr. W. Rafter. A tea marquee had been erected for the occasion, but, as is customary, students in residence hospitably entertained many of their friends to afternoon tea in their rooms.

The Governor-General of the Free State, attended by Captain D. O'Sullivan, A.D.C., was among those present. He was met on arrival by the Provost and Mrs. Gwynn, and Professor Alton, T.D., and was escorted to the pavilion. Mrs. Gwynn wore a becoming navy blue chip straw hat, with her blue romain coat and blue floral silk frock. At the conclusion of the races she presented the many handsome prizes to the winners.

Among those present were:—Sir James Craig, T.D., and Lady Craig, the latter wearing a pretty salmon pink flowered silk frock, with her black cloth coat, and black hat trimmed with shaded ribbon. They were accompanied by Miss Craig, who wore a beige coat and hat with her pale blue frock. Lady Taylor was wearing a navy blue silk marocain ensemble, with a hat in the same shade. Sir Robert Woods brought Dr. R. R. Woods and Miss Woods, the latter in a blue floral crepe-de-chine frock, with a black hat. Mrs. Kenneth Bailey was dressed in a blue floral frock, worn under a black coat, with a Dolly-Varden straw hat.

Mr. W. Kennedy brought Mrs. Kennedy wearing a blue bauku flower-trimmed hat with her blue lace gown and black coat. A smart blue coat, and blue and white straw hat was worn by Mrs. Moorhead, who came with Professor Moorhead. Professor A. F. Dixon accompanied Miss Margaret Dixon, who chose a becoming blue flowered crepe-de-chine frock, with a hat of straw in the same shade.

INTERESTED SPECTATORS.

Dr. and Mrs. McFettridge were interested spectators, the latter wearing a black toilette, with a smart black and white hat. Mrs. C. Mansergh's pale blue suit was worn with furs and a large brown straw hat. With her came Mr. C. Mansergh, Dr. A. A. Luce, F.,T.C.D., accompanied Mrs. Luce, who was attired in a fashionable blue check coat, with a plain blue skirt, and blue hat.

Mrs. Randall McDonald chose a beige ensemble, while the Marchioness McSwiney was gowned in black, with a small black hat. The Right Hon. H. G. Burgess brought Miss A. Burgess, who wore a floral silk dress with her black coat and smart black beret. Miss O'Brien chose a vivid green beret to wear with her blue floral dress. Miss P. Gwynn wore a brown velvet waistcoat with her striking orange coloured dress, and hat to tone. Dr. Margaret Gregg wore a shady brown straw hat with her red georgette frock, while Miss Barbara Gregg came in a black georgette frock, with a black hat.

The Warden of St. Columba's College, walked with Mrs. Armstrong, who was wearing a primrose-coloured two-piece ensemble, with a blue hat. Miss Olive Purser's black tailored suit was worn with a black sailor hat. Quite one of the most startling ensembles was worn by Miss Isobel Haughton, who chose a large white hat to wear with her green floral chiffon frock and green coatee. Mr. and Mrs. F. Darley, the latter attired in a black georgette and lace gown and large black hat, brought Mr. F. Darley (jun.) and Miss Darley, who looked well in a white corduroy coat with her blue skirt and white hat.

THE ATTENDANCE.

Also present were:—Mr. M. W. J. Fry, S.F.,T.C.D., and Mrs. Fry, Miss Fry and Mr. Fry; Professor R. J. Rowlette, Sir Thomas Myles, Sir Conway Dwyer, Mr. J. ON THE WIRELESS

A RELAY FROM ARMAGH.

THE Church of Ireland National Commemoration Service, which takes place at St. Patrick's Cathedral, Armagh, to-day, at 3 o'clock, will be relayed by the National, North Regional and Dublin Stations. Among the many distinguished people who will be present is the Most Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang, Archbishop of Canterbury, who will address the assembly. Dr. Lang has had a very interesting career. He was born on October 31, 1864, a son of the late Very Rev. John Marshall Lang, D.D., C.V.O. Educated at Glasgow University and Oxford, he was Curate of Leeds from 1890 to 1893. He was in turn Vicar of St. Mary's, Oxford; Vicar of Portsea, Bishop of Stepney and Canon of St. Paul's. In 1908 he was made Archbishop of York, and filled this office until 1928. He has a number of publications on religious subjects to his name; "The Parables of Jesus," published in 1900, is well known. As well as the Archbishop of Canterbury there will be present the Archbishops of Armagh, Dublin and Wales, and the Primus of Scotland.

A NAVAL NOTE IN MUSIC.

CHORAL CANTATAS OF THE SEA.

TO the imaginative the Theatre of Trinity College may have had the smack of brine in its atmosphere last night, when the University of Dublin Choral Society gave its two hundred and ninety-fourth concert; the blood of old sea rovers seemed to be running strongly in the veins of the chorus. The programme began with Stanford's "The Revenge," a setting of Tennyson's ballad, and ended with the same composer's "Songs of the Fleet." In this maritime expanse the Azores were represented by a group of vocal solos sung by Mr. Robert Irwin, a pianoforte duet, and an orchestral serenade, these items coming mid-way in the programme.

For the performance of "The Revenge" and "Songs of the Fleet" the choir and orchestra had worked during the term under Mr. T. H. Weaving, who took charge of them when Dr. Hewson was compelled by an accidental injury to drop work for a time. Mr. Weaving conducted last night, and all went well. Choral tone comes out with fine effect in the hall, and is suitably balanced by strings and pianoforte accompaniment.

In "The Revenge" words were hard to catch, but this probably was a fault of the composer, rather than of the performers.

In "The Songs of the Fleet" Mr. Robert Irwin was the soloist. He is well suited by such music, and it is difficult to decide whether his singing was to be enjoyed more in the breezier numbers or in the meditative "Middle Watch," in which the lapping of water gently against the sides of a vessel on a night of still warmth is suggested by the composer's imaginative treatment of Sir Henry Newbolt's poem. Mr. Irwin's group of songs included Lully's "Sombre Woods" and Peter Warlock's "Milkmaids."

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

Instrumental music was represented by a Mozart Serenade, played by an orchestra of strings, with Signor Grossi as leader, and a pianoforte duet "Andante con Variazioni," by Mendelssohn. In the latter the pianists were Mr. R. J. Ross and Mr. H. O. Duncan, who displayed a perfect co-operation, and gave the composer his due. Their contribution to the programme was markedly popular. In the last few years there has been a revival of interest in pianoforte duets. A large amount of enjoyable and interesting music is available for those who engage in this form of musical activity. As usual, Mendelssohn can be drawn on successfully for an example.

OBBLIGATO.

PRESIDENT HOOVER AND PROHIBITION.

A SIGNIFICANT MOVE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday.

It is understood that President Hoover approves of including the re-submission of the prohibition issue to the people as a plank in the Republican platform for the Presidential elections.

This follows the remarkable development some days ago, when John D. Rockefeller, junior, whose family has long been pledged to the cause of prohibition, wrote to Professor Murray Butler urging the early repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

BRITISH COTTON OWNERS IN CANADA.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

QUEBEC, Wednesday.

A delegation of representatives of the British cotton industries, headed by Mr. John H. Grey, chairman of the Cotton-Spinners' and Manufacturers' Association, arrived here to-day for a week's conference with Canadian cotton manufacturers.

The delegation will confer with representatives of Canadian cotton manufacturers at Montreal to-morrow.

SENTENCE OF DEATH

IN CO. WEXFORD MURDER TRIAL.

NO WITNESSES FOR THE DEFENCE.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE O'BYRNE.)

SENTENCE of death by hanging on Thursday, June 30th, was passed on Mrs. Jane O'Brien (60), of Sanctuary, Killinick, Co. Wexford, found guilty by the jury of the murder of her nephew, John Cousins, by shooting him on March 26th. Cousins was the owner of a six acre farm and house, and Mrs. O'Brien and her son resided with him.

The jury added a strong recommendation to mercy on account of her age and sex.

When asked if she had anything to say before sentence was passed, Mrs. O'Brien did not speak, and stood with stolid and ashen face in the dock.

His Lordship refused Mr. Wood's application for a certificate for leave to appeal (1) for the admission in evidence of a statement made by the accused woman in answer to the questions of Chief Superintendent McCarthy; (2) because of the nature of his lordship's charge on the objections raised, and (3) that the letter of accused in Wexford barracks was inadmissible as evidence.

Mr. Martin Maguire, K.C., and Mr. Joseph A. McCarthy, (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) prosecuted; Mr. Albert E. Wood, K.C., and Mr. Brereton Barry (instructed by Messrs. M. J. O'Connor and Co., Wexford) defended.

ONE CARTRIDGE ONLY.

At the sitting of the court the foreman of the jury asked whether the gun found was registered, and whether any cartridges other than that produced were found in or about the house of the accused woman.

Superintendent O'Halloran said that the gun was not registered, and no other cartridges were found.

Mr. McCarthy closed the case for the State by addressing the jury. He pointed out that the evidence inevitably proved the guilt of the woman in the dock. Hostility to the woman whom Cousins was about to make his wife, and who would have taken the accused's place in the home, was the motive of the crime. John Cousins was shot by someone who knew his movements; knew how and about when he would return, and carefully prepared an ambush to take his life. The cutting of the bush to give a focus to the gate was an act of cool, calm, deliberate premeditation of murder.

MRS. O'BRIEN NOT CALLED.

Mr. A. E. Wood, K.C., opened his address for the defence by informing the jury that he did not intend to put the accused woman into the witness chair. There was no necessity for his doing so. First, she told a story on Sunday evening on question and answer, and it was not until Monday afternoon, after the police had made all their investigations, that she was asked to sign it. After that it was not just or fair for him to further help the case for the State by her cross-examination.

The jury had nothing but circumstantial evidence to rely on. That evidence was not such as to convince them that the evidence was, first, consistent with the guilt of the accused, and, next, inconsistent with the guilt of any other person.

It was a deliberately-planned, wilfully-carried out murder by a person of intelligence. At the very outset of the case the Guards relied on the theory that on Good Friday afternoon Jane O'Brien cut a bush to make an ambush for the shooting of John Cousins on Saturday night.

The hole was supposed to have been cut on Friday afternoon, with Johanna Moran looking on. It was there all day for John Cousins or anyone else to see it. There was no necessity for it. There was no leafage on the bushes at the time. There was a clear view to fire through the hedge, and a little farther up the lane there was a perfect spot for an ambush. The jury were asked to believe that the person who was idiotic enough to cut the hole in broad daylight was the same who cleverly planned the murder.

CHARGES AGAINST GUARDS.

The Guards from the first had got the hole in the fence on the brain, and from that came all the humbug that they carried on. In other cases in which he was engaged he had reason to say that the Guards were extremely fair, extremely careful and extremely cautious men. For that reason he regretted that he had to animadvert on the conduct of the Guards in the present case.

At 5 o'clock in the morning a cartridge wad was found near the gate. It was not until 3 o'clock in the afternoon that a Guard found at the same spot the paper disc that would identify that particular cartridge. Guards had been passing by it the whole day.

It was the jury, and not the prosecution, who brought out the important fact that no other cartridge was found in the house. No person was produced to show that cartridges were at any time sold to any person connected with that house.

"It was a time when excitement of a public character had not died down, and you must not forget that you are dealing with the death of an individual prominently connected with one side of public affairs.

"You are asked to believe that this woman acted in this inhuman way; that she is a designing and clever woman, and in the same breath you are told that she was the idiot and the fool that laid an ambush on Friday for a murder on Saturday night."

There was no evidence that she ever handled a gun, and the whole circumstances pointed to the conclusion that the murder was not the deed of a woman.

OTHERS SUSPECTED.

Coming to what he called the second arm of his defence, that the circumstances were not inconsistent with the guilt of someone other than the accused woman, Mr. Wood said that he made no charge against anyone, but would analyse the evidence given in the court. The suspicion of the Guards first lay on John O'Brien. That suspicion was not removed in the evidence.

In face of that suspicion, which remained, could they be convinced beyond any reasonable doubt that Mrs. O'Brien did the act? John Cousins was a personating agent for Cumann na nGaedheal. His death took place shortly after the general election, in which he had participated actively. At first the Guards thought that it was a political murder. Then Superintendent O'Halloran, as he told them, had suspicion of a person in addition to the accused woman. That person was John O'Brien.

He would not say that John O'Brien committed the murder, but the evidence was there. He was out of the house that night, and they had the evidence of his sweetheart that he was with her till 12.25 a.m. Next he was found mixed up with the crowd on the road around the dying man. He did not go to tell his mother of what had happened, but went to the hospital with the Guards. While in Wexford he left them and went somewhere for half an hour. He returned with them to his mother's house at 4.20 on Sunday morning, and then his mother learned of the death.

It was not at all necessary for his contention that John O'Brien himself should have fired the shot. The case started with the theory that it was a political crime. There was no evidence that the gun was ever in the house before, and there was no cartridge found there.

Throughout the Sunday she saw her son virtually in the custody of the Guards. They were by his side every place he moved.

Then came the night with the Napoleonic touch and the lying statements of Chief Superintendent McCarthy. They were gathered in her bedroom, and the Chief Superintendent said to her: "I know the gun is in this room; hand it over." At the same time he ordered two Guards to take her son out of the room.

The jury were entitled to draw the inference that the woman knew that her son had brought the gun into the house that morning. She saw him taken away, and, to save him from the consequences of the law, as she thought, she took the responsibility herself. Even the Guards contradicted one another as to what was said in the room.

"Why those lies?" shouted counsel. "Traps, traps, traps for this poor mother shielding her son. You must treat the evidence of the Guards in this case with the greatest suspicion. The evidence of Chief Superintendent McCarthy faces you with an appalling state of affairs in this country. For the protection of yourselves and of the public you cannot act on statements extracted by his traps."

Counsel, coming to the incident of the accused woman handing over an empty cartridge in the barracks in Wexford, submitted that it was another proof of her innocence of the murder. She handed over the gun and, later, the cartridge, because she thought she was saving her son.

With regard to the motive for the murder put forward, and overstrained in the doing, by the Guards, the accused woman and her son were entitled to one-eighth of the property of John Cousins's intestate father. The only chance of their getting anything out of the six-acre farm was that John Cousins should live.

Dealing with the anonymous postcards, Mr. Wood said that they contained not one threatening word. They were comic cards, nothing worse than vulgar.

JUDGE'S SUMMING UP.

Mr. Justice O'Byrne, in the course of his summing up, dealt with the severe comments on the conduct of the Guards made by Mr. wood. He advised the jury, if they had any doubt that the case against the accused woman was fabricated, or any substantial part of the evidence was fabricated, he would advise them strongly to acquit her.

His Lordship commented on the absence of evidence from the accused herself to explain to the jury her presence on Friday near the spot where the hole was cut, as the State alleged, in preparation for an ambush. What evidence was there that an ambush was not intended for Friday night?

Allegations of lying had been made against Sergeant Hanley, who appeared to his lordship to be a most trustworthy officer and witness. The supposition was put forward that John O'Brien had committed the crime; but, if he did, he would hardly have shown anxiety for the Guards not to leave the house.

The jury, after one hour's deliberation, found a verdict as stated.

Congress Ships Arrive.

Hundreds of Pilgrims Landed at Cobh.

Coming Week-End Invasion.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
QUEENSTOWN, Wednesday.

ANIMATED scenes were witnessed at Queenstown this week consequent on the arrival of hundreds of American tourists anxious to be present at the Eucharistic Congress. The first ship to arrive at this port was the Cunarder, Scythia, from New York and Boston, via Galway. 454 passengers landed from this vessel on Monday morning. Many of them left by the afternoon mail train for their various destinations. 257 passengers from the Hamburg American liner, St. Louis, also from New York and Boston, via Galway, were landed late on Monday night.

LINER'S FIRST CALL.

Making her initial call to an Irish port, the Hamburg American liner, Deutchsland (22,000 tons gross), arrived here this morning, having accomplished the voyage from New York in five days seven hours. This vessel disembarked 362 passengers.

The shipping, Customs and railways officials are combining to expedite visitors to their various destinations.

The Deutchsland also landed a stowaway, Michael Kelleher (33), of Millstreet, County Cork.

At three o'clock this afternoon the North German-Lloyd liner, Columbus (32,565 tons gross), anchored at the mouth of Cork Harbour, and disembarked a further 749 passengers.

Michael McElligott, of Newcastle West, Co. Limerick, and James Wrixon, New street, Killarney, were also landed, they having stowed aboard the ship at New York.

TWO "RECORDS."

According to cable advices now received a heavy week-end in trans-Atlantic shipping will be witnessed at this port, and two "records" for this traffic will be broken. The White Star motor vessel, Brittanic, is expected at Queenstown on Sunday morning to land 936 passengers. This is the largest number of passengers to disembark at any Irish port from any one vessel since post-war days.

The Cunarder, Carinthia, now in mid-ocean, is bringing to Ireland a total of 1,161 passengers. This also is the largest number of passengers brought to Ireland by any single liner since pre-war days.

Trawler in Difficulties.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
WATERFORD, Wednesday.

The steam trawler Authorpe, of the Sea Fisheries Association, fouled Waterford Town Bridge to-day. The Authorpe arrived here last night, and landed her catch at the Sir Henry Forde wharf. When proceeding to another berth this morning one of her mooring lines became entangled in the propellor, and the vessel was rendered helpless in mid-river. She was carried broadside on to the bridge by a strong spring tide, completely blocking the portcullis arch bridge. There she remained until ebb tide, when she was extricated and towed to the North wharf. She will be unable to proceed to sea until a diver clears the propellor of the mooring line.

500 Delegates Welcomed.

Education Congress In Belfast.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BELFAST, Wednesday.

ABOUT five hundred delegates, representing educational authorities in England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland, assembled in the Ulster Hall, Belfast, to-day, for the annual Conference of the Association of Education Committees. They were welcomed on behalf of the Government of Northern Ireland, of the Corporation, and of Queen's University.

The Lord Mayor (Sir Crawford M'Cullagh) said that they would find in Belfast a modern city with beautiful buildings, fine, wide streets, and some of the largest industries in the world were centred there.

Viscount Charlemont, Minister of Education, said that they would follow the discussions of the Conference with the greatest interest; for, although their educational system differed from that in Great Britain, with which they were mostly concerned, several of the problems which found a place in their agenda presented similar difficulties in Northern Ireland.

Sir Richard Livingstone, M.A., D.Litt., Vice-Chancellor of Queen's University, said that he saw nothing in the agenda or report about the university. From their schools they received the raw material to carry it a stage further upon the educational road, and from the university they received their ministers, doctors, engineers, technical experts, school teachers, and administrators. If their work was badly done, the universities received the article in an imperfect condition, and, if the work at the universities was badly done, then the public received the article permanently spoiled.

Alderman J. H. S. Aitken, President of the Association, said that he was sure it was the wish of the conference that he should express their cordial thanks for the very gracious words of welcome of the City of Belfast.

The following officers were elected:—President, Alderman E. G. Rowlinson, J.P., Sheffield; Vice-Presidents: Alderman J. W. Butler, Scarborough; Councillor J. W. Catlow, C.C., Willesden; Councillor Wright Robinson, Manchester.

PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS.

Alderman Ernest G. Rowlinson, J.P., Chairman of the City of Sheffield Education Committee, was installed in the presidential chair amid applause.

Addressing the conference, he said that they must keep clearly in the forefront of their policy that they stood for the raising of the school age to fifteen, for a comprehensive scheme for the betterment of the elementary school system; they must continue to affirm that non-provided schools should be fully brought within the term of that betterment under a scheme of administration which would secure effective administrative control without doing violence to the religious convictions of any. It could be done.

Having referred to the shock which the teachers received on reading the report of the May Committee, he said that another shock was given when the President of the Board found it necessary to stop, without any notice, the operation of the 50 per cent. building grant, which had been provided in order to enable authorities to take up with courage and dispatch the school building provision which was rendered necessary in the solution of the problems of reorganisation. It had been suggested that that action of the Government was no real bar to the development and completion of reorganisation schemes, but he did not hesitate to say that the practical effect of the Government's decision had, in effect, put an end to the development of reorganisation schemes, except in so far as they related to the provision of the schools in newly-built areas.

Teachers would naturally follow closely the proceedings of that week, particularly in their bearings upon the salary question. As an association, they desired a square deal for all the partners in the great service of education, authorities and teachers alike. Much as they might deplore the fact, they must recognise that the control of the position had slipped from the hands of the Burnham Committee. Speculation as to what would have happened had the conference of teachers' representatives and authorities' representatives taken place prior to the issue of the May report would not help. They must all recognise quite clearly that they were working under an Order in Council, in consequence of which the grants in aid of elementary school teachers' salaries had been substantially reduced, and, as a practical consequence, the salaries themselves had been reduced in like measure.

A vote of thanks was passed to the President for his address.

In the evening the delegates and their friends were entertained at a reception in the City Hall by the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress. About 1,500 people were present.

Informations Refused.—At Limerick District Court James Wallace, Dundalk, was charged with the manslaughter of William Shanahan, of Dublin, on May 22nd. It appeared from the evidence that the deceased man was motor cycling from Limerick to Dublin with his brother as pillion rider. When about a mile outside the city his machine collided with a lorry driven by the accused man, with the result that William Shanahan sustained fatal injuries. District Justice Flood refused informations, holding that there was no culpable negligence on the part of the driver of the lorry.

Fingers Blown Off.—While engaged in blasting operations at a quarry near Charleville, a workman, Thomas O'Brien, had three of his fingers blown off by the explosive.

* * * * *

Highway Robbery.—Civic Guards are investigating a "hold-up" near Drinagh, where an ex-teacher was waylaid by a masked man and robbed of a sum of money.

* * * * *

Sympathy.—Drogheda Corporation voted sympathy with Alderman Robert Murdock on the death of his brother, Mr. F. W. Murdock, Vice-Commodore of the Drogheda Rowing Club.

* * * * *

Prison for Assaulting Guard.—"I will not have a Guard assaulted. I will not stand for it," said District Justice Kenny at Listowel Court, when Mathew James, an ex-soldier, was sentenced to two months' imprisonment for kicking a Guard while the Guard was arresting him.

* * * * *

Drogheda Loans.—Sanction was received at the Drogheda Corporation meeting for the following loans: Loan of £16,000 for the erection of 56 houses, loan of £1,125 for the purchase of road machinery and sand-washing machine, and loan of £2,880 for the concreting of main road from Dublin Gate to West Gate.

* * * * *

The Lowest Tender.—Drogheda Corporation accepted a tender of the South of Ireland Asphalt Company for the reconstruction in concrete of West street, Shop street, and James street, Drogheda, at £4,917 0s. 10d. The tender was the lowest of six received.

Clonmel and the Eucharistic Congress.—At Clonmel Corporation meeting, Councillor O'Brien moved that the resolution allowing £75 for expenses of the Corporation attending the Eucharistic Congress in Dublin be rescinded. Alderman Burke, in seconding, said that it was never known that members going to Dublin should get their fares and hotel bills paid. The Mayor (Alderman T. Condon) said that he was not looking for payment of hotel bills, and did not want anything from the Council, and would not take it if passed. The Town Clerk said that the matter arose on the question of providing robes for members when they went to Dublin. The £75 was really for robes. They were going to a sacred ceremony, and should go to it with the greatest respect. Councillor O'Brien—Sacred ceremonies do not apply to people who are hungry in the town. Town Clerk—The object of going to Dublin should come before everything. Mr. Kennedy thought that the Corpoartion should attend, but should pay the expenses themselves. Councillor O'Brien's motion was ruled out of order, and he left the meeting.

VISCOUNT BRENTFORD DEAD.

KING AND QUEEN'S MESSAGE OF SYMPATHY.

Viscount Brentford died early yesterday afternoon at his home in London. Lady Brentford and the Hon. L. W. Joynson-Hicks were present at the time. On Tuesday night his lordship took a turn for the worse, and as time passed his condition gradually became more critical.

The King and Queen have sent a telegram expressing their sympathy with Lady Brentford.

LORD BRENTFORD.

Viscount Brentford was born on June 23, 1865, and from 1924-29 was Home Secretary. He was widely known as "Jix." A son of Mr. Henry Hicks, of Plaistow Hall, Kent, he adopted the additional surname after his marriage, in 1895, to Miss Grace Joynson. As Sir William Joynson-Hicks he became prominent in English politics. He was a devoted member of the Church of England and a staunch supporter of the Conservative cause. Educated at the Merchant Taylors School, he was admitted a solicitor in 1888, and became head of the firm of Joynson-Hicks, Hunt, Cardew and McDonald. He was a life-long abstainer. At the age of 14 he took the pledge, and his first platform work was done for Temperance.

His first appearance as a political candidate was at North Manchester in 1900, where he was defeated. At the General Election in 1906 he opposed Mr. Churchill, then a Liberal, at North-West Manchester, but was again unsuccessful.

When Mr. Churchill was made President of the Board of Trade, he had, in accordance with the then existing practice, to seek re-election. Joynson-Hicks won the by-election after a hard fight, which attracted the attention of the whole of England, and entered the House of Commons.

"Jix" lost his seat at the January, 1910, General Election, and did not re-enter the House of Commons until March, 1911, when he secured re-election as M.P. for Brentford. He represented that division until 1918, and sat for Twickenham from 1918 to 1929, when he was given a Viscounty and transferred to the House of Lords.

When the Coalition fell in October, 1922, Mr. Bonar Law gave Mr. Joynson-Hicks his first Ministerial appointment as Parliamentary Secretary for Overseas Trade. A few months later he was promoted to Postmaster-General.

He was appointed Secretary of State for Home Affairs when the Conservatives returned to power in 1924, and retained the post throughout the lifetime of the Government until June, 1929.

The heir to the title is his son, Richard Cecil Joynson-Hicks, who was born on November 15, 1896.

Labour Party Taken To Task.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
SKIBBEREEN, Wednesday.

The Labour Party was unworthy to be in the Dail, said Mr. O'Shea, Peace Commissioner, at Skibbereen Council meeting, when taxes and tariffs were under discussion.

The chairman remarked that it was extraordinary how Labour men allowed themselves to be gulled by a party pretending to have the interests of the workers at heart. The country was run at the expense of the poor, and the Labour Party was helping to pile on the agony.

Boys in Trouble.

Justice Blames the Picture Houses.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
DUNDALK, Wednesday.

"MANY of the pictures screened in picture houses in this country are unfit for anyone to see, and they should be more heavily taxed than they are," said Justice Goff at Dundalk District Court in a case in which two boys, Albert and John Fitzpatrick, were charged with the larceny of £2 from a publichouse.

In a statement John Fitzpatrick stated that he and his brother went into a shop. He opened a drawer and took out a purse which contained £2. He divided the money with his brother. Afterwards they went to the pictures. Later a boy from the shop from which the money had been taken came along, and they showed him where £1 10s. of the money had been thrown, and this had been recovered.

The father of the boys said that they were generally in at nine o'clock at nights, but occasionally he allowed them to go to the pictures to keep them off the streets.

The Justice said that the father should know that the pictures did not exercise a good influence on anyone, much less on boys of an impressionable age. They were the root of a lot of the mischief and trouble into which boys got.

The boys were bound over in their father's bail to be of good behaviour for three years.

Dr. O'Callaghan's Leave of Absence.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
CLONMEL, Wednesday.

At the meeting of the Clonmel Mental Hospital Committee to-day—Mr. R. Curran, chairman, presiding—Mr. J. P. Kennedy said that they should congratulate Dr. O'Callaghan, the assistant resident medical superintendent, on his selection to represent Ireland at the Olympic Games at Los Angeles. The Committee wished him every success.

Dr. O'Callaghan applied for three months' leave of absence.

Mr. P. L. Ryan—What the ratepayers want to know is who will pay your substitute.

Dr. O'Callaghan said that he was entitled to one month's holidays.

Mr. Gleeson—Here is a man going to a foreign country at the head of the cream of the athletes of this country to advertise Ireland

Mr. Kennedy—I agree with Mr. Gleeson, and propose that we provide a substitute for three months.

Mr. P. L. Ryan—I have nothing to say to Dr. O'Callaghan. I do not see why the ratepayers should be called upon to pay his substitute. They have rates enough to pay.

Dr. O'Callaghan was granted three months' leave of absence, Dr. Magner to act as his substitute. It was decided that Dr. O'Callaghan be paid his salary while absent, and that the Committee pay his substitute.

New Limerick Factory.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
LIMERICK, Wednesday.

The Mayor of Limerick (Alderman P. Donnellan) was interviewed by two English representatives, who stated that they were anxious to start an electrical equipment industry in the Free State. For this purpose they had a conference with the Mayor in regard to the acquisition of sites and rates.

The Mayor supplied the information required, and a further conference will take place at a later date.

It is understood that the Government is prepared to subsidise the proposed factory.

Gun Running Rumours.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
CORK, Wednesday.

Rumours of attempted gun-running have been revived. When the steam ship Duchess, a small collier from Cardiff, berthed at Rosscarbery a few days ago, she was boarded by Civic Guards, who made a thorough search of the vessel. Nothing was found of an incriminating nature, and the steamer now is being discharged. The destroyer, Sturdy, has returned to Queenstown, where she is stationed.

New Shirt Factory.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
DROGHEDA, Wednesday.

A new shirt factory was opened in Balbriggan to-day by the Skerries Manufacturing Company, who abandoned their former factory in Skerries to start business in their recently-erected premises beside the sea at Balbriggan, on the site of the hosiery factory which was burned down during the troubled period. Thirty-six skilled girls, who had been employed in the Skerries premises, commenced working in the new factory this morning.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—An anti-cyclone centred over the Bay of Biscay extends over the British Isles and to Central Europe. A depression north of the Azores is moving slowly north-east, and disturbances are likely to move southeast from Iceland. Apart from showers chiefly in the north and extreme west, weather will be mainly fair.

North-West, North-East, South-East and South-West Ireland.—Wind between south-west or south, light or moderate; variable cloud; perhaps showers; moderate temperature.

Sea Passages.—Irish Sea and St. George's Channel—Wind south-west, moderate or light; mainly fair; sea slight.

IRELAND.

Mrs. Jane O'Brien, of Killinick, Co. Wexford, was sentenced to death for the murder of her nephew, John Cousins, on March 26th. The jury recommended mercy on account of her age and sex.—(Page 5.)

The opening meeting of the Methodist Church Conference took place last night in the Centenary Church, St. Stephen's Green, Dublin. The Rev. Dr. Ryder Smith presided.—(Page 13.)

The new President (Dr. R. J. Rowlette) presided at the annual meeting of the Irish Medical Association in Dublin yesterday. A resolution was passed expressing disapproval of the proposed "cuts" in the salaries of medical civil servants.—(Page 6.)

At Baltinglass yesterday six men, charged with conspiracy, were remanded in custody.—(Page 5.)

Five hundred delegates, representing educational authorities in England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland, met in the Ulster Hall, Belfast, yesterday for the annual conference of the Association of Education Committees.—(Page 5.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

Viscount Brentford died in London yesterday.—(Page 5.)

A squadron-leader of the Air Force was killed when making a parachute descent at Andover, and two naval lieutenants were fatally injured in an aircraft accident off the coast of Scotland yesterday.—(Page 7.)

An application came before the London Courts yesterday for sanction to a scheme of arrangement between the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company and a number of its associated and subsidiary companies and their creditors, and was adjourned until to-day.—(Page 7.)

ABROAD.

The eight hundred passengers of a Spanish liner wrecked off the coast of Nigeria are at the mercy of the sea in open boats until rescue ships arrive.—(Page 7.)

Mr. Macdonald and Sir John Simon have accepted the invitation of the new French Premier (M. Herriot) for preliminary conversations in Paris before the opening of the Lausanne Conference.—(Page 7.)

SPORTING.

At Newbury yesterday Buckle won the Royal Plate.—(Page 10.)

At Beverley Pickle won the Beverley Handicap Plate.—(Page 10.)

FINANCIAL.

London Stock Markets were easier, with a few bright spots. British Funds were lower on profit-taking.—(Page 12.)

In Lombard street there was little or no change in rates.—(Page 12.)

Dublin Market was quite firm. Guinness rose sharply and Land Bonds also advanced. Dublin Tram issues and Grand Canal Pref. were weak spots.—(Page 12.)

Mr. de Valera's Choice.

Yesterday the Free State Senate rejected President de Valera's Oath Bill. Technically, the bill is not dead, but, for its proclaimed purpose, it is now useless; and, when it returns to the Dáil, the Government—if in the meanwhile its mind has suffered no change—will denounce the Senate's amendments. The vital amendment—three, in all, were carried by substantial majorities—makes the removal of the Oath conditional on the agreement of the British Government, with later ratification by the Dáil. At this most critical time every wise Irishman will put a check upon his words. We shall say only that the Senate has done its duty firmly and in the most scrupulous manner, and has laid the country under a deep and lasting obligation to it. By its decisions yesterday it has saved the Free State's honour; and it has furnished Mr. de Valera with a great—perhaps, his last—opportunity for an act of true statesmanship. To-day, on the eve of his momentous visit to London, two courses are open to him. He can persist in his purpose to violate the Treaty, and so can commit his country to a long period of international conflict, of domestic strife and of shattered trade. Returning from an abortive conference in London, he can refuse payment of the land annuities, and either can go immediately to the electors or can coerce the Senate at the end of eighteen months. Where would his Government—where would the country—be at the end of those months? On the other hand, by acceptance of yesterday's decisions in the statesman's spirit, Mr. de Valera can turn defeat into victory. He can say to the British Government to-morrow: "The Senate's disagreement with the Dáil has given a new aspect to the nation's will. I am ready now—if only through motives of enlightened expediency—to consult you in the matter of the Oath, and, if we can agree about it, to co-operate in fruitful works at Ottawa." If Mr. de Valera really wishes to keep the Free State in the British Commonwealth—which would be no Commonwealth without the link of the Crown—that overture need not cost him a qualm; and we do not doubt that the British Government would be glad to meet him half-way. Nobody questions his idealism, but to-morrow will bring a fateful trial of his practical statesmanship. To-morrow Mr. de Valera must accept or reject the last Sibylline Book.

The French Government.

When M. Herriot rose to face the new French Chamber, at its first meeting, he found himself in a position of some embarrassment. He has assumed control at a difficult moment, and he can be sure neither of the suffrages of the extreme Right nor—more important still—of the Socialists who helped to put him in office. These considerations form a sufficient explanation of his rather colourless statement of domestic policy. A minority Government must strive to please all parties, and, at a time of economic depression, the nearest way to the heart of a French Deputy is a promise of decreased expenditure. M. Herriot, therefore, pledges himself to a programme of the strictest economy. The "series of measures" which he will present to the Chamber must remain an unknown quantity until later in the session, but some of their provisions are not beyond all conjecture. That they will entail sacrifices to the people as a whole is inevitable. The burden, however, will not be borne by the private citizen alone; for considerable saving will be effected by reorganisation and adjustment of public services. A revision of the entire transport system throughout France probably will be one of the new Cabinet's first concerns. It is dictated not only by the need for economy, but also in the interests of efficiency, and no party is likely to cavil at it. France is faced with a serious situation, and failure to balance the Budget would entail grave consequences.

A promise of economy is not a new feature in the programmes of French Cabinets. M. Herriot's announcements would have come equally well from either M. Tardieu or M. Laval. Yet it is certain that the new Premier could not have secured his substantial majority on a first vote of confidence if his plans to save money had not been supported by plans for wise expenditure. He announced his intention to inaugurate public works on a large scale for the relief of unemployment, to simplify social insurance, and to provide free secondary education. His critics in the Chamber might have been expected to inquire how the Government proposed to reconcile the conflicting ideals of curtailment in expenditure and enlargement in the social services. That they did not do so may be explained, perhaps, by the part of M. Herriot's speech which was devoted to foreign policy. In effect, it was a re-statement of his famous formula, "Arbitration, security and disarmament."

The Government's attitude towards the world is based upon the Covenant of the League of Nations and the Kellogg Pact. War is recognised no longer as an instrument of national policy, and its place is taken by peaceful reconciliation. This, again, is not new, and it cannot be taken as any modification of France's familiar attitude. It is in the construction which M. Herriot placed upon certain articles of his country's creed that the deputies detected a change which may be a portent of hope for Europe.

On the subject of reparations the French Government remains firm, but its firmness is tempered for the first time by a spirit of reasonableness. Germany's debts to France cannot be cancelled; for they rest upon treaties and agreements which involve the supremacy of law, and the only alternative to a system of law is a system of force. At the same time M. Herriot's Cabinet proclaims itself willing to consider any project, however slight, that may help to promote greater stability and the regeneration of Europe. If France is to adopt a more conciliatory attitude towards Germany, and at the same time is to foster ambitious schemes of social development, the necessary funds can be provided in only one way. M. Herriot has hinted that expenditure in military charges and defence will be curtailed. France has come forward on several occasions with plans for disarmament; but now she is ready to meet the other nations without a preconceived plan of any kind. Although the establishment of an international police force under League administration is still a design dear to French politicians, M. Herriot was careful to keep it in the background. The prospect of insolvency which is before many countries has made the reduction of armaments a matter of common-sense, and the chances of the Geneva Conference have been brightened by this suggestion that France is willing to face the facts. There is an indication of a new and hopeful spirit in the fact that M. Herriot's proposal to curtail military expenditure was greeted with apparent approval even upon the benches of the Right.

Brighter Dublin.

Less than a fortnight now divides us from the opening day of the Eucharistic Congress, and already Dublin has made good headway with her schemes of decoration. Apparatus for flood-lighting fronts almost every important building. Houses, unadorned for twenty years, have smelled the paint-bucket; the Papal Legate's route to the city is gay with bright devices, and tall flag-poles have sprung into being at every street corner. No smaller transformation has been wrought in the poorer districts of Dublin and in the country towns. The brown of brick is set off by the white and yellow of ubiquitous flags: for once a touch of brightness is introduced into streets where nothing but a general drabness normally meets the eye. We would speak, however, of the important streets of Dublin, which, save for the Phœnix Park, must be the centre of the Congress celebrations. It is essential that the decorations shall be on a large scale—large flags, large devices, everything large. Dublin's streets are wide and her buildings are tall. In these surroundings the effect of small decorations would be merely half-hearted and tawdry. We are glad to notice that such preparations as have been made are on a fitting scale of magnitude. The flags already hung are proportioned with no niggardly hand, and the flag-poles which still remain vacant are sufficiently massive to promise that their drapings will be imposingly ample. Mediterranean countries, endowed with constant sunshine, can afford to scatter odd streams of bunting wherever they can be hung; but shreds and scraps present a sorry spectacle under the frequently grey skies of Dublin. There has been too much tendency towards this kind of triviality in Irish celebrations of the past, and it is pleasant to see that the same mistake will not be committed on this occasion.

Wild Animals.

For thousands of years mankind has preyed upon wild animals, and they have not hesitated to reciprocate the compliment. The balance of killings, however, is distinctly in favour of mankind—so much in favour that many breeds of wild animals have been extinguished completely, and others are in imminent danger of extinction. To-day the ravages of big game hunters are compensated by a growing movement for the preservation of those breeds of beasts which are declining in numbers. No sentimental interest is involved—dealings with big game do not provoke sentimentality—but people realise that the extinction of a once important breed of animals is a severe loss to science. The Society for the Preservation of the Fauna of the Empire devotes its energy to the checking of indiscriminate slaughter. At its recent meeting Lord Rothschild advocated what is, perhaps, the only satisfactory form of protection—the national park. Belgium already has adopted the idea, and the Albert National Park in the Belgian Congo is an asylum for numerous breeds which are disappearing outside its confines. The British proposal is that a similar park shall be created in the gorilla country in Uganda. For some reason the Colonial Office seems to frown on the scheme, which has no little support in high quarters in England. In the interests of science we hope that it will reconsider its attitude—if, indeed, its disapproval is anything more than apparent. People who know Africa warn us that the process of extinction, in the case of several breeds, is continuing with appalling rapidity, and that any hope of a check to it will be lost unless something is done at once.

KING ALBERT IN LONDON.

PRIVATE VISIT WITH QUEEN ELIZABETH.

King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of Belgium arrived at Victoria Station, London, last night on a private visit for a few days.

Last night they visited the King and Queen at Buckingham Palace, and to-day King Albert will give a private dinner party at the Belgian Embassy. During his stay King Albert will visit Aldershot to inspect the 6th Inniskilling Dragoons, of which he is Colonel-in-Chief.

The Belgian King and Queen are staying at the Carlton Hotel until Saturday, when they will return to Belgium.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA MEMORIAL.

UNVEILED BY THE KING.

The King unveiled a bronze memorial to Queen Alexandra at Marlborough House yesterday, in presence of the Queen, the Prince of Wales, and other members of the Royal Family.

In a speech, the King said that it was most fitting that the ceremony should take place on the twenty-first anniversary of Rose Day. He rejoiced to feel that the memorial was a tribute of the Empire's love.

THE DIOCESE OF GLENDALOUGH.

CHORAL FESTIVAL AT ARKLOW.

The Choral Festival of the Diocese of Glendalough was held in St. Saviour's Church, Arklow. The choirs which took part were:—Arklow, Kilbride, Greystones, Delgany, Newtown, Avoca, Rathdrum, Wicklow, Killiskey and Dunganstown. The total number of choristers was 130.

The Rev. N. L. Roberts was conductor, and the following clergy took part:—The Rev. J. B. Nelligan (intoner), Canon Weir, Canon Moore, the Rev. J. S. Wylie, hon. secretary; the Revs. H. H. Madden, R. C. Madden, H. V. Flint, J. R. Colthurst, G. G. Bolton, F. J. Rainford, J. E. Tomlinson and J. Blackwell. The church was crowded.

The Rev. William Carroll, Rector of Arklow, and Canon Moore read the lessons. The opening hymn was "Lift up thy banner, Church of Erin" (Archer). "The Breastplate of St. Patrick," "Be Thou my vision," and "O Lord, our help in ages past," also were sung.

The Archdeacon of Glendalough preached the sermon, in the course of which he said that a distinguished British statesman and Greek scholar had said that if all the works of the Greek scholars were heaped together they would not equal in beauty one chapter of the Book of Psalms.

Referring to what he described as "that most glorious musical service of to-day," he suggested that it represented a great amount of work and skill on the part of the organisers, trainers and choirs involved. He asked all the choirs, singers and parishioners who had listened to such a magnificent demonstration to raise the musical tone and standard of their weekly services. The Greeks of old showed the great importance that they attached to music, and suggested that it should be used for only two purposes—namely, the adoration of God and the education of the young.

In conclusion, the Archdeacon impressed on the choirs always to bear in mind that "whosoever rendereth praise in God's house truly glorifieth God Himself."

After the Service the choirs were entertained in the Marlborough House by the Rev. Mr. Carroll and Mrs. Carroll and the parishioners of Arklow. Miss Archer, Greystones, organist of St. Saviour's, presided at the organ.

SEAPLANE'S FORCED LANDING.

The amphibian seaplane, Cutty Sark, which has been running daily between Douglas and Liverpool, ran short of petrol while crossing from Douglas, Isle of Man, to Liverpool, yesterday, and made a forced descent in Crosby Channel, at the mouth of the Mersey. The pilot and the four passengers escaped injury.

A steamer took the 'plane in tow up the Mersey to Birkenhead, where it refuelled.

IRISH MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

QUESTION OF "CUTS" IN SALARIES.

The proposed "cuts" in the salaries of medical civil servants were discussed at the annual general meeting of the Irish Medical Association, held in the Royal College of Surgeons, St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, yesterday.

Dr. E. Byrne, Meath, outgoing president, occupied the chair at the outset.

The annual report stated that the membership at the end of December, 1931, was 310, compared with 303 the previous year. During the year a suggestion had been made that the feasibility of a scheme of federation with the British Medical Association should be considered, and the matter was in hands at present.

The accounts showed that the income for the year was £1,508 16s. 11d., and payments amounted to £536 0s. 4d., leaving a balance of £972 16s. 7d.

The reports were adopted.

Dr. R. J. Rowlette, the newly-elected president, took the chair, and, on his proposal, seconded by Dr. J. T. Daniel, a vote of thanks was passed to the outgoing president.

A vote of sympathy was passed with the widow and family of the late Mr. Gick, who had been secretary of the Association for many years, and whose death was such a blow to all and such a loss to the Association.

ORGANISATION.

The new President (Dr. R. J. Rowlette), in the course of his address on the subject of "The Need for Organisation of the Medical Profession in Ireland," said that they must always keep in mind the necessity for promoting the public welfare, and they had every right to believe that the Association in the past had contributed in its special way to the public good.

The Association, as a body, had led in the several sanitary and medical reforms of the last ninety years. The great reforms in the public medical services in the last ten years sprang out of the report of the Irish Public Council of 1919-20.

If medical organisation in Ireland had such a history behind it, why, he asked, was there so little interest taken in the organisation at present? Their total membership last year was 310. The membership of the British Medical Association in the Free State was, perhaps, twice that number. There were some 3,000 medical men in the country, and at the outside not more than 25 per cent. were members of any organisation.

Continuing, Dr. Rowlette said that a select, if not large, number of medical men were engaged in administrative posts of great importance in the Government service. The emoluments were not high considering the quality of men required for such work. At present they were under notice that their salaries were to be reduced. The proposal seemed to him to be thoroughly immoral, and prejudicial to the public welfare. It was prejudicial to the public welfare in that, if the threat was carried out, confidence in contracts made by the Government would disappear and it would be difficult in future to induce men of high standing and capacity to accept administrative posts under the Government.

The threat was not limited to officers in Government services. It was commonly stated that local authorities throughout the country were to be empowered to break their contracts of service with their employés. They did not know at the moment if this was seriously contemplated, but it was the common rumour. Dispensary and other medical officers of local authorities were in the same peril as their lay colleagues. Was there any medical organisation in the country strong enough to defend them?

Concluding, he said that the need for professional organisation was as great as ever, and he urged all medical men to join a professional organisation.

PROPOSED "CUT."

Mr. M. J. Nolan proposed that in future the Irish Medical Association reserves to itself the right to act independently in any matter affecting its members, and that it will only consult and act in conjunction with the Irish Medical Committee when it thinks the benefits of its members will be best served by doing so.

The motion was seconded by Mr. J. T. Daniel and discussed by several members.

The Chairman said that the passing of the resolution would only make for disunion.

The motion was withdrawn.

Dr. Denham proposed that the Irish Medical Association was of opinion that the proposed "cut" in the salaries of medical civil servants was unjust in itself, and was likely to lead to a lower standard of candidates in future, as the main attraction for professional men to accept administrative posts in the Government services had been its supposed security. He said that it was eminently necessary that their Association should give a lead to the medical profession in this matter.

Dr. Whelan seconded the motion.

Dr. H. Macauley said that in time of a national emergency the profession should be willing here, as they had been in England, to make a voluntary concession. He moved an amendment to that effect.

Dr. M. Maughan seconded the amendment.

After discussion the amendment was withdrawn, and the motion of Dr. Denham was carried.

The meeting approved of draft amendments of the Articles of Association, and a further meeting will be held on the 29th inst. for the purpose of confirming the amendments.

WAR VETERAN HORDES CAUSE ALARM.

U.S. TROOPS ORDERED TO STAND BY.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday.

The first sign of alarm at the growing army of United States war veteran "bonus-seekers," of whom there are already eight thousand in the capital, was shown by the Chief of Police to-day, when he urged the demonstrators to depart, offering them free transport.

A crisis threatens, as there are no funds available to feed the demonstrators.

Troops in the local barracks have been ordered to stand by in case of trouble.

The veterans, who have marched on Washington hungry and without a penny in their pockets from all parts of the United States, demand that Congress shall render immediately available for cashing war bonuses to the value of £400,000,000.

They had already come into conflict with the police at certain points of their march; but their parade earlier to-day down Pennsylvania Avenue, which was cheered by thousands of spectators, passed off without any unpleasant incident. The onlookers were held in check by 1,240 policemen, aided by steel cables.

MAYOR WALKER'S OFFICE.

INVESTIGATOR'S REPORT.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Wednesday.

In forwarding his analysis of the evidence given by Mr. "Jimmy" Walker, the Mayor of New York, before the Hofstadter Vice-Committee, which has been investigating allegations of "graft" in the city administration, Mr. Samuel Seabury declares that the Mayor is "unfit to remain in his office."

ENGLISH PRIMATE LEAVES FOR IRELAND.

The Archbishop of Canterbury left London last night for Armagh, where he is to preach to-day in the Cathedral at a Service to commemorate the fifteenth centenary of the beginning of St. Patrick's mission in Ireland.

LONDON LETTER.

MR. THOMAS'S RETURN.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

Mr. J. H. Thomas and Lord Hailsham arrived at Euston this morning just before six, but, since both were very tired, their saloon coach was shunted into a siding, where it remained until nearly half-past seven. Lord Hailsham was the first to leave, and, when approached, he smilingly refused to make any statement about his visit. Mr. Thomas, who left the station a few minutes afterwards, said that his impressions were of the magnificent hospitality of the Irish Government and the cordiality of the Irish people, but he refused to make any reference to the subjects of the discussions. Later in the day in the House of Commons Mr. Thomas was given a hearty cheer when he rose to reply to a question addressed to his Department. It was expected that, as he was in the House, he would say something about his visit to Dublin, but Mr. Thomas was as silent in the House as he was in the Lobby. Profound secrecy is being maintained in all quarters about the subjects under discussion yesterday or those that will be discussed at the meeting on Friday, and it is expected that this secrecy will continue until one side or the other is prepared to make a definite statement on the position. All that is understood here is that there was a very frank interchange of views yesterday, and that a clear exposition was made of the attitude taken up by both Governments. It was noted this afternoon that Mr. Thomas spent the greater part of the question hour in earnest conversation with the Prime Minister and Mr. Baldwin.

The Conversations in London.

In official circles it is thought that next Friday's conversations between members of the British and the Irish Free State Governments will not be prolonged. The Prime Minister will preside, and, as he now intends to leave London for Paris on Saturday, to see M. Herriot, he will have very little time to spare, and may have to delegate the chairmanship of the proceedings to Mr. Baldwin. If present intentions are carried out, Mr. Macdonald will be accompanied at the discussions by Mr. Thomas, Lord Hailsham and Mr. Neville Chamberlain. The meeting will be held at No. 10 Downing street, with, possibly, a session at the Colonial Office.

Northern Ireland's Attitude.

When it was pointed out to Viscount Craigavon, who is now taking a rest on this side, that Mr. de Valera is reported to have said that the inclusion of Ulster in the Irish Free State would secure lasting agreement between the British Government and Ireland, he declared that any such thing would be altogether out of the question. Ulster's mind was made up long ago, and there was no change to record. Lord Craigavon added that he would never be a party to separation from Great Britain and the imperial connection, and he hoped that the people of Northern Ireland would not be perturbed in any way by the parrot-cry always raised when the South finds itself in a difficulty. Lord Carson, who is staying at his country home in Kent, remarked to-day: "It is disastrous—if it is true that Mr. de Valera claimed that Ulster should be brought into the Irish Free State—that Mr. Thomas and Lord Hailsham did not at once repudiate any such suggestion and refuse to carry out any further conversations."

Tribute to Mr. Dulanty.

A very high compliment is paid by the Evening Standard to-night to Mr. J. W. Dulanty, the Free State High Commissioner. It mentions that, if an agreement between Whitehall and Dublin is achieved, much of the credit will be his. The writer goes on to say: "Mr. Dulanty has not the Napoleonic look for nothing. He gives me the impression of being a man who is likely to succeed in whatever he takes up; and Mr. Dulanty is on the side of peace. Certainly no man has served Ireland better. Mr. Dulanty is something more than a successful diplomatist and a charming host. He is a first-rate modern business man, who appreciates the benefits of the British market to his country. He has made, too, a romance of advertising. In his competent pen Irish butter and eggs—and even Irish bacon and Irish meat—have become literature."

Lord Brentford's Death.

General regret was expressed by members of the House of Commons this afternoon when the news reached them just before three o'clock that Lord Brentford had died. Lord Brentford was for many years a most popular and outstanding figure in the House, noted particularly for his uncompromising Protestantism and his spirited defence of the Prayer-book when the Bishops sought to introduce a revised version. The late peer was respected deeply in many circles outside Parliament, and his death will be a real loss to a number of philanthropic organisations. His period of office as Home Secretary was a most lively one. He had to deal with the general strike, and was responsible for the Arcos raid, which led to the breaking off of diplomatic relations with the Soviet Government. He set himself to clear away the disreputable night clubs, and ordered the inquiry into police methods that followed the notorious Hyde Park cases in 1928.

The Road-Rail Committee.

It is possible that the report of the Road-Rail Committee will be published next month, and great interest attaches to the result of the discussions between representatives of the railways and the road transport companies. Apart from the general question of arranging an equitable basis for road transport taxation, the Committee is said to be devoting much attention to a proposal that road haulage undertakings shall be brought under stricter control. This proposal suggests that special licences shall be introduced in order to limit the number of road hauliers running on certain routes, and it is thought that the scheme has a chance of adoption by the Committee. If such a proposal is accepted by the Government, the railway companies would be encouraged to embark on a new road transport programme.

New Fighting 'Planes.

A number of new fighting 'planes, with speeds of over two hundred miles an hour, are being attached to the Fleet Air Arm, or the branch of the Royal Air Force attached to the Navy. The new machines are single-seater and two-seater fighting machines of the latest type, and they are faster than craft performing similar duties in any foreign Navy. A specially strengthened form of construction is employed, so that they may be enabled to withstand the severe shock of being catapulted from a ship. As they are delivered, these new machines are being sent to battleships and aircraft carriers, where their duties will include reconnaissance, patrol duty, offensive action against hostile aircraft and gunnery spotting.

Straw Hats.

A burst of sunshine in London synchronised with the appearance of straw hats in the West End, but in this instance the weather was not responsible for the unfamiliar vogue, since the hats were worn by tourists from the United States. The American invasion may be said to have begun to-day, when a large party reached London from New York. The hats struck a somewhat alien note, since they were of a shape not usually worn in this country. The brims were much wider than the shape once popular here, while the crowns were low; but the lowness was relieved by the narrow bands, which served to stress the broadness of the brims.

SENATE RENDERS THE OATH BILL INOPERATIVE.

SECTIONS TWO AND THREE REJECTED.

EFFECT OF MR. MILROY'S NEW AMENDMENT.

AGREEMENT WITH BRITAIN MADE NECESSARY

MINISTER DENOUNCES THE "ANTI-IRISH BARRAGE."

BY OUR SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVE.

THE Oath Bill is now a thing of shreds and patches.

Having volunteered to postpone the discussion of the bill, in order that the Government might be spared possible embarrassment in the negotiations which it has entered upon with Great Britain, Opposition Senators yesterday, on finding that their proposal was not welcomed by the Government, proceeded to carry out their decision to render the bill inoperative.

Led by Mr. Sean Milroy, they rejected the two more offensive parts of the bill—Sections 2 and 3—and then virtually nullified the remaining portion by carrying an additional section, which will have the effect of holding up the bill pending agreement between the two parties to the Treaty—Great Britain and the Free State—and subsequent ratification by the Dail.

That the Government's attitude on the question of the Oath has not been affected by the new negotiations was made clear by President de Valera, when General Sir William Hickie rose at the beginning of the sitting to ask if a proposal for the adjournment of the House, in view of the new situation, would be acceptable to the Government.

"We see no reason why the Senate should not continue with this bill," was the President's emphatic reply. "Our attitude with regard to the nature of the bill is unchanged."

The amendment, he added, would not be at all acceptable, "because it is quite obvious that a motion of this kind could not be put through unless there was agreement, and, wherever there is a question of agreement, one party is in a position to prevent agreement." On that account, he said, the Government thought it better that the Senate should proceed with the bill.

For the first hour and a half the Senate was engaged in discussing the main section of the bill, that section which aims at the removal of the Oath from the Constitution. Inasmuch as there was no intention to divide on the section, it was a rather futile discussion, especially as the speeches covered the same ground as that which had already been covered in the debate on the second reading of the bill.

Indeed, so wide was the scope of most of the speeches, that Sir John Keane was driven to mild protest against the latitude which was being allowed. The Chairman, in reply, however, explained that, as the section was one which affected the whole constitutional position of the State, he felt it right to permit as much latitude as possible.

AN INTERNATIONAL COURT.

Among a number of lengthy orations one speech which really mattered was a five minutes' contribution from Sir William Hickie, who suggested a means of arbitration on the fundamental point of difference between the two countries.

Sir William was in agreement with the President, that the matter was not one which could be settled by a Free State court, while he also admitted that it was not for a British court to decide. What better court, however, could be found than an international court set up by the Dominions, which might be asked to give a legal interpretation of the question of the Oath, and also, if necessary, to arbitrate on other debateable points in the Treaty?

"I suggest," he added, "that the Free State delegation at Ottawa should take steps to put such a court into being."

Having spent a great deal of time on this first section, the House got down to business when it came to the more controversial parts of the bill. Mr. Milroy was commendably terse when he rose to divide the House on the second section, which proposed to delete that part of the Constitution which gives the Treaty the force of law. As Mr. Milroy explained, all the argument that was necessary to support his case had already been made, and, therefore, especially as he had no wish to say anything that might embarrass the Government in its present negotiations, he was content with formally moving the rejection.

OPPOSITION SCORES.

President de Valera, who had sat almost without intermission through all the previous debates on the measure, and had also listened to the early speeches of this sitting, was spared the mortification of seeing his bill ruthlessly destroyed; for he had left the House before Mr. Milroy rose to submit his amendment—left it, indeed, not to return that day. On Mr. Connolly, the Minister for Posts and Telegraphs, therefore, fell the task of replying. Following the fashion which had been set in brevity, the Minister reiterated that the effect of deleting this section would be to nullify the bill, and that, therefore, the amendment could not be accepted.

The House accordingly divided, and the result was a victory for the Opposition by thirty votes to twenty-two.

Five minutes later, after preliminaries which were even more terse than on the former amendment, the House was again dividing on Mr. Milroy's amendment to delete Section 3 of the bill. This is the section which, arising out of the Government's determination to delete all reference to the Treaty wherever it occurs in the Constitution—in order, as the President has described it, "to put the Treaty in its proper place"—proposed to take the phrase, "within the words of the scheduled Treaty," out of Article 50 of the Constitution.

On this the voting was almost similar, and the section disappeared from the bill by a majority of thirty-one votes to twenty-two. Then the House turned to the consideration of Mr. Milroy's motion to insert a new section, making the bill inoperative until after agreement with Great Britain and subsequent ratification of such agreement by the Dail.

In moving this amendment, Mr. Milroy was again restrained from making a speech by the fear that any words of his might prejudice the prospects of a happy outcome to the discussions of the Governments. "I do not know what the subject matter may be of the negotiations which have been begun, but I am not without hope that some good may result from them," he said, in explaining his reason for contenting himself with a formal motion.

The many reasons which made an amicable settlement with Britain desirable were alluded to by the Right Hon. Andrew Jameson, who seconded the amendment, and then the attack was opened with a fire-eating speech by Mr. Johnson, who saw in the proposal merely a move to give the British Government the right of veto on a piece of legislation enacted by the Oireachtas, and thus the end of all ideas of co-equality.

MINISTER AND OPPOSITION.

It was an argument which was later to be answered by Mr. O'Hanlon, who pointed out that if it were agreed that the measure was purely a domestic matter, the Labour Senator's argument would be justified, but that, as the majority of the House took the view that it violated a bilateral treaty, they were within their rights in demanding bilateral agreement before it became law.

Mr. Connolly's speech against the amendment had a note of bitterness. Obviously speaking under the stress of great emotion, Mr. Connolly declared that there was in the House a definite determination by a certain group to thwart the will of the Irish people.

"These people," he said, "are as much opposed to the complete freedom of the country as ever they were, and all the overtures, all the gestures, and all the good graces that have been shown them during the last ten years are completely wasted.

"Thirty representatives in this House," he continued, after a scornful allusion to the unelective quality of senators, "are standing definitely against the country and for the Union—for that is what it boils down to."

A storm of angry protest greeted this accusation, but Mr. Connolly went on to declare that "history would anathematise the names of those who had opposed the bill," and to speak of the "anti-Irish barrage" that was coming from business firms who were closing down—all with a view, it seemed, to getting his "pro-Irish Government" out of office.

The gauntlet thus angrily thrown down was picked up by Mr. O'Hanlon in probably the best speech of his career. He asked if it was really thought that Irish history would anathematise the names of the leaders of the last Government. As for the suggestion that the Senate was thwarting the will of the people, Mr. O'Hanlon reminded the House that the Attorney-General had admitted that there were two points of view on the Treaty aspect of this matter, and added that, if this bill meant passing out of the Commonwealth, he was prepared to challenge the Government to put it to the test to see whether the Irish people were prepared to let that happen.

Senators once more divided at half-past six, having already created considerable havoc with the bill in three and a half hours, and Mr. Milroy's new section was inserted by thirty-three votes to twenty-two.

Without further ado, the committee stage was passed, and the House adjourned until next Wednesday, when the report stage will be taken.

DULWICH BY-ELECTION

CONSERVATIVES RETAIN THE SEAT.

Polling took place in the Dulwich by-election yesterday, caused by the death of Sir Frederick Hall (Conservative). The candidates were Mr. Bracewell Smith (Conservative), Mrs. Helen Bentwich (Labour) and Dr. C. R. Cooke-Taylor (Liberal).

The result of the poll was declared last night as follows:—

Mr. Bracewell Smith (Con.)..	12,342
Dr. Cooke-Taylor (Lib.)	3,998
Mrs. Bentwick (Lab.)	3,905
Conservative majority	8,344

The result of the previous election was: Sir Frederick Hall (Con.), 21,752; Mr. F. Hughes (Lab.), 4,747; Dr. C. R. Cooke-Taylor (L.), 3,924. Conservative majority, 17,005.

IMPORTED MEAT AND POULTRY.

A NEW FREE STATE TAX.

The Executive Council of the Irish Free State issued an Order yesterday by which, under their Anti-Dumping Act, a tax is imposed on imported meats and poultry.

The tax will be at the rate of 6d. per lb. on the following meats, whether cooked or uncooked:—

Beef, veal, mutton and lamb, but excluding any of such meats imported in sealed containers, and also excluding extracts, essences, and similar preparations of any such meats.

Dead poultry and wild birds (whether cooked or uncooked) intended for use as food, but excluding any such poultry or birds imported in sealed containers and also excluding extracts, essences, and similar preparations of any such poultry or birds.

SPANISH LINER WRECKED.

BRITISH SHIPS RUSH TO THE RESCUE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

LAGOS (NIGERIA), Wednesday.

THE British liners Appam and Henry Stanley have answered the call to rescue eight hundred passengers of the Spanish liner Teide, which is reported to be a total loss off the island of Fernando Po, about seventy miles from the Nigerian coast. They were expected to arrive about three o'clock this afternoon.

Wireless reports from the Appam state that the Teide is wrecked at Oscura Point, near San Carlos.

A DANGER SPOT.

The passengers have taken to the lifeboats, but are in a grave position, as Oscura Point is exposed to the full force of the Atlantic swell, and is generally considered one of the most dangerous points on the coast.

The Teide sailed from Barcelona on May 15th for Santa Isabel (Fernando Po). Her last port of call was Monrovia, the capital of the negro republic of Liberia.

She belongs to the Compañia Trans-Mediterranea, and is registered at Barcelona as a vessel of 3,829 gross tons.

The Appam, which is a liner of 7,781 tons, belongs to the British and African Steam Navigation Co., Ltd. (Elder, Dempster and Co.), and is registered at Liverpool. The Henry Stanley (4,028 tons) belongs to the African Steamship Co. (Elder, Dempster and Co., managers), and is registered at London.

AIR OFFICER KILLED.

NAVAL LIEUTENANTS LOSE THEIR LIVES.

Squadron-Leader L. M. Elworthy, of No. 17 Squadron, R.A.F., stationed at Upavon (Wiltshire), was killed while making a parachute descent near Andover (Hampshire) aerodrome yesterday.

The descent was made during an exercise by No. 101 Squadron. The aeroplane concerned was landed undamaged, and the pilot was unhurt.

Squadron-Leader Elworthy was a passenger, and was up on duty.

The Air Ministry announced that, "as the result of an accident at Andover today to a Sidestrand aircraft of No. 101 Bomber Squadron, Andover, Squadron-Leader Leonard Maurice Elworthy lost his life, and Flight Lieutenant John Rene Whitley was slightly injured, in descending by parachute from the aircraft in which they were passengers. The pilot of the aircraft landed the machine safely, and was not injured."

Squadron-Leader Elworthy and three other officers were making a practice flight from Andover aerodrome, when Squadron-Leader Elworthy and another of the officers made parachute descents. The second officer landed safely, but when men from the Andover aerodrome went to the spot where Squadron-Leader Elworthy had fallen he was found to be dead.

The pilot and the other officer left in the 'plane afterwards made a perfect landing in the aerodrome.

The reason for the descent is at present unknown.

Flight-Lieutenant Elworthy's promotion to Squadron-Leader was only announced in Tuesday's night's London Gazette.

TWO NAVAL OFFICERS DEAD.

AIRCRAFT ACCIDENT IN SCOTLAND.

The following was issued from the Air Ministry yesterday evening:—

"The Air Ministry regrets to announce that Lieutenant Dennis John Margetts, Royal Navy, Flying Officer, Royal Air Force, and Lieutenant James Newsham, Royal Navy, the pilot and the observer of a Ripon aircraft, of No. 466 Fleet, Torpedo Bomber Flight, H.M.S. Furious, lost their lives as the result of an accident which occurred off the North-West coast of Scotland to-day."

Flying-Officer Margetts was posted to the General Duties Branch of the Air Force on January 4, 1927. He was gazetted a lieutenant in the Royal Navy on April 30, 1927. He was attached to 466 (Fleet Torpedo Bomber) Flight on H.M.S. Furious in March last year.

Lieutenant Newsham was gazetted on October 1, 1927, and was serving on H.M.S. Furious.

This makes twenty-five lives lost in R.A.F. accidents this year, and three men have been injured.

Last year seventy-five men were killed and fourteen injured.

AEROPLANES COLLIDE.

THREE INJURED AT CIVIC FETE.

A woman pilot and her two passengers were slightly injured in an aeroplane accident at Cardiff Municipal Aerodrome yesterday.

Miss Gower, one of the pilots taking part in the Cardiff Civic Week celebrations, was taking off when her machine collided with a stationary 'plane.

Her machine was smashed, and Miss Gower, together with her two passengers, had to be extricated from the wreckage.

All three suffered from shock, and Miss Gower also injured a knee.

WOMAN SENTENCED TO DEATH.

YOUNG CO. WEXFORD MAN WHO WAS AMBUSHED.

Found guilty of the murder of her nephew, John Cousins, with whom she and her son resided, Mrs. Jane O'Brien, a sixty years' old Wexford woman, was sentenced to death yesterday by Mr. Justice O'Byrne at the Central Criminal Court, Dublin.

The case for the prosecution was that Mrs. O'Brien feared the approaching marriage of John Cousins, which would displace her from the house, and that she cut a hole in a hedge and lay in wait for him with a gun on his returning from the home of his fiancée.

The defence raised a theory of political murder, John Cousins having taken an enthusiastic part in the then recently-held general election, and that Mrs. O'Brien acted as the police described because she thought she might be shielding her son.

The jury made a strong recommendation to mercy on account of Mrs. O'Brien's age and sex, but if justice takes its course the execution will take place on June 30th. Mr. Justice O'Byrne refused a certificate for leave to appeal.

The full report of the trial is on another page.

INVITATION FROM FRANCE.

PRE-LAUSANNE TALKS.

MR. MACDONALD TO CONFER IN PARIS.

HERRIOT POLICY "READ WITH PLEASURE."

THE British Foreign Office make the following announcement:—

"M. Herriot has addressed to the British Government a proposal for preliminary conversations before the opening of the Lausanne Conference on Thursday.

"Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, accompanied by Sir John Simon, intends to leave London on Saturday for Paris, and will continue his journey to Switzerland early next week, when other members of the United Kingdom delegation will also be travelling to Lausanne."

The debate on reparations in the House of Commons fixed for Monday has in consequence been postponed.

STAYING THROUGHOUT.

The Prime Minister intends to remain in Lausanne for the duration of the Conference, which may last a month (comments a Lobby correspondent). He will take a full part in the official proceedings of the Conference, but has been advised to curtail as much as possible activities outside the Conference.

The examination of the Prime Minister's eyes was completed yesterday, and showed their condition to be very satisfactory. It was, however, stated at No. 10 Downing street that the maintenance of this result will depend upon the amount of strain to which the Prime Minister is subjected, and the degree to which he can conserve his eyesight. For this reason the Prime Minister has been urged to avoid excessive pressure of work at Lausanne.

Conversations are still going on through diplomatic channels regarding the proposed International Economic Conference. It is assumed that this will be among the subjects discussed in the Paris conversations at the week-end.

Reuter's Paris correspondent says that the British Premier's acceptance of M. Herriot's invitation was conveyed through Lord Tyrrell, the British Ambassador. It was from Sir John Simon, and said:—"Please inform M. Herriot that the Prime Minister and I will be very happy to accept his invitation.

"We have read with pleasure his statement in the Chamber, and are convinced that the direct exchange of views which is about to take place will materially assist in paving the way to a satisfactory solution of the problems to be confronted at Geneva and Lausanne."

BUDGET PROBLEM.

The new French Government is already thinking somewhat anxiously about the Budget, and M. Germain-Martin, the Minister of Finance, in a statement to the Press, asks the nation to co-operate with him in the task of financial reorganisation necessitated by the situation, which, he says, has become serious since 1930.

The deficit for 1930-31 was 2,500,000,000 francs (approximately £27,000,000), while that of 1931-32 is, partly as a result of the Hoover moratorium, estimated at 4,000,000,000 francs (approximately £44,000,000).

The Government will submit to the Chamber before the close of the session a bill introducing a series of measures, which by an equitable reduction of expenditure will give immediate relief to the Treasury, and provide a sound foundation for the 1933 Budget.

"The task appears possible," says M. Germain-Martin, "and quickly realisable, without any risk of economic or social disturbances."

FROM "THE TIMES."

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

PROTECTION FOR EFFICIENCY.

The Times says:—At the end of last week the Import Duties Advisory Committee recorded the beginning of an organised attempt to make tariffs conditional upon efficiency. That is the real importance of their announcement about the iron and steel industry, which is to be the field for this constructive experiment.

This new departure, adds The Times, will be hailed with delight by those who have consistently contended that tariffs should be a means to an end, and not an end in themselves. The only disquieting feature in the machinery created by the Import Duties Act was the legitimate doubt whether the Advisory Committee would have either the time or the technical skill to insist upon that thorough reform of industry after industry which it was clearly designed to promote.

Very considerable efforts at reorganisation have been made, proceeds The Times, and over a year ago the Iron and Steel Trades Confederation, after describing the formation of the Bankers' Industrial Corporation, stated that it is public knowledge that a national scheme of organisation and development has been formulated. Two things have stood in the way of the adoption of this, or of some other, scheme. The first is the intense competition from countries with inferior labour conditions, less onerous taxation, and lower standing charges, and the second, the fact that readiness to reorganise has not been universal in this country. Tariffs have surmounted the first obstacle, and Friday's warning that tariffs are to be conditional upon efficiency will, it may be hoped, surmount the second.

FAMOUS SURGEON DEAD.

OPERATED ON PRESIDENT CLEVELAND.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Wednesday.

Dr. William Williams Keen, the distinguished surgeon, died on Tuesday in Philadelphia at the age of 95. In the course of his long career he had served his country in three wars—the Civil War, the Spanish War, and the Great War.

Among notable incidents in his life was the secret operation for cancer which he performed on President Cleveland on board a yacht in the East River, when he removed a large part of his jaw and substituted for it a rubber jaw, an operation which he also performed on one of Napoleon's soldiers fifty years after he had been wounded at the Battle of Borodino.

Keen made a long and successful fight in defence of Lister's anti-septic surgery, and, besides many other great services to humanity, he probably saved the lives of thousands of American soldiers in the Great War by insisting that they be inoculated with paratyphoid serum.

R.M.S. AND ITS CREDITORS.

NEW SCHEME OF ARRANGEMENT.

APPLICATION IN THE LONDON COURTS.

A SCHEME of arrangement between the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company and a number of its associated and subsidiary companies and their creditors came before Mr. Justice Eve in the Chancery Division, London, yesterday, on an application that the scheme be sanctioned.

The companies mentioned in the scheme were as follows:—R.M.S.P.; Meat Transports, Ltd.; Harland and Wolff, Ltd.; Nelson Steam Navigation Company, Ltd.; H. and W. Nelson, Ltd.; David McIver and Company, Ltd.; Pacific Steam Navigation Company, Ltd.; MacAndrews and Company, Ltd.; Glen Line, Ltd.; Elder Dempster and Company, Ltd.; African Steamship Company, Ltd.; Elder Line, Ltd.; British and African Steam Navigation Company, Ltd.; Imperial Direct Line, Ltd., and Oceanic Steam Navigation Company, Ltd.

NINE PETITIONS.

Mr. Wilfrid Greene, K.C., who appeared in support of the scheme, said that there were nine petitions. There were nine companies which might conveniently be called the Royal Mail group, but there were a good many creditors represented and a good many parties.

Mr. Greene said that Mr. H. B. Samuel, a preference shareholder in the White Star Line, had put forward certain amendments for consideration. The White Star Line was not a party to the scheme, but was affected by it in several ways, one being that the R.M.S.P. Company, the parent company of the group, guaranteed the dividends and principal of the preference issue of the White Star Line.

The White Star preference shareholders were a separate class, and had sanctioned the scheme by an overwhelming majority.

The actual petitioning companies were the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, Elder Dempster and Company, Ltd.; MacAndrews and Company, Ltd.; British and African Steam Navigation Company, Ltd.; Oceanic Steam Navigation Company, Ltd.; Nelson Steam Navigation Company, Ltd.; Glen Line, Ltd.; African Steamship Company and Pacific Steam Navigation Company.

HARLAND AND WOLFF.

With reference to Harland and Wolff, Ltd., who were concerned in the scheme, Mr. Greene said that they were a company incorporated in Northern Ireland. That was outside the jurisdiction of the Court, and the sanction of the scheme would have to be made conditional on the Courts of Northern Ireland sanctioning the same scheme.

Mr. Greene added that in the autumn of 1930 the position of affairs in the R.M.S.P. became serious from a financial point of view, and the voting control was thereupon vested in Mr. Walter Runciman (now President of the Board of Trade), Brigadier-General Arthur Maxwell and Sir William McLintock.

The necessity of taking steps to preserve the situation arose principally from the fact that the White Star Line was obviously about to make default in the payment of its preference dividend. The result of that would have been that the preference shareholders would have had a claim against the Royal Mail under the guarantee, and the whole structure would have been seriously affected, if not brought to the ground.

PRELIMINARY SCHEMES.

Last year there were three preliminary schemes for dealing with the situation in April, July and December. A moratorium was granted, and was extended from time to time as to that dividend, and by the December order a moratorium was also granted as to another approaching default in the interest of the second debenture stock of the Royal Mail itself, which was falling due on January 1, 1932. On that occasion undertakings were given to give to the two sets of debenture stockholders of the Royal Mail certain specific security on certain assets, and that had since been carried out by two supplementary trust deeds.

The object of those orders was to enable a comprehensive scheme to be drawn up if possible. With the assistance and scrutiny of the Treasury, the Government of Northern Ireland and the various classes of secured creditors, the best scheme possible in the circumstances had been prepared.

MORATORIUM TO 1934.

Everyone would have liked to have a final and comprehensive scheme which would reorganise the thing from top to bottom, but in the light of present circumstances, especially the depression in the shipping trade, that was found to be impossible, and it would have resulted in serious injustice to have attempted to have a shake out or something of that kind. In putting up the scheme the trustees had endeavoured to consolidate certain important shipping enterprises at present scattered among various companies, and to secure a proper moratorium down to the end of 1934, down to which period, subject to certain safeguards, the debts of the companies would not be enforceable.

The scheme, added Mr. Greene, had received the most careful investigation, and every consent necessary had been obtained.

Mr. Greene said that the ships of the companies concerned in the scheme would, in part, be handed over to two new operating companies to be formed to run the South American fleet and the West African fleet. Shares in the operating companies would be given as consideration for the ships, and it would be a condition that no holder of such shares would be able to part with them before December 31, 1934, without securing to other shareholders the opportunity to sell at the same price.

The scheme provided for the issue of deferred creditors certificates bearing interest at 5 per cent. in satisfaction of certain claims and debts. They would be payable as to principal and interest out of the net earnings of the company.

THE AMENDMENTS.

For convenience, several amendments were considered. One was suggested by Mr. Spens, K.C., for the Prudential Assurance Company, one of the trustees for the first debenture stockholders and for Viscount St. Davids, the other trustee, who has a charge on some of the property in the scheme. He said that it was desired that no lease or licence should be granted which, after December, 1934, would interfere with the trustees' rights.

Mr. Justice Eve—It is only a temporary arrangement, and they ought not to do anything that would tend to anyone's prejudice after the expiry of the period. It is all too short, it seems to me. I should like to have seen it over another three or four years.

The hearing was adjourned until to-day.

ITALIAN TRAIN SMASH.

MAKING HISTORY AT LEINSTER HOUSE.

THE UPPER CHAMBER'S MOST SERIOUS DEBATE.

OPINION IN LONDON ON TO-MORROW'S CONFERENCE.

BY OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.

THE debate on the Oath Bill in the Senate yesterday was one of the gravest that have yet occurred in that Chamber. It was clear that Senators in all parts of the House realised that this step which was being taken was one which would make history. The bill had been passed by the Dail. The Senate was called upon to exercise its function as a revising body. It had the voting power to do whatever seemed to it best. The Government Party realised this, and awaited developments. It was impossible to ignore the fact that the Oath Bill had a close relationship with the negotiations which were opened between the Free State and Great Britain.

What should be done in the circumstance? It would, perhaps, not be incorrect to say that both the Government and the Opposition would have been glad to allow the consideration of the bill to go over until the negotiations had time to develop. Neither had the initiative to propose such a step. Many Senators felt that, if the Opposition had proposed that this should be done, the Government would be glad to co-operate. Clearly questions of tactics were involved. In the end, when the suggestion was made, President de Valera declined to accept; and so the process of amendment proceeded.

THE BILL AS IT NOW STANDS.

Two sections were excised completely and a new section introduced. As it finally emerged, the bill provides for the removal of the Oath article from the Constitution, but this must not be done until, after negotiations with Great Britain, an agreement is reached that the bill in no way affects any part of the Treaty of 1921.

Naturally, it will not be acceptable to the Government in this form. The remaining stages of the bill will be taken next week. The report stage is fixed for Wednesday, and in all probability the final stage will then be taken.

After that the bill will be sent back to the Dail, with the intimation that amendments have been made. It is not, of course, known what the Government will do. It will be open to them to move that the Dail disagree with the amendments, and return the bill in its unamended form to the Senate, who will insist on their amendments, and thus a deadlock will arise. The bill will then be held up for eighteen months—that is, if the Government do not elect to go to the country for a reversal of the Senate's action. If they secured such verdict the bill would become law in the form in which it left the Senate, after a period of sixty days.

Before that time arrives it is very probable that Free State politics will have taken on a very different aspect. The negotiations with Great Britain will, no doubt, have ended, with what results it is impossible at the present moment to foresee.

DELEGATION TO LEAVE TO-NIGHT.

The Free State deputation to continue the negotiations in London to-morrow will leave Dublin by this evening's mail boat from Dun Laoghaire. It will consist of four persons—President de Valera, the Vice-President (Mr. Sean T. O'Kelly), Mr. Sean Moynihan, Secretary to the the Executive Council, and Mr. Joseph P. Walshe, Secretary to the Ministry for External Affairs. It is understood the meeting with the British representatives will take place at Downing street.

The fact that the delegation will return to Dublin on Friday night appears to suggest that the work of negotiation will not have got far during the first meeting. Feeling in political circles is, indeed, far from being optimistic. Rumours to the effect that President de Valera would maintain the attitude he has hitherto adopted were prevalent and there was a suggestion that the British Government would come to close quarters with definite proposals at a very early moment.

OPINION IN WESTMINSTER.

The conversations which took place at Dublin on Tuesday between the British and Irish Free State Ministers, says the Press Association Lobby Correspondent, were of a preliminary character, and it is realised that Friday's meeting will provide the crucial discussion between the two Governments.

The immediate issue is the Oath Removal Bill, and Mr. de Valera's statement in the Senate that his Government has not changed its attitude has not encouraged optimistic views of the probable outcome of the negotiations. The British Government is aware that there is in the House of Commons a body of opinion which is somewhat suspicious of the whole proceedings. These members would like to be assured that Mr. de Valera is seeking a compromise acceptable to both sides.

The feeling at Westminster is that if Mr. de Valera wants to do business with the British Government, he will have to adopt a more reasonable attitude, and recognise that departures from the Irish Treaty, and the financial agreement which followed it, can be made only in so far as they are agreed by both sides.

The view is that if Mr. de Valera insists upon the assertion of a "right" to amend the Constitution, regardless of the Treaty, the Downing street talks can end only in failure.

The British Government is keenly desirous of a settlement of the differences, and is believed to be willing to compromise, but no one supposes that it is in a mood to make all the concessions.

If Mr. de Valera has no concessions to offer, then it is highly probable that Friday will register a complete breakdown of the negotiations.

The discussions are expected to embrace the subject of the land annuities, a payment of one and a half million pounds being due to the Debt Commissioners from the Irish Free State next Wednesday.

MINISTERS' REPORT ON DUBLIN CONFERENCE.

MR. DE VALERA'S BELIEF IN HIS CASE.

The Parliamentary Correspondent of The Times writes to-day:—Mr. Macdonald presided yesterday over two meetings of the Cabinet, lasting in all for more than three hours, when the arrangements for next week's conferences were under consideration, and Mr. Thomas and Lord Hailsham reported on their visit to Dublin. They made it clear to their colleagues that the discussions with Mr. de Valera had been entirely of a preliminary character, but they emphasised the good feeling which prevailed on both sides, and Mr. de Valera's intense belief in the case which he put forward.

It was also made clear that any reference which had been made to the position of Ulster was a casual one, to which no significance need be attached.

The London Conference with Mr. de Valera will open in Downing street to-morrow morning. The representatives of the United Kingdom will include the Prime Minister, Mr. Thomas, Lord Hailsham and Mr. Chamberlain, and it is expected that Mr. de Valera will be accompanied by several members of his Cabinet.

It is not yet known how long the discussions will last, and for the moment there is no great optimism in Whitehall about the outcome. There has been nothing as yet to show that Mr. de Valera has changed his attitude on the oath, although he may be willing to consider every other matter in dispute.

Mr. Brocklebank is asking the Chancellor of the Exchequer next Wednesday whether the £1,500,000 due for transfer by the Irish Free State on account of land annuities has been received.

"A WILD GOOSE CHASE."

The Morning Post says:—Mr. Thomas and Lord Hailsham have reported to the Cabinet on their visit to Dublin, and we can put in two words what that report was: "Nothing doing." So much is clear from Mr. de Valera's statement to the Senate. The Free State Government, he said, had not changed their attitude towards the Oath Removal Bill, and he saw no reason why the Senate should not continue to discuss it. The two British Ministers, therefore, went over on a wild-goose chase to discuss an issue which the Free State Government refuse to discuss, and the result is to give an impression of weakness on the British side, which we hope and believe has no foundation in fact.

"ULSTER IS NOT FOR SALE."

LORD CRAIGAVON ON UNITY.

The London correspondent of the Belfast Telegraph yesterday drew the attention of Viscount Craigavon (Prime Minister of Northern Ireland) to reports from Dublin which suggested that Mr. de Valera was endeavouring to bring the question of a united Ireland into the conference with the British Government.

"The suggestions thrown out are quite out of the question," said Lord Craigavon, emphatically. "Ulster's mind is made up long ago, and we have no change to record.

"I would never be a party to separation from Great Britain and the Imperial connection. There is nothing to be feared. The present British Government and I see eye to eye.

"I hope the people of Ulster will not be in any way perturbed by this parrot cry which is always raised when the South find themselves in a difficulty. We are united, and united we propose to remain.

"It is entirely out of the question," Lord Craigavon added. "Ulster will never agree to it. Her position is perfectly clear, and remains unchanged.

"Ulster is not for sale."

UNOFFICIAL STATEMENT.

The following unofficial statement was circulated in Belfast yesterday:—

"It can be positively said that so far as the rank and file of Ulster Unionism is concerned, feeling would be emphatically against any transfer of Ulster to the Free State, and that any attempt to interfere with the present status and position of Ulster, or to use Ulster as part of a bargain between the British Government and Mr. de Valera, would not be at all likely to succeed."

OATH BILL AMENDED IN THE SENATE.

NEW CLAUSE MAKES PROVISION FOR AGREEMENT.

BITTER ATTACK ON SENATORS BY THE MINISTER.

IN the Senate yesterday important sections of the Removal of Oath Bill were rejected on division, and an amendment, moved by Senator Milroy, was carried, to insert a new section as follows:—

> This Act shall not come into force until an agreement has been entered into between the Government of the Irish Free State and the British Government, providing that Article 4 of the Treaty of 1921 shall cease to have effect and such agreement has been ratified and approved by resolution of Dail Eireann.

The amendment was carried by 33 votes to 22.

The remaining stages of the bill were agreed to, and the report stage was fixed for Wednesday next.

PRESIDENT'S ATTITUDE UNCHANGED.

Before resuming the debate on the Committee stage of the Constitution (Removal of Oath) Bill, General Sir WILLIAM HICKIE said that he was anxious to speak on the bill, but before doing so he would like to inform the House that he proposed to move the adjournment in view of the negotiations which were proceeding between the British and the Irish Free State Governments. He asked if such a proposal would be acceptable to the Government.

President DE VALERA—We see no reason why the Senate should not continue with the bill. Our attitude as regards the nature of the bill is unchanged, and it is a matter for this House finally to determine if there will be a question of when we could deal with this bill again. The nature of the amendment proposed by Senator Milroy—that the Removal of Oath Bill should not come into force pending negotiation and agreement between the two Governments—of course, would not be acceptable at all, because it is quite obvious that a motion of this particular kind would mean that this bill could not be put through unless there was agreement, and wherever there is a question of agreement one party is always in a position to prevent agreement, and on that account we think it is proper that the Senate should proceed with the bill.

General Sir WILLIAM HICKIE thereupon resumed the debate. He said he had been much impressed by the forceful and quiet manner in which President de Valera had set forth his case when introducing the bill, but he had heard nothing to alter his opinion that the bill would be a breach of the Treaty, that there was no mandate for it from the country, and that he could give no support to a measure which would permit it to be thought that Ireland refused to keep her plighted word.

He noticed that no reply had been made by any of the Senators who spoke in support of the bill, or by the President himself in his summing up, to the admirable exposition of the legal aspect of the case which was made by Senator Brown, though it was acknowledged by the law officer of the Government that there was more than one way in which that aspect might be considered.

WHY NOT A DOMINIONS COURT?

All fair-minded people would appreciate the President's reasons for not referring the matter to their own courts; it was equally obvious that it could not be referred to the British courts. But what better court could be found, said the Senator, than an international court set up by the Dominions, which might be asked to give, not only a strict legal interpretation to the question of the Oath, but also, if necessary, to arbitrate on any other debatable points in the Treaty. He asked if it were not possible for the Free State delegates at Ottawa to take steps to put such a court into being.

Colonel MOORE said that he regretted the action taken by Senator Sir John Keane in opposing the bill. It would be wiser if Sir John Keane and the people he represented took more interest in the development of their own country. Any party which took more interest in another country than in its own was committing suicide. It was not they who were breaking the Treaty—it was already broken by the Statute of Westminster.

Sir THOMAS GRATTAN ESMONDE said that he objected to tests. As he supported the last Nationalist Government, so he would support the present Government. Meanwhile he objected to the country leaving the Commonwealth of Nations.

THE SENATE'S DUTY.

Mr. GEORGE CROSBIE said that he believed it was the Senate's duty, in view of the serious issues involved in the removal of the Oath, to hold up the bill. He thought he was right in suggesting that President de Valera at one time did not object to accepting Dominion status. There was some danger now of Free State markets being affected. Before anything was done that might have repercussions on the prosperity of the State they should remember that one cannot buy without selling. It was true that they could procure machinery, coal and other commodities, but they should realise the danger of other countries refusing to send supplies to this country for fear of any inability to pay.

On the matter of national reunion, Mr. Crosbie caused laughter by remarking that, even if gold were found on the Mushragh Mountains, diamonds on the Macgillicuddy Reeks, and platinum on Tara Hill, he still believed that the North would not come in with the Free State.

LABOUR SENATOR'S VIEW.

Mr. CUMMINS (Lab.) said that the Senate undoubtedly had a legal right to prevent the bill from becoming law immediately, but he would like to examine its moral right to cut across the expressed will of the people in a vital matter, whose solution might perhaps be responsible for the future existence of this State as a separate entity; and also for the future existence of that good-will with their neighbour, England, which he believed it was the unanimous desire of the people of this land should exist. They should remember the peculiar unilateral structure of the Senate; for when they went back to its origin the nominees who entered the Senate were the nominees of a party slightly in the majority. The many who might have been in the Senate, and who to-day, possibly, would have grown to a majority in the Senate, unfortunately for the country, remained outside. The Senate had no part in the acceptance of the Treaty. They were not responsible for the terms of the Treaty, and, therefore, in no way should they be responsible for the alteration of the terms of that Treaty, and in no way was the honour of the Senate involved if it submitted to the expressed will of the people to give the Government now in power at least a chance

Section 1 of the bill was carried without a division

DEFEATED BY EIGHT VOTES

On the motion that Section 2 stand part of the bill, Mr. MILROY (C. na nG.) said that he proposed to divide the House on this section. It was not necessary to show why the section should not be retained, as that ground had already been stated in the House, and he did not want to delay the procedure with any repetition of arguments.

Mr. CONNOLLY, Minister for Posts and Telegraphs, said that the full explanation for the section had already been given. He would like to remind the House that it was disclosed clearly in the debate in the other chamber that this recommendation was deemed necessary by the law officers of the former administration to safeguard the Privy Council Bill then being brought forward, and it was not the intention of the Executive to accept the deletion of this clause. It would, in their opinion, nullify what they had in mind in carrying through this measure.

Mr. BROWN, K.C., submitted that this section was entirely out of place in the bill. It raised a very big question. There was a great deal to be said for the view put forward by the President, that the discussion of an international contract ought not to be dealt with by the courts of one of the contracting parties. There was a great deal to be said on that matter, but it was a question which should not have been raised as a side issue on any other bill, and especially on this particular bill, whose object was the removal of the Oath.

The motion that Section 2 stand part of the bill was defeated by 30 votes to 22.

The voting was as follows:—

For—Senators Mrs. Clarke, Comyn, Connolly, Cummins, Dowdall, Duffy, Sir T. Esmonde, Farran, Foran, Johnson, MacEllin, MacKean, MacPartland, O'Doherty, O'Farrell, O'Neill, Mrs. Wyse Power, Quirke, D. L. Robinson, S. Robinson, Ryan and Colonel Moore.—22.

Against—Senators Bagwell, Bellingham, Coey-Bigger, S. L. Brown, Miss K. Browne, Mrs. Costello, Counihan, Crosbie, Countess of Desart, Dillon, Douglas, Fanning, Garahan, Earl of Granard, Sir John Griffith, Guinness, Sir William Hickie, the Right Hon. A. Jameson, Sir John Keane, The McGillycuddy of the Reeks, McLoughlin, Milroy, Moran, O'Connor, O'Hanlon, O'Rourke, Dr. O'Sullivan, Toal, Vincent and Wilson.—30.

SECTION THREE ALSO DEFEATED.

On the motion that Section 3 stand part of the bill, Mr. Milroy said he would divide the House on this section also.

This section reads as follows:—"Article 50 of the Constitution shall be and is hereby amended by the deletion of the words 'within the terms of the scheduled Treaty' now contained therein."

On a division the motion was defeated by 31 votes to 22.

The voting was the same as on the above list, except that Senator Staines was present on this occasion and voted against the motion.

Mr. MILROY moved to insert before Section 4 a new section as follows:—

> "This Act shall not come into force until an agreement has been entered into between the Government of the Irish Free State and the British Government providing that Article 4 of the Treaty of 1921 shall cease to have effect and such agreement has been ratified and approved by resolution of Dail Eireann."

He said that he would not delay the House in this matter, except to say that the debate had shown that the opinion of the majority was that the operation of the bill should be delayed until an attempt had been made to secure agreement by negotiation between the parties concerned. He had prepared certain observations to make on the bill before the new situation arose, and, although he was not aware of the subject matter of the discussions between the representatives of the Free State and the British Government, he had some hope that this matter might have been taken into consideration, and he was not without hope that some good would result. For that reason he intended merely to move the resolution formally.

Right Hon. A. JAMESON, seconding, said that he would follow Senator Milroy's example, and say only a few words. It was the idea of the majority of the House that the Oath should be the subject of negotiation with a view to an amicable settlement between the two Governments.

MR. JOHNSON DISSENTS.

Mr. JOHNSON argued that, if this motion passed, it meant that the British Government could veto an Act of the Oireachtas. The Dail passed the bill and the Senate agreed to the principle of the bill, but notwithstanding the fact that the Oireachtas had passed an Act dealing only with the Irish Free State, the resolution said that it should not have effect until the British Parliament said it could. That was the meaning of the amendment.

He suggested that the effect of the amendment, if passed, would be to ask the British Parliament to legislate for the Irish Free State. In the South African Constitution it was clearly laid down that they might alter the Constitution, and that Constitution prescribed an oath to be taken by the members of the Parliament. If there was anything in equality of status, surely it was not merely the right of the Free State, but its duty, to pass the bill without any submission to the British Government if the people of the country deserved it.

Mr. H. S. GUINNESS said that the objective of the bill constituted a very definite breach of the Treaty, and he should support the amendment. The Treaty was a partnership agreement, solemnly entered into, between Great Britain and the Free State, and that one of the contracting parties should now attempt, without any negotiation, to annul what was a vital condition of the instrument was undoubtedly a serious breach of international usage and of international courtesy.

OATH KEYNOTE OF TREATY.

The Oath was the keynote of the Treaty. Allegiance to the Crown was the keynote of the Statute of Westminster, and, in its recognition of allegiance to the King-Emperor, it was the link that bound, that held together the Great Commonwealth of the British Empire. Break that link, sever that connection, and where were they? What would be the consequences? In relation to England and the other Dominions they became a foreign country and their nationals became foreigners, with no more right or status than a Chinaman or a Frenchman on a visit to England or one of the Dominions. What did that entail? Their sons and their daughters would be excluded from all service under the Crown, both in England and abroad. Irish labour would become foreign labour, and, as such, ineligible for employment.

PRIVILEGES OF PARTNERSHIP.

There was another aspect of this proposal. When they had "cut the painter" and drifted off from England what would become of all the financial advantages they now enjoyed as partner in the Commonwealth? Any residents here who received income from British securities would have the pleasure of paying double income tax. The privilege which they had hitherto enjoyed in this connection was no trifling matter, as it had been estimated that the gain to Ireland under existing arrangements was little less than £500,000 a year, and all that would disappear again. They at once opened up a vista of no preference on goods exported from the Free State.

Where would their cattle trade be should England see fit to put a duty of 20s. a head on all animals from the Free State shipped to her ports? It would smash the cattle trade of this country. Butter, eggs, bacon, and other agricultural products would suffer—in fact, their entire export trade might be entirely ruined. With all these facts before them, should they not pause, and try before it was too late to come to some reasonable understanding regarding the matters in dispute.

Mr. J. C. DOUGLAS said that the speeches upon that amendment had convinced him more than ever that the Government had made a mistake in pressing the bill. It would have been better if they had postponed the discussion until some time later. It was no threat to say that the decision of the people should prevail, and no man was fit to be a senator if he disputed that. If after a time there was no agreement come to on that bill, then if the people were consulted, and if they decided that the bill should be proceeded with without agreement, they had a perfect right to so decide, and no British Parliament could beat them.

MINISTER'S REPLY.

BITTER ATTACK ON SENATORS.

Mr. CONNOLLY, Minister for Posts and Telegraphs, replying, said that one thing stood out clearly in the debate, and that was that there was in that House a definite determination by a certain group to thwart the will of the Irish people, and that group was as opposed to the complete freedom and independence of this country as ever they had been, and that all the gestures and all the overtures, and all the good graces that had been shown them during the past ten years had been utterly and completely wasted.

They were lectured on honour and dignity. He felt just as sensitive as certain Senators as to the dignity of any Irishman. Dignity was not a matter of gestures, but rather a matter of truth, honour and belief in what they did, and he claimed that the dignity of that House, of the Dail and of the country had consistently been dragged in the mire by this very conscience test that was imposed on the representatives of the people.

In that critical stage of the country's history they found in what was supposed to be the national assembly influences thrown, not on the side of this country, but on the side of those with whom they were supposed to be negotiating. The main force of all propaganda used on the other side sprang from those who opposed the bill in the Dail and from those people of influence who sat in the Chamber without any direction from the Irish people.

Mr. MILROY—Like yourself.

Mr. CONNOLLY, referring to Senator Crosbie's remarks, said that he, least of all, had authority to stand up and speak for the Irish people in that House. In that House they had 31 people who were lined up definitely, as were many of their antecedents, in a stand against this country and for the Union, for it all boiled down to that. (Cries of "No, no.")

Mr. CONNOLLY—It is not for me to say to-day on what basis conversations are taking place. It is for me to point out to this House that this matter is a purely domestic one, and we hold by that, in spite of any conversations or negotiations that may be going on.

"ANTI-IRISH BARRAGE."

They had reason to note the actions of the anti-Irish element that were still going on. They had the barrage of closing down works and factories; the barrage of the financial institutions; the withdrawal of employment. That could be done for no other purpose than to get the present pro-Irish Executive and Government out of office. It was only when the slave spirit was shown by the last Executive that they assimilated to them those in control of industry.

This country, continued Mr. Connolly, was going to go on, in spite of all the people who would stand against it. Many members of the Senate owed their position here to the early nominations that were made for them, and he ventured to suggest that not one of them would be returned if there was a straight vote in the country taken on the ordinary register to-day.

"I go further and say that they would not be amongst the first hundred if there was a straight vote. Many worthy representatives of our people, men who worked intelligently, cleverly and unselfishly for the good of this country, have been kept and are being kept out of public life because of this conscience test. It is our function to have removed this test which deprives any person from coming into the Legislature."

He was opposed to the amendment because it was pure obstruction—to hold up the bill in the hope that by some chance or some event the bill would never come into operation.

"It is an alliance of the original pro-Treaty element, who are determined by every means in their power to defeat a party, and in the hope of defeating that party they will risk doing irreparable injury to this country. It is an alliance between those forces and the crowd that always despised this country and always opposed it. It has been going on for years, standing four square against the national aspirations of the people, and that is the purpose of this amendment.

WHAT THE FUTURE HOLDS?

"Perchance if the Senate holds up this bill for eighteen months the present Executive may be out of office. That is the hope that is backing it, and if they are, what then? Does that little group think they can control this country? Do they think they have the will of the people behind them when we by legislative measures are trying to evolve a peaceful solution for the proper legislation of this country that is being denied? That is the purpose of the amendment, and that is why we resist it. We stake our future on this bill.

Mr. J. C. DOWDALL said that without exception the amendment was the most reactionary one ever proposed in the Senate.

Mr. O'DOHERTY thought the amendment was ample evidence of the inferiority complex that existed in the Opposition.

Colonel MOORE described the amendment as scandalous. The Opposition, by the attitude they had adopted, would do much to put the Free State out of the Commonwealth Some people opposed the Home Rule Bill for years and years and eventually withdrew it. They got a Treaty. That was what was likely to happen now if the Opposition stood in the way. This country would be enraged, and, secondly, they might be put out of the Commonwealth. The Opposition would have to bear the blame arising from their present attitude.

MINISTER'S SPEECH RESENTED.

Mr. MILROY reminded Mr. Connolly that the amendment was moved by one who had a record in public national life as good as Mr. Connolly or any member of his party. The amendment was not in the interest of any British section, but was based on the idea that peace and good-will should continue between Great Britain and the Free State. It seemed to be forgotten that the fundamental idea underlying the Commonwealth was that it was the duty of co-equal nations not to take any step without first having friendly consultation about the matter.

Mr. DOWDALL—And agreement.

Mr. MILROY—If consultation does not bring agreement, or fails, then each party can break off and take its own course. There can be no dictation, and there is none between the Irish Free State and Britain so long as the Free State is at liberty to leave the Commonwealth if she so desires. This amendment is intended to give the country an opportunity of weighing up the implications contained in this bill.

Continuing, Mr. MILROY said that the bill was brought before the Oireachtas under false pretences. If it were not offensive he would say that it was done after the manner of the three card trick by wishing to impose it on the people without their consent. The object of the amendment was to compel the Executive to resort to negotiations with the British Government. He made no bones about it. In entering into negotiations the Executive Council would be only doing their duty if from the time of the passing of this amendment, they would include in their present discussions with the British representatives the very important matters raised by this bill.

He did not regard this as a party matter at all, but speaking as a citizen of this State, with a responsible conception of the duties attaching to the office of Senator, he said that it was almost criminal at this stage to raise these partisan issues that were raised by Senator Connolly in such brutal and bitter fashion. There was no good purpose to be served by reviving old dying hatreds, stirring up the embers of dying feuds, and when he heard a man speaking as he heard the Minister for Posts and Telegraphs speak that day, he said: "God save Ireland from that kind of mentality." It was the utterance of a bitter partisan and a political bigot. This was not the occasion for that kind of spirit. The present was a time when all men should be trying to find within the State the various threads by which the different sections of the community could be knit together and united.

FIRST STEP TO SUICIDE.

Mr. FARREN (Labour) said the effect of passing the amendment would be to tie the hands of their representatives going into negotiation. By their action to-day the Senate was taking the first step towards suicide. They had given to the people of the country a reason for the abolition of the Senate.

Mr. M. O'HANLON denied Senator Johnson's assertion that they were asking the British Government to veto the Acts of this Oireachtas. They were doing no such thing, but were attending to their own legislation in their own way. That might be all right if the majority of the Senate thought as did Senator Johnson, but the majority of the House was of opinion that the bill affected the articles of agreement between Great Britain and the Free State. The majority held that the bill broke the Treaty, and they thought that the Treaty should not be altered or modified except with the consent of the two contracting parties. He denied that they were handing the trump card to England, as had been said by Senator Doherty. If those in favour of the bill objected to discussion at this stage, why did not the President or the Minister for Posts and Telegraphs earlier in the day agree to the suggestion that the measure be adjourned?

MINISTER CASTIGATED.

In Senator Connolly's speech they had been treated to the most embittered statement he had ever heard in that House—a speech full of bile and venom. They were told that the object of the bill was to bring about peace and goodwill amongst Irishmen, but speeches like that of Senator Connolly gave some indication of what was in the minds of those people. These speeches were not made in the interests of peace and goodwill, and they ought to be deprecated in that House.

The Minister for Posts and Telegraphs had referred to the "gang" behind the opposition to the measure, and that their names would be anathematised in Irish history; but he (Senator O'Hanlon) thought that the future history would not anathematise such men as W. T. Cosgrave, General MacEoin, Dick Mulcahy and others, who had played the biggest part in building up this State to its present position and to everything it held out in the development of national culture.

They were told also they were taking action to thwart the will of the Irish people. With all due respect, he said that, if the Government believed the Irish people were prepared to accept the bill knowing its repercussions and that it would mean their passing out of the British Commonwealth, he would challenge them to put that to the test at any time.

He wanted to know what were the nature of the negotiations that were at present going on with the representatives of the British Government. What were they all about? The big issues before the Irish people to-day in relation to Great Britain and themselves were, first, the question of the Oath; second, the question of the land annuities; third, he supposed, the question of tariffs, and, fourth, the Imperial Conference at Ottawa. They were told the negotiations were about the Ottawa Conference, and they had to get two representatives of the British Government over here to listen to what they had to say about Ottawa, and their President was going to London on Friday to continue the talk. The days of secret diplomacy were not over.

He remembered those who were now on the Government benches decrying the methods adopted by the predecessors. But in these conversations evidently the question of the Oath, the most important affecting this country, was not to be the subject of negotiations at all. The methods of the Opposition towards the bill had also been referred to by Senator Connolly, but one method they had not descended to was the abusive one. From the opponents of the bill he had heard no reference to carrion crows, or renegade Irishmen, and such epithets were to be deprecated.

AMENDMENT CARRIED.

On a division the amendment, moved by Mr. Milroy, was carried by 33 votes to 22.

The voting was as follows:—

For—Senators Bagwell, Dr. Barnville, Sir Edward Bellingham, Sir E. Cory Bigger, S. L. Brown, K.C.; Miss K. Brown, Mrs. Costelloe, John C. Counihan, Geo. Crosbie, Countess of Desart, J. G. Douglas, M. Fanning, H. Garahan, Dr. O. St. J. Gogarty, Earl of Granard, Sir John Pursar Griffith, Henry S. Guinness, Major-General Sir William Hickie, Right Hon. Andrew Jameson, Sir John Keane, C. Kennedy, The McGillycuddy of the Reeks, J. MacLoughlin, Sean Milroy, J. Moran, J. O'Connor, M. F. O'Hanlon, Brian O'Rourke, Dr. O'Sullivan, M. Staines, T. Toal, A. R. Vincent, and R. Wilson—33.

Against—Senators Mrs. Clarke, Michael Comyn, K.C.; Joseph Connolly, William Cummins, James Dillon, J. C. Dowdall, Michael Duffy, T. Farren, T. Foran, T. Johnson, Sean E. MacEllin, J. MacKean, D. H. MacPartland, Colonel Moore, Joseph O'Doherty, John T. O'Farrell, L. O'Neill, Mrs. Wyse Power, William Quirke, David L. Robinson, Seamus Robinson, Seamus Ryan—22.

The motion that the new section stand part of the bill was carried without a division.

The Committee stage of the bill was passed, and the Report stage was fixed for Wednesday next at 3 o'clock.

The House then adjourned.

THE AVALANCHE OF NEW DUTIES.

SIXTY IMPOSED IN THREE MONTHS.

MR. LEMASS ADMITS "WE HAVE MADE MISTAKES."

THE chief business in the Dail yesterday was the Finance (Customs Duty) Bill, which passed its second reading by 70 votes to 48.

In his criticism of the bill, Mr. Blythe said that the giving of easy money to manufacturers was going beyond the proper aim of a tariff.

Mr. Minch declared that many of the duties would result in putting a premium on inefficiency.

"It is not tariffs, but prohibition, we want in this country," declared Mr. T. P. Dowdall.

The Minister for Industry and Commerce (Mr. Lemass) made a confession. "We have made mistakes," he said. "We have imposed over sixty duties in three months, and it was not possible to give precise examination to all to ascertain what the effects would be. We had to proceed by a system of trial by error."

Rebutting the argument that people would be afraid to invest money in the Free State, the Minister stated that in the last five days twelve British and Northern Ireland firms had approached his department with a view to establishing factories in the twenty-six counties.

A motion by Mr. D. Morrissey, that steps should be taken to provide work or maintenance for the unemployed, was agreed to.

The Dail adjourned until 3 p.m. to-day.

"EASY MONEY" FOR FACTORIES.

HELP FOR TANNERS.

THE MINISTER FOR INDUSTRY AND COMMERCE, in reply to Mr. James Everett (Labour, Wicklow), stated that a scheme to help the tanning industry was under consideration. It was intended to revive the industry where it had existed.

DONEGAL CARPETS AND DUTY.

Replying to Mr. Brian Brady (F.F., Donegal), the MINISTER FOR FINANCE said that duty was charged only on the work done abroad in the case of carpets made in Donegal, finished in Carlisle, and re-imported into the Saorstat.

BILLS READ FIRST TIME.

The following received a first reading:—

Bill to make provision for the control and carrying on of manufactures in Saorstat Eireann.

Bill to amend Sub-Section (5) of 71 of the Diseases of Animals Act.

The Eucharistic Congress Bill.

The final stages of the Public Charitable Hospitals (Amendment) Bill, 1932, were agreed to without a division.

FINANCE (CUSTOMS DUTY) BILL.

CAUSTIC CRITICISM.

On the second stage of the Finance (Customs Duty) Bill, 1932, moved by Mr. Lemass, Minister for Industry and Commerce,

Mr. BLYTHE (C. na nG., Monaghan) said that the bill had its origin in a series of provisional orders, which had been used more freely than was justified. In most of these cases there was little or no evidence of abnormal importation. If they were to have industrial development they should not aim at fostering every sort of industry simply because conditions were suitable.

To give easy money to manufacturers might be policy, but it was going beyond the proper aim of the tariff. He asked the Minister to consider the question of removing the duty on horse-drawn farm vehicles, having regard to the difficulties that faced farmers in the neighbourhood of the border.

HYPOTHETICAL INDUSTRIES.

Mr. DILLON (Independent, Donegal), asked the Minister to reduce the taxes on agricultural machinery and on Indian meal, and to do something to help the small mills in the country districts. It would be bad policy to put on tariffs for the purpose of promoting hypothetical industries, which would seriously affect small existing industries. This bill, he said, in its application to agricultural machinery, spades and shovels, would increase the cost of the essential requirements of the agricultural community in the carrying on of their business.

Mr. MINCH (C. na nG., Carlow-Kilkenny), submitted that many of the proposed tariffs would result in putting a premium on inefficiency.

Mr. ANTHONY (Labour, Cork), urged the reduction of the proposed 3s. per lb. tax on cocoa and cocoa products.

Mr. MURPHY (Labour, W. Cork), pleaded for a reduction in the tariff on imported secondhand clothing.

Mr. O'HARA (C. na nG., Mayo, N.), said that dealers were never infected by imported clothing, and its stoppage would be a hardship to the poor.

Mr. LITTLE (F.F., Waterford), suggested that the Minister should delay the imposition of the tax for a year or so.

NO EVIDENCE OF DUMPING.

Mr. P. McGILLIGAN (C. na nG., National University), described the bill as a misuse of the Act passed last November to prevent abnormal importations. No evidence had been submitted to show that dumping had taken place. There was machinery for discovering abnormal imports through the Customs officials In the main the imposition of tariffs meant an increase of prices. The Minister had spoken about guarantees as to prices, but all these were bound up with certain contingencies. There was no likelihood of the tariffed articles being made in this country within a short time. The Minister's statement that he expected to get £1,000,000 from tariffs this year showed that big importations were to continue. The Minister had spoken about price-fixing, but he (Mr. McGilligan) would like him to state if such machinery ever successfully operated in any other country in normal times. The alternative was State interference. Personally, he had no belief in either of these proposals.

Mr. T. P. DOWDALL (F.F., Cork) urged that what they wanted in the Free State was prohibition, not tariffs.

Mr. CURRAN (Lab., Dublin Co.), speaking in the interests of the Balbriggan hosiery workers, urged the Minister to prohibit the importation of all socks and stockings, as well as secondhand clothing.

"CASUALTIES BY THE WAY."

Professor O'SULLIVAN (C. na nG., Kerry) said the points made against the tariffs that they would increase the cost to the consumer or user had not been answered by the Government, beyond the mere assertion of the Minister for Industry and Commerce that there would be no increase in price, but even a diminution. Anyone who looked at the history of the Government since they came into office on the 9th March would see the haste with which they piled on tariff after tariff, and he suggested that it would have been impossible for them to give a proper examination to the effects of the tariffs. These tariffs were just thrown at that House and the country, and the haste with which they were so thrown was shown by the many modifications that had to be made in them afterwards.

The Minister had intimated that the economic revolution could not be brought about without casualties, but no notice was taken of small numbers of casualties. It was only when they were massed in, say, 200 or 300, that the Minister gave the matter any attention. The only thing the Minister would admit was that casualties were necessary for this onward march towards economic revolution by the Government.

In regard to the tax on agricultural machinery, he stated that he himself had been told by farmers that they would rather have one of the imported implements than two or three of the home-manufactured ones. That was not because they would not buy the home-manufactured article, but because in many cases it did not suit their lands.

Mr. BRAZIER (Farmer, Cork, E.) said that many of the tariffs imposed would seriously affect the farmer's ability to pay rates and land annuities, and would impose restrictions on production.

STATE TOBACCO MONOPOLY.

Mr. NORTON (Lab., Kildare) said that Deputy McGilligan had not made a single constructive suggestion for the relief of unemployment. Neither had he given a single example of what would happen under tariffs. Under the late Government there was no adequate supervision of tariffs, just as there were no powers to ensure adequate supervision under this Government. He did not believe that tariffs in themselves were a complete remedy for industrial depression, and in a small, sparsely-populated country like the Free State would yield disappointing results.

No tariff policy, he said, could yield more wasteful results than that of keeping 80,000 men and women in permanent idleness. He believed that the best way of dealing with the problem would be along the lines of State organisation, and, if necessary, decentralisation of the main industries of the country. There were more factories engaged in the production of tobacco and cigarettes than were necessary, and there should be no difficulty in setting up a State monopoly in tobacco, cigarette and match production. This would yield satisfactory results in the matter of employment and also to the State.

There were other industries, such as the flour-milling, which were quite capable of lending themselves to State organisation and control and ownership. Public ownership and control was necessary in order to save the industry from passing out of the hands of Irish owners. The same was to be said of the woollen industry. There was nothing in the way of the State deciding to set up State monopoly of the tobacco, cigarette and match production.

WHAT IS WANTED.

He believed that there were a number of blemishes in the tariffs, and that consequences had ensued, and would ensue, which were not anticipated. Everything, he said, pointed to the need for an Economic Council, or an economic headquarters staff, which would provide the thinking organisation for a well-conceived industrial system.

Mr. FITZGERALD-KENNEY (C. na nG., Mayo) said it was a bad policy to break the agricultural community in order to establish an industrial community. What consolation was it to the working man to be told that he was going to get employment in Fianna Fail factories in the air? If industries were taken over by the State, how were they to get men to invest capital in the working of such undertakings?

EXTRA BURDEN ON PRODUCERS.

Mr. J. J. BYRNE (C. na nG., Dublin, N.) asked if Labour intended to pull its weight in regard to the tariffed industries. If the same policy was adopted by the workers as in the past, then there was no hope for industry. He believed that the tariff on imported agricultural machinery would impose an extra burden of £60,000 on producers. He did not think that home manufacturers could produce fifty per cent. of the requirements of the farmer. This wholesale imposition of tariffs would only end in national disaster.

"WE HAVE MADE MISTAKES."

Mr. LEMASS, Minister for Industry and Commerce, said that, if they had made mistakes, the late Government also had made mistakes, because they had collected duty on carnival caps, divers' suits and boxing gloves under the heading of wearing apparel.

> "We have made mistakes," said Mr. Lemass. "We have imposed over sixty duties in three months, and it was not possible to give precise examination to all to see what the effects would be. We had to proceed by a system of trial by error, if you like."

Proceeding, Mr. Lemass said that when people came to them they made extensions and eliminations, but they had now got a protective system started. They had been told that they should not have proceeded to put on tariffs by provisional order, but this was to give the Government power to deal with an abnormal situation. That abnormal situation was created when the Government came into power with an avowed protective policy, and very large importations took place. It was to deal with that situation that they proceeded as they did. Very large stocks of goods, including readymade clothing, boots and shoes, etc., had been imported, and not until these stocks were exhausted would the effects of the tariffs be found in giving employment in the manufacture of these goods. They were sometimes too late to achieve their purpose, but they did succeed on some occasions in stopping abnormal supplies. Had, in fact, the price of any article subject to the new duty been increased to the amount of that duty?

BUTTER UP IN PRICE.

Mr. HOGAN (C. na nG., Co. Galway) replied that it had in the case of butter.

Mr. LEMASS said that they had now a classical example of where some duties were imposed to break trade habits. Certain duties were imposed to prevent dumping and prevent price cutting, and certain duties were imposed for no other reason than to put up prices. The late Government did that in the case of butter and in the case of oatmeal.

Mr. HOGAN said that he had stated specifically that the tariff had put up the price of butter by the full amount of the tariff. Was he not right, however, in stating that the reason butter went up by the full amount of the tariff was because there was a shortage of butter produced in the country. Did the same thing not apply to clothes, maize, spades and shovels?

Mr. LEMASS—No, no. Continuing, the Minister said that, as a matter of fact the prices of maize, meal, soap and hosiery were coming down. There was a distinct downward trend. The duty on maize imposed by the late Government was so successful that millers were doing an export trade. This country had been a paradise for dumpers, and prices for certain classes of goods were lower than world prices.

INQUIRIES FROM OUTSIDE MANUFACTURERS.

The number of unemployed now on the register was about 35,000, but it was believed that the total should be approximately 70,000. They wanted to make the figure a real index of the amount of unemployment. With regard to the statement that people would be afraid to invest their money in the Free State, the Minister said that from last Friday afternoon until to-day twelve British and Northern Ireland firms had approached his Department with a view to establishing factories here. Some of these were approved and others were not. They were not opposed to external firms adopting industrial enterprises where there was room, but they were opposed to the domination of a particular industry by a combine or by external industries. That situation was bound to lead to disaster.

Their policy was one of decentralisation, getting industries established in country towns; but they did not propose to take powers to deal with that. With regard to the duty on farm carts crossing the border, he understood there was a considerable import in Scotland, but, in view of the statements made by Mr. Blythe, he promised to consider the matter.

He saw no reason why all the requirements of the country in the matter of confectionery could not be supplied at home. As to children's and ladies' footwear, there were already two factories at work in Galway, and two others would be soon at work. Every woollen mill in the country would be engaged this year, and they would be in a position to supply cheap-grade cloths from 1s. 10d. the square yard up, and cloths at 2s. 8d. per square yard, wholesale, would be available. These cloths would be made of wool without any mixture of cotton, and would be suitable for the readymade clothing trade.

EXPECTATIONS EXCEEDED.

In respect of every single duty in the bill his expectations had been more than exceeded, and if any wrong impression existed in relation to the future they were removed. There was a very considerable development in industries that were affected by this bill.

In answer to a question by Mr. Cosgrave, Mr. LEMASS said that it was anticipated that motor bodies would be available at a lower price than before the tax, and he expected that chassis also would be made here.

On a division the second reading of the bill was passed by 70 votes to 48.

The Committee stage will be taken next Wednesday.

THE UNEMPLOYED.

WORK OR MAINTENANCE DEMANDED.

At 9 o'clock private members' business was taken.

The motion which was before the House a fortnight ago, brought by Mr. D. Morrissey (Lab., Tipperary), was further debated:—

> "That steps should be taken forthwith by the Executive Council to provide work or maintenance to meet the immediate needs of the unemployed."

Mr. MULCAHY (C. na nG., Dublin N.) quoted statistics to show how unemployment has increased. Between February 4th and the end of May, 1928, there was a reduction of 12,000 in the number of persons unemployed. In the same period in 1931 there was a reduction of 2,300, and the total registered in Dublin at the end of the year was 7,100. In 1932 the number registered between February and May had increased by 3,500, and the total at present stood at 13,500. In the whole country the increase in unemployment was 50 per cent., while in Dublin there was approximately an increase of 100 per cent. It was in these circumstances that the Minister expounded a policy which would shut down another factory in Dublin and throw 300 persons out of employment. Such a policy would disturb the confidence of any person who was likely to come here to establish an industry. It would take twenty factories to absorb the numbers that were added to the unemployed in Dublin lately.

HOUSING PROGRAMME.

On the Government's housing programme, nothing had been said from the Government benches that would indicate that they were going to do anything beyond increasing housing costs. The unemployed people now found themselves in this position, that £3,950,000 was to be forced out of the pockets of taxpayers, with taxation on the exports of some of the principal exporting industries, thereby reducing the amount of employment to be given. The unemployed were being offered £600,000. He doubted if money would find its way into housing because of the general atmosphere of instability in view of the increase in building costs.

Mr. O'DONOVAN (Farmer, Cork, W.) urged the re-opening of slate quarries that were now idle.

Mr. CORISH (Lab., Wexford) thought that something should be done immediately for the unemployed, as their position was becoming intolerable. He hoped that the Minister for Local Government would introduce, as soon as possible, the Housing Bill he had promised.

The motion was agreed to without a division, and the House adjourned until 3 o'clock to-day.

BRITAIN'S SHARE IN IRISH "SWEEPS."

£2,086,000 IN PRIZES.

Mr. George Lambert (Liberal, South Molton), in the House of Commons yesterday, asked the Home Secretary to state the estimated amount, to date, of the payments to, and receipts from, the various Irish sweepstakes, in respect of subscribers to those sweepstakes in Great Britain.

Sir Herbert Samuel said that on April 15 he had given an estimate of the five Irish sweepstakes which had been held up to that time. So far as he was aware, no audited statement had yet been published of the last, but on the basis of the figures available he estimated the amount subscribed as £3,780,000, including commission to sellers, amounting to £757,000, and £2,086,000 was received in prizes in respect of the sixth. The approximate total was £13,285,000 subscribed from Great Britain, including sellers' commission estimated at £2,357,000; and £7,086,000 was distributed in prizes.

Sir William Davison—Does that not show that it is desirable that we should have an interim report from the Royal Commission, and will he make representations to them by way of a request?

Sir Herbert Samuel—That is a separate question. I think the Royal Commission already have that in mind.

FEWER GERMAN WORKLESS

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
BERLIN, Wednesday.

The number of unemployed in Germany on May 31st is officially given as 5,583,000, which is 92,000 less than on May 15th, but about half a million more than on May 31st last year.

DUBLIN MOTOR CAR ACCIDENT.

Yesterday morning, when Mr. McKeever, the well-known amateur jockey, of Meath, was motoring through Dublin to Kingsbridge to join the special train for Mallow, where he was to ride at the races, his car came into collision with one of Messrs. A. Guinness and Company's heavy lorries and was wrecked.

It is stated that the driver of Mr. McKeever's car, observing a woman getting off a tramcar, swerved to avoid her and collided with the motor lorry, which was stationary at the time. The woman—Mrs. Lynch, Aberdeen street—sustained abrasions to the face and head, and was conveyed to Steevens's Hospital, where she was discharged after treatment. Mr. McKeever was uninjured, and proceeded by train to keep his engagement at Mallow.

"It makes me mad . .

All these years, I've known Motorine to be the best oil you could buy, and not until to-day did I know—that Motorine costs no more than other oils. 'Too expensive for me,' I'd always said, 'to use the oil Rolls-Royce recommend.' And all the time Motorine would have cost me not a farthing more than the oil I was running on. Wouldn't that make you mad. But now I know. And now—it's Price's Motorine for me, always."

NEW INCUMBENT AT DUN LAOGHAIRE.

THE REV. NOBLE HAMILTON.

The Board of Nomination for the parish of Christ Church, Dun Laoghaire, met yesterday at the Diocesan Offices, 43 Kildare street, Dublin, when the Rev. Noble Holton Hamilton, M.A., incumbent of the parish of St. Jude, Kilmainham, was unanimously nominated to the vacant incumbency.

The Rev. Noble Hamilton was educated at Trinity College, Dublin, and graduated with the degree B.A. in 1920, taking his M.A. degree three years later. He was ordained priest in 1922 and acted as curate of Drumcondra until 1923, afterwards going to the Zion Church, Rathgar, until 1926. From 1924 until 1926 Mr. Hamilton was a Minor Canon of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, and during the years 1926-29 was curate of Christ Church, Leeson Park, Dublin, later becoming incumbent of St. Jude, Kilmainham.

OIL CONFERENCE MAY BE RESUMED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
NEW YORK, Wednesday.

It is understood that the President and the Vice-President of the Socono-Vacuum Corporation are leaving here for Europe early next week in connection with the international oil situation arising out of the breakdown of the recent oil conference in consequence of the Russian attitude.

It is believed that another world conference for the stabilisation of oil export markets will be held in Paris or London late this month or early in next.

How a NURSE obtained

"GREAT RELIEF FROM DIGESTIVE PAIN AND ACIDITY"

WHEN nurses suffer from indigestion they know their trouble is due to gastric acidity and that the only way to get quick relief is to neutralize the excess acid. Nurse S . . . of Chelmsford, like thousands of trained nurses, uses 'Bisurated' Magnesia, the antacid remedy which is widely prescribed by doctors. She writes:

"I find great relief from pain and acidity. I have been afraid of eating fruit for some time. By taking 2 of your 'Bisurated' Magnesia Tablets directly after eating any, I get no signs of my old trouble."

You need not suffer from digestive trouble another day for 'Bisurated' Magnesia will give you quick relief by removing the cause, soothing your acid-inflamed stomach and restoring good, sound digestion.

GOWRAN PARK TO-DAY.

WEE LADY'S BIG CHANCE IN THE TETRATEMA CUP.

Train—Kingsbridge, 9.45.

THE beautifully situated Gowran Park course will to-day be the scene of what promises to be a very enjoyable meeting. There will be no scarcity of runners, and considerable local interest will, as usual, centre round the race for the Tetratema Cup, a handsome trophy presented by Major Dermot McCalmont, M.F.H. It is for hunters that have never won a race under Rules of Racing or I.N.H.S. Rules, and the best of the likely contenders to-day may prove to be Wee Lady. Moyle Lassie, who won in such runaway fashion on the flat at Naas, is engaged in two hurdle races, and should go close for the one she is saddled for; and in the County Plate Grape Juice may make amends for his defeat at Mullingar. Selections:—

Tote Double on Fourth and Fifth Races.

Park Plate—Moyle Lassie; if absent, Newtownmountkennedy.
Summer Plate—Moyle Lassie; if absent, Sunny Side Up.
Tetratema Cup—Wee Lady.
Castle Plate—La Sorciere.
Goresbridge Plate—Drintown.
County Plate — Grape Juice; if absent, Strolling Witch.

WORK AT THE CURRAGH.

THE CURRAGH, Wednesday.

A grand morning, and there were many interesting gallops from an early hour.

BEHAN'S Gold Amulet and Call Him traversed a mile and a half at a good three-parts speed, both going well within themselves. Ballykilbeg, Culleen's Battle and Luck Gift were sent six furlongs sharply. Black Wings, Knight of the Mist, Toy and others of the Mountjoy Lodge team were usefully employed over five furlongs.

BRABAZON'S Cloverdale, Claremorris, Chieftain and Corey travelled a mile and a quarter. Custodian, Cranston, Glendennen came five furlongs sharply.

COLLINS' Trapper and Jorto were sent a mile at a nice speed. Negligee, Tag Isle and the two-year-olds were employed over five furlongs.

DAWSON'S Arab Man, Shady Lane and Defiant went five furlongs, and the same distance was covered by Flushing Dawn, Rosemary's Pet and others of the Rathbride team.

DOYLE'S Kildare's Pride and Reilly went a mile sharply. Some Gift and the remainder of the Rossmore team went five furlongs.

FETHERSTONHAUGH'S Bill, Mountgarret, L'Enfant Terrible and Hill Note covered the same distance.

LORD NUGENT PREFERRED.

THE second day of the Newbury meeting will provide one of the most open races of the first half of the season, for the Summer Cup will attract a fairly good field of stayers. At least a third of the starters can be strongly fancied, although there is nothing which would appear to hold an outstanding chance. In the early betting lists on the race pride of place has been given to Prince Paradise as a consequence of his fourth in the Manchester Cup. He certainly ran well, but it is my opinion that there are others in the race who have better claims to favouritism.

For instance, Chorist has won two of his last three races, Rockliffe scored very easily on her last appearance, as did Lord Nugent, and Galhampton also has won twice in his last three outings. Then there is Blue Vision, who has not been out of the first four in her last four races, and Pommame, who made a valiant effort to give away 26lb. to the handicap certainty, Denbigh, in the Great Cheshire Handicap at Chester. No doubt there will be some strong backing for Nitsichin, who was a good favourite when failing to gain a place in the Manchester Cup. That form was by no means her best, and I think she will improve upon it in this race.

In running fourth to Third Degree for the Salisbury Cup Galhampton had none the best of the luck. I liked the way Chorist won at Bath, and the form has been made to look good by the victory of Sanity at Lewes on Tuesday. Rockliffe won with great comfort at Epsom.

Another smart performance at Epsom was that put up by Lord Nugent, who led the field in the Rosebery Memorial Handicap from start to finish, shaking off the redoubtable Brown Jack a furlong from home. It is true the latter was conceding a great deal of weight, but Lord Nugent's display must be judged more by the way in which he slammed the rest of the field, which included some useful stayers.

It is my opinion that the race rests between three penalised horses in Chorist, Rockliffe and Lord Nugent, and it is probable that the two last-named will fight out the finish. I do not like leaving either out, but shall declare for chiefly on account of his light weight.

The Berkshire Foal Plate is worth £1,000, and the best recent form is held by Honour Bright colt and LADY HURRY FILLY.

The latter was rather unluckily beaten by the smart Supervisor at Epsom, and on that form I do not think Honour Bright colt can successfully concede her 15lb.

Keen wagering is likely to mark the race for the Ogbourne Handicap, and I anticipate that Segesta, Picaro, Cresset and Telescope will have most concern with the finish.

SEGESTA

has won over this course before, and may score again.

BOB

holds a bright chance in the Apprentices' Plate of scoring his fourth successive victory.

At Beverley, the Watt Memorial Plate is the race of most value, and or Dross Should score. The former seems to me to be fairly well handicapped, and I think he will win.

SEA MARK'S GOOD EFFORT : THE NEWBURY CUP FANCY.

FROM, OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

NEWBURY, Wednesday Night.

THERE is likely to be a good race for the Newbury Summer Cup to-morrow, for the field will be a fairly large one, and the going should be good. The conditions should suit the Irish Oaks winner, Nitsichin, who found the going too heavy for her when she started favourite for the Manchester Cup. She has to meet Pommame at evens, and Mr. Benson's colt ran a good race at Chester when he was trying to give 2st., less 2lb., to a useful three-year-old like Denburgh.

The handicappers are becoming a little kinder to Rock Star, and he meets Nitsichin on 7lb. better terms than at Manchester, when she did not finish far in front of him. The distance may not be far enough for Blue Vision. Rockliffe has a 5lb. penalty, and she won so easily at Epsom that she cannot be without a chance in this race.

Sir Joshua, who has been dropped low in the handicap, has run some of his best races on this course, but he is not as good as he was. Chorist and Anna are a pair with outside chances, but I think the best may be

POMMAME.

The racing was good this afternoon, when the principal event of the day, the Royal Plate, was won by Buckle, a Buchan colt, who had run moderately in the Derby. In his other races this season he has always been badly off, but this time he lost no noticeable amount of ground. He was well placed coming into the straight, and challenging Pompier a furlong out he beat him easily by two lengths. Pompier was nothing like as well fancied as his stable companion, Leighon, but he ran much the better, for Leighon only finished an indifferent fourth.

SEA MARK RUNS WELL.

The Empire Stakes was won by Mrs. F. B. Sneyd's Flechier, who in a good finish won a neck and a head from Sea Mark and Fingle Bridge, with the top weight, Rose en Soleil, only beaten a head or so for third place. Flechier, who is by Bold Archer, was a useful two-year-old last season, when the late Mr. J. M. Woodville owned him. This was his first race of the season, and he was a good winner, holding on to the advantage he had gained at the half-distance. Sea Mark, who started at 20 to 1, ran well, and she should gain distinction over short courses.

Lord Carnarvon won the Kennet Stakes with Galen, a colt by Tetratema, who had run second to Honour Bright colt at Epsom last week. He was supposed to have a formidable rival in Colaroma, from the Beckhampton Stable, who had not run before, but Galen's experience profited him, and he was able to beat the favourite a little luckily by a head.

Another newcomer was more fortunate. This was the colt by Glommen out of Toowoomba, who, in a field of twenty-eight runners, was made favourite for the Juvenile Selling Plate. They had barely gone halfway when Gethin took him into the lead, and he won easily by two lengths from Tetrapod. Mr. Persse, who trains the gelding for Mrs. Arkwright, bought him in after the race for 610 guineas.

The other selling race was won by Marvellous, an American-bred filly, whom Jack Anthony owns and trains. F. Hunter, the Irish apprentice, only got her up in the last few strides to beat Tetramarte by a short head. Hunter rode an exceptionally good race on the winner.

SELECTIONS.

The Newbury Summer Cup I have already dealt with. The FILLY by STRATFORD out of LADY HURRY has been sent to run for the Berkshire Foal Plate. She has shown herself in all her races this season to be a slow beginner, but Newbury is a course where such are favoured, and she may win to-morrow. The Ogbourne Handicap should be won by CLACHENEASY.

At Beverley, the Londesborough Plate may be won by the OBDURATE COLT, and the Grand Stand Handicap by GARTER QUEEN.

NEWMARKET HINTS.

At Newbury Blue Rock and

are well down in the weights for the Wiltshire Selling Handicap, and the latter may win.

Going strictly on their race for the Newmarket Handicap there is little to choose between Anna and for the Summer Cup. In that event the latter was fast catching Anna at the finish, and I am of the opinion that Fred Butters's charge will stay this distance better and be difficult to beat.

LADY HURRY FILLY (next best) has found one just too good for her in her last three races, but she should beat Lady Constant filly and Little Flutter colt in the Berkshire Foal Plate.

PACEMAKER*

I prefer to Clachaneasy for the Ogbourne Handicap, and as he was regarded unlucky in his race at Doncaster he should make amends.

HOLY KNIGHT

should take the Apprentices Plate.

At Beverley my fancies are:—2.15, NO CALL; 2.50, YOUNG ENTRY GELDING; 3.25, CHESTNUT; 3.55, JELAH SHAH; 4.25, FRIAR MUSK; 4.55, GRECIAN ISLE.

BAD DAY FOR BACKERS.

TWO OBJECTIONS AFTER AVONDHU PLATE AT MALLOW.

With the weather delightfully fine, the racing at Mallow yesterday was enjoyed in very pleasant conditions. The sport reached a nice standard, and, with a capital card arranged, it was not surprising to find a good-sized crowd present. Supporters of first favourites had but a moderate time, and there were several upsets during the afternoon.

Although Miss Musgrave's mare did not look too well in the paddock, Boundary was made a very warm favourite for the Duhallow Hurdle Handicap. The outsider of the party, Gay Soul, set a strong pace to the last flight, when she was headed by Homeward Flight, who won by a couple of lengths from White Mixture, with Betty R. third. The favourite was in second place at half-way, but soon dropped back and finished sixth.

The favourite again failed in the June Two-Year-Old Plate, for which Westland Row, who had run well behind Grecian at Limerick Junction, was in most demand. Mr. Hogan's gelding was in front to the distance, where he weakened, and Swonderful, drawing clear, scored in ready fashion from the newly-named filly, Valetta, who had started without a quotation. The winner was bred by the late Mrs. Morton Jackson.

A good-sized field contested the Buttevant Steeplechase, in which neither of the two most fancied ones ever looked like winning, despite the fact that they finished second and fourth respectively. After the final obstacle Fairy Wings came away to win comfortably.

Prior to the Blackwater Plate Miss Galahad, whose first appearance it was on a racecourse, caused a lot of trouble. She got rid of her rider twice, and then had to be walked to the start, but declined to take any part in the race, though she came under the starter's orders. The favourite, Prince Prosper, was always in front, and had just sufficient in hands to resist a strong challenge from Artful Twinkle.

The Avondhu Plate led to a couple of objections, the second objecting to the winner, and the third objecting to the first and second, but both these were over-ruled. In the race Silent Prince was prominent, but coming into the straight Midkin and Flying Dale looked like having it to themselves, Hebrew's effort coming at the distance.

Backers had another shock when they made Tansy favourite for the Fermoy Plate, for though he made most of the running, he faded out of the picture when they came into the straight, and Cottage View compounded when pressure was put on. Details:

Tote (2/-)—Win, 9/-; places, 3/6, 3/-, 55/-.

Aunt Kate whipped round at the start, and, on settling down, Middy's Gal led from Prince Madoc, Fairy Wings, Ahaburn, Atlin, Sonbrick and Alder Lass, with Glen Rath next and Sandeman II. last. Half a mile from home Fairy Wings took command, followed by Middy's Gal, Prince Madoc, Ahaburn and Alder Lass over the last fence. Alder Lass challenged, but failed to get on terms with Fairy Wings, who won by a length; two lengths. Ahaburn was fourth, Prince Madoc fifth, Atlin sixth, Aunt Kate seventh and Sandeman II. next.

LAWN TENNIS.

TRINITY FINALS TO-DAY.

In connection with Trinity Week, the tennis finals will be played in the College Park this afternoon, commencing at 3 o'clock. In the singles, R. J. Sandys and H. J. Ryan, easily the two best players in College, will meet, and should provide one of the best and closest matches seen for some time. Both are Irish junior ex-champions, and, while Ryan has an easier and better style, Sandys is the steadier of the two and has more experience. He may just win, but it will be only after a hard struggle. In the doubles final, Sandys and Ryan will oppose Hewson and Sloan, two young and promising players, who have figured prominently in the junior championships during the last couple of years. A fairly comfortable win for Sandys and Ryan may be anticipated.

ATHLETICS.

THE COLLEGE RACES.

FINE RUNNING BY J. W. CRAIG. A MILE RECORD?

The running track and outfield in College Park were in perfect condition yesterday, and the probability of the set standard being reached or exceeded materialised in half-a-dozen events—the 120 yards, half-mile, shot, mile, discus and quarter—while in some others the winners were not much behind it. In that way the College Races revealed a pronounced advance on many of the post-war fixtures. Of course, the most noteworthy performance was the splendid running of J. W. Craig in the mile, in which he was timed 4 minutes 30 3-5 seconds. It is so long since the mile was done in such good time at the Races that several of the officials were inclined to regard it as a record, but verification of it was not possible, the records for several years having been lost. Since George Morphy's time, however, no athlete in College has equalled Craig's time. The scratchman from the pistol settled down to a good steady pace, and it was clear that he was in his best form. Gradually the field came back to him, and in the final burst his nearest rivals were his brother, who ran prominently throughout, and A. W. Breakey, to each of whom he conceded forty yards. Breakey pushed him hard from the entrance to the straight, but he shook him off in a fine, well-sustained effort, to win by about six yards. The inter-university record, by the way, is 4 minutes 35 seconds.

DOUBLE EVENTS.

J. W. Craig was also inside the standard (2 mins. 1 second) in the half mile, with the scratchman, D. G. Walker, second, his time being 1 minute 58 2-5 seconds, and after three heats of the 120 Yards, J. A. Robinson, off four yards, knocked a fifth of a second off the standard in the final, in which he led almost the whole way down to beat R. M. Wilson in 12 seconds. The Iveagh Perpetual Cup (Freshmen's 100 Yards) went to A. H. Feinstein, in a close finish with R. M. Wilson, but the time was 10 3-5 seconds. Almost as close was the final for the 220 Yards, in which D. B. George, just clear of J. A. Robinson at the top of the straight, held on grimly to score by a yard or so in 23 3-5 seconds. Two heats and the final of the 120 Yards Hurdles yielded no better time than J. C. Conroy's 18 seconds for the final; apparently hurdling is not taken seriously enough in Trinity. We had another excellent race between the brothers Walker in the quarter. Coming into the straight R. J. Walker shot out. The scratchman, D. G. Walker, also came through his men in grand style, but failed by four yards to get up, "D. G." winning in 51 seconds. B. Ball, a member of the cross country team, put in some strong running in the Two Miles to win it by a dozen yards from W. J. Craig and T. R. Horan, both of whom were dead beat at the finish, Horan being beaten for second prize on the tape.

The High and Long Jumps were disappointing, but J. C. Conroy threw the javelin 161 feet 11 inches from scratch, and P. J. Mullaney (4 ft.) took the discus with 111 feet 2 inches, and the shot with 40 feet 9½ inches.

120 YARDS FLAT HANDICAP—First heat—R. M. Wilson (4), 1; T. H. Dunlop (4), 2. Half a yard. 12 secs. Second heat—J. A. Robinson (4), 1; W. G. Commiskey (9), 2. A yard. 12 1-5 secs. Third heat—E. G. LEINSTER INTER-COUNTY CONTEST.

Mr. P. C. Moore presided at a meeting of the Leinster Council, N.A.C.A., last night, at which it was decided to hold the Leinster inter-county contest on September 11. The venue will be decided upon at a special meeting of the Council at Croke Park.

It was announced that Chief Superintendent O'Duffy, who was President of the Munster Provincial Council and Clare Board, has taken over the chairmanship of the Wexford Board on his transfer to that county.

A vote of sympathy was passed with the relatives of the late Mr. R. Spittle, the Army marathon champion, who died suddenly recently.

NEW EVENT IN IRISH CHAMPIONSHIPS.

An interesting addition to the list of events at this year's National Championships, to be held on 18th-19th June at Croke Park, is announced. A 3,000 metres steeplechase has been included, and will be held over a specially prepared course at the Garda Ground, Phœnix Park, at 8 p.m., on the first day of the championships. Entries will be accepted from intending competitors up to first post on Saturday morning next. Patrons are assured of a very keen contest, in which the young O'Callaghan's Mills athlete, M. J. Murphy, who has been selected to compete in this event at Los Angeles, is sure to figure prominently.

GOLF.

GENE SARAZEN LEADING.

ALLISS BREAKS DOWN : 74 BY L. O. MUNN.

Eugene Sarazen, the thirty-two years old Italian-American, holed a fine putt on the last green for a 70, a score which gave him the lead at the end of the first of the four rounds in the Open Championship played at Sandwich under well nigh perfect conditions on the Prince's course yesterday.

Sarazen and the crowd which surrounded the last green knew that three scores of 71 had been returned, but scarcely had he finished than the news was brought in that Percy Alliss was "shooting fireworks" and was four under fours at the fourteenth. Hope rose high that an English golfer might displace the American; for Alliss could quite readily score the last four holes in fours and finish in 68.

But Alliss, after his remarkable form for three-fourths of the way, rather lamentably failed towards the end.

LIGHTWEIGHT TOURIST TROPHY.

GREAT SPEED ON SMALL MACHINES IN ISLE OF MAN.

Run under ideal conditions, and after a race in which the fortunes of the leading riders varied from lap to lap, the Light-weight Tourist Trophy race yesterday in the Isle of Man was won by Davenport, a young Wolverhampton garage owner, riding a New Imperial. He covered the 264 miles of the tortuous course at 70.48 miles per hour, beating last year's winner, Walker (Coventry) (Rudge) by 80 seconds, with Handley (Birmingham), also on a Rudge, in third place, exactly two minutes behind the winner.

All three beat the light-weight record, Davenport adding one and a half miles per hour to Walker's 70 miles an hour of last year. Handley secured the distinction of making the fastest lap. Twice during the race he beat the old figures, and left the lap record at over 70 miles per hour—a marvellous speed for a machine with an engine of 250 cubic centimetres capacity.

HANDLEY'S TROUBLES.

While Handley lost the Junior race on Monday by want of speed, he was beaten yesterday through sheer ill-luck, caused by persistent trouble with plugs. Taking the lead on the first lap with a speed of over 73 miles an hour, he lost his place to Nott (Coventry) (Rudge) on the second circuit, to regain it with a record lap on the next round, and he held the leading position with four of the seven laps covered. Then more plug trouble brought him back to fifth place, but, again making a record lap, he improved his position to fourth place, with a lap to go, finally finishing third.

If Handley's misfortune was cruel, still more so was that of his "stable" companion, Nott. After being second to Handley on the first circuit, he was leading at the end of the second lap, to be displaced, first by Handley, and then by Davenport. When Davenport took the lead for the first time at the end of the fifth lap he had an 18 seconds' advantage, but Nott wiped this out on the penultimate circuit, and entered the last round 22 seconds to the good. With only a lap to cover, his engine failed half-way round, and he had to retire with victory in sight.

Davenport finished brilliantly, and, despite the efforts of Walker and Handley, he won his first Tourist Trophy race after many years of trying.

A WINNER IN ULSTER.

Heretofore his chief successes had been in Ireland, where he won the intermediate class of the Ulster Grand Prix in three successive years, supplementing these victories with Austrian and Swedish Tourist Trophy races.

The field was the smallest one of many years, and of the 23 starters eight completed the course. While two minutes covered the first three, over an hour elapsed before Warburton finished, pushing his machine over the last four miles. There were no foreign entrants, and of the four Colonial riders Lind (South Africa) was the only one to finish, while Charlie Johnston, Ireland's only representative, retired on the third lap.

SENIOR HURLING LEAGUE.

GARDA .... 2-2 Y. IRELANDS... 1-5

Last evening at Croke Park Young Irelands, this year's champions, had to go all out to draw with Garda. At the interval Garda led by a goal (Gill) to a point (Byrne), both scores being got from frees. On resuming, Treacy pointed for Young Irelands, and Coughlan put over the equalising point. A mistake by Young Ireland's goalkeeper gave Garda a goal lead, which, however, was soon nullified by Treacy, who added two points, and at five minutes from time Young Irelands led by two points. Gill reduced this to one, and in the last minute got the equalising point from a "70."

TONE AND COMMENT.

DUBLIN FIRM.

SHARP RISE IN GUINNESS.

Notwithstanding the marked firmness of Dublin Stock Market yesterday, there were one or two weak spots which spoiled the appearance of the list. The Funds all looked well, with Land Bonds ⅞ up at 98⅞. Banks on balance were harder, and Rails disclosed no new feature.

Guinness units were buoyant, and rose 1s. 6d. to 66s.; but Dublin Tram Ord. lost 3s. 6d. and the Pref. 6s. 3d. These were weak spots, and Grand Canal Pref. was another with a drop of 15s. to 60s., an unaccountable fall.

In the Industrial section changes were of small importance either way, but the tone of the market was harder.

The Stock Exchange will be closed on Saturday next.

LONDON EASIER.

BRITISH FUNDS REACT.

The easier conditions apparent in certain directions in the London Stock Markets on Tuesday became more pronounced yesterday, and, with a certain amount of profit-taking in progress, the general trend of values was adverse to holders. Bright spots were not altogether lacking, however, and in a few directions substantially improved levels were reached. Triplex Glass were again a strong feature on the return of capital announcement, while Guinness advanced smartly, with Tobaccos and some of the Motors going to improved levels. Among Mines, Sub-Nigel were a firm market, but De Beers, on the other hand, were depressed rather sharply. Following upon the recent rise, profit-taking developed in British Funds, and lower levels were general at the close. India stocks were somewhat easier, but Irish Free State Land Bonds were well held at 99. Quiet conditions characterised the market for Foreign Government stocks, but a generally satisfactory tone was preserved. Czecho Slovakia Bonds rose by 2 points to 79, with Poland Sevens a point harder at 54. German Sevens lost ground after a firm commencement, but still finished at an advance of ½ on the overnight level. Japanese 6 per cent. 1924 were a weak market, closing 1½ points lower to 65. The poor showing made by the traffic receipts was reflected in the British Rail market, where values were lowered all round. Most of the leaders lost up to half a point, while the Preference issues were rather more severely affected, Southern 5 per cent. Pref. and Midland 5 per cent. Red. Pref. each losing 2 points on the day. Among Colonial and Foreign Rails the Argentine descriptions again showed a dull front. Central Argentine Ord. lost a point, and the Buenos Ayres issues were all marked back. Antofagasta Ord. shed a point, while Bahia-Blanca Guaranteed Stock were put back further to 47½, or 3 points lower on the day. Canadian Pacifics lost further ground in sympathy with New York, closing 1⅛ points down to 11⅛. Quiet conditions characterised the Industrial sections at the commencement, but subsequently a dull tone developed, and, with very few exceptions, prices moved against holders. The Trans-Atlantic issues were depressed. Cables and Wireless fluctuated, an early advance following a good inquiry for the stocks not being held. Textiles were dullish, and the Miscellaneous Industrials mostly went off. Elsewhere Oils attracted scanty attention, while Mines moved irregularly.

THE INDUSTRIAL MARKET.

TRIPLEX GLASS A STRONG FEATURE.

Although the general tendency of the Industrial market yesterday remained uncertain, it was not devoid of bright spots. Triplex Glass responded to the proposed return of capital. Barry and Staines came in for attention, while Guinness further advanced among Breweries on additional buying orders from Dublin.

Renewed weakness in Wall street caused a general marking down of quotations for the trans-Atlantic counters. "Emmies" reflected American advices, and reacted 6d. to 8s. 9d.

After further advancing in the early dealing, Cables and Wireless stocks suffered a sharp reaction towards the close.

In the Motor section, Singers were marked up to 7s. 6d. at the opening on the directors' circular stating that the low price to which the shares had fallen was unjustified, but the quotation fell back later to 6s. Leylands gave way to 25s. 7½d. Fords were unaffected by the proposed marketing agreement.

Iron and Steel descriptions moved within narrow limits, and showed little variation on the day.

A further demand was experienced for Guinness on Dublin account, and the price closed 2s. higher at 67s. 3d. Other Brewery issues moved in rather irregular fashion.

Carreras were a bright spot among Tobaccos, the "A" shares improving to 3⅜, and the "B" shares to 8s. 7½d. "Bats" lost the turn at 3 11/32, and "Imps" at 3 11/32, while Gallahers eased to 1⅞.

In the Drapery section Woolworths came under the influence of adverse American advices, and were finally 9d. easier at 51s. 3d.

International Teas received attention on dividend forecasts, although profit-taking eventually led to a reaction of a few pence at 26s. 9d. Other issues moved within narrow limits.

Although the labour position still caused hesitation among Textiles, prices were fairly well maintained.

Courtaulds continued a doubtful market in the Rayon section, and eventually finished 6d. down at 24s. 10½d. British Celanese were a trifle harder at 5s.

In the Miscellaneous section moderate support for Barry and Staines was reflected in a rise of 2s. 6d. to 28s. 9d. Triplex Glass also proved a strong feature on the capital proposals, and dealings were reported up to 32s., the final quotation of 31s. 3d. leaving the shares over 3s. higher on the day. Dunlops at 9s. 9d. were easier, but Chemicals hardened to 13s. Beecham's Pills Preferred advanced to 19s., following the publication of the results, and the Deferred strengthened to 1s. 10½d.

OIL SHARES LOWER.

As on the preceding day, Oil Shares commanded only a moderate amount of attention yesterday. Advices received overnight were not of an encouraging character. The market opened with a steady appearance, but owing to paucity of demand prices eased slightly during the morning, while a further weakening of quotations occurred when French operators came in small sellers of international counters. In the afternoon, however, a slightly harder tendency developed, moderate buying orders coming to hand from Paris. Shortly before the close the market weakened again, and at the end the majority of the movements recorded were again in the downward direction.

RUBBER SHARES IDLE.

Trading in the Rubber Share Market remained at a minimum, but share values were fairly well maintained, and, with one trifling exception, the final values were unchanged from Tuesday's final levels. In the commodity market spot to September fetched 1¾d. per pound, with October to December at 1 13/16d. per pound, and January to March at 1⅞d. per pound.

LONDON MINING MARKET QUIET.

PRICES MOVE WITHIN NARROW RANGE.

Apart from the Kaffir department the small amount of business which was transacted in the Mining market yesterday consisted mainly of selling orders, and prices, therefore, tended to weaken. The changes on balance, however, were unimportant both in number and extent, although the market in most sections is still very narrow. Kaffirs were relatively subdued during the early dealings, although firm prices were received from the Cape. In the afternoon Paris became a selective buyer, and substantial rises were shown by a few issues. The Diamond share section became uncertain. Consolidated Diamonds were again higher, and Angola hardened, but reactions took place in De Beers Def. and Pref. Copper finished higher at £26 16s. 3d. per ton. The Northern Rhodesians were seldom mentioned and the only change was a trifling recession in Roan Antelope. Tintos came on offer from Paris, but Tharsis held their ground. Tin closed lower at £115 per ton. The share market remained very quiet and few changes occurred. The Commonwealth did very little in the West Australian section. Great Boulders lost ground, while Lake View and Star, South Kalgurli, Wiluna, Sons of Gwalia and North Kalgurli also receded. Closing prices:—

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

R.M.S.P. COMPANY ARRANGEMENT SCHEME.

A scheme of arrangement between the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company and a number of its associated and subsidiary companies and their creditors came before Mr. Justice Eve in the Chancery Division, London, yesterday on an application that the scheme be sanctioned. Counsel, who appeared in support of the scheme, said there were nine petitions, and he suggested that they be taken together. There were nine companies, which might conveniently be called the Royal Mail Group, but there were a good many creditors represented and a good many parties. A Preference shareholder of the White Star Line had put forward certain amendments for consideration. The White Star Line was not a party to the scheme, but was affected by it in several ways, one being that the R.M.S.P. Company, the parent company of the group, guaranteed the dividends and principal of the Preference issue of the White Star Line. Replying to Mr. Justice Eve, counsel said the White Star Preference shareholders were a separate class, and had sanctioned the scheme by an overwhelming majority. Counsel for the shareholders referred to had informed him that the amendment was not put forward in any way to wreck the scheme. The hearing was adjourned till to-day.

ALLIED NEWSPAPERS ISSUE.

The lists for the issue of £2,000,000 First Preference shares of Allied Newspapers, Ltd., were closed at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Country applications and those on special shareholders forms received by post this morning will be considered.

TRIPLEX GLASS RETURN OF CAPITAL.

The directors of Triplex Safety Glass Company, Ltd., recommend a reduction of the issued capital of the company from £400,000 in £1 shares to £200,000 by making a return of capital of 10s. per share.

SINGER AND CO.: DIRECTORS' STATEMENT.

The directors of Singer and Company, Ltd., in a circular issued to shareholders, state that they "notice with chagrin the present market quotation for the Ordinary and Preference Shares, and advise members that no justification exists for the quoting of such low prices. Neither does the very small number of shares transferred exhibit the view that the general body of members are responsible for forcing their shares on an unwilling market. The total liabilities of the company are less than £390,000 (of which £166,000 only is current), and the stock of cars (£66,000), finished spare parts (£120,000) and partly manufactured and raw materials (£314,000) total approximately £500,000 in value. In addition, the properties, machinery and plant stand in the books at more than £1,400,000." The company, it is stated, has suffered a fall of sales common to the motor industry, but it is believed that its share of the general demand for cars has been obtained. The directors have caused all current on costs outlay to be materially reduced, and if the sales for the month of June and July equal the average of the last ten months the trading result, although not up to standard, should not be considered entirely unsatisfactory, having in view the prevailing conditions during the year which were beyond their control.

UNITED RAILWAYS OF THE HAVANA.

Notices have been sent to stockholders of the United Railways of the Havana and Regla Warehouses convening meetings in London for June 20 next to approve a new scheme of arrangement. The original scheme was approved in July, 1930, and duly sanctioned by the Court, and provided for the suspension of sinking fund for redemption of Debenture stocks and as to what extent profits were to be applied towards payment of Debenture interest, etc. The continuous and unexpected fall in the company's receipts due to the unprecedented decline in the prosperity of Cuba has necessitated the new scheme of arrangement, which provides for an extension of the moratorium period as fixed by the scheme of 1930, so that during the extended period the interest on the 4 per Cent. Debentures and Debenture stock remains to be payable only out of any dividends declared upon the Preferred stock of the American and Foreign Power Company specifically charged as security for that issue, and the remainder of the net profits under Clause 1 (a) of the scheme of 1930 continue to be applicable for payment of interest in respect of the other classes of Debentures and Debenture stocks, as provided by that clause. The American and Foreign Power Company, finding it difficult to convert their earnings into United States dollars, have passed the dividends on their $7 and $6 Preferred shares. The new scheme provides that the operation of the scheme of 1930 shall be extended for a period of two years, and that the company shall be authorised and empowered to mortgage or charge the whole or any part of the property and assets of the company (other than any shares of the American and Foreign Power Company held by the trustees for the 4 per Cent. Debentures) in priority to or pari passu with all or any of the charges (specific or floating) created by the trust deeds, provided that any mortgage or charge shall be created for securing the repayment of advances made or to be made by bankers and/or others in the ordinary course of the business of the company, and provided also that the amount of such advances shall not at any one time (whilst the stockholders' committee is in existence) exceed in the aggregate £500,000 (exclusive of interest). It is also proposed to pass a resolution to the effect that the powers of the directors to raise and borrow money be extended.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS.

ANGLO-PERSIAN OIL.—It is proposed to submit at the forthcoming meeting of shareholders of the Anglo-Persian Oil Co., Ltd., a resolution to convert the paid-up share capital into stock. The object is to reduce the amount of clerical work in the share department which the use of distinguishing numbers for shares involves. The accounts for 1931, preliminary figures of which have appeared, show that the profit, after allowing for depreciation, Debenture interest, royalty and income tax, was £2,318,717, compared with £4,648,579 in 1930. It is proposed to allow for extra depreciation £501,944, against £487,217, to place to Debenture Stock redemption reserve £200,000, and to amortisation reserve £100,000. After providing for the Ordinary dividend of 5 per cent., against 15 per cent., £720,130, in contrast with £896,676, remains to go forward.

ASSAM CO.—The directors have decided that they are unable to recommend a dividend for 1931 (2½ per cent. was paid in 1930.)

AYER HITAM TIN DREDGING—Interim dividend of 2½ per cent., less tax, in respect of the profits for the year ending 30th June, 1932 (making 10 per cent. for the year, against 7½ per cent for 1930-31).

BRITISH TINTED AND DYE PRODUCTS.—The accounts for the year to March 31 last show a loss on trading amounting to £5,901, without providing for the loss made by Dominion Tinted and Dye Products, Ltd., amounting to £133, and without taking credit for the surplus of £63 shown in the accounts of the Pastex Company for the year. The profit and loss account shows a fall in the gross profit from £12,557 for the previous 15 months to £4,950, which, states the report, is due entirely to a diminution in turnover. The total debit carried forward is now £59,208. A circular accompanying the accounts sets out a reorganisation scheme involving a reduction of capital, with immediate reinstatement and subdivision of the 5s. shares into shares of 6d. each. This is to be effected by writing a total of £157,529 off the issued capital of the company by reducing the nominal value of the 700,130 issued shares of 5s. each to 6d. each. The company will thus have 700,130 issued shares of 6d. each and 99,870 unissued shares of 5s. each. All the latter will be subdivided into Preferred Ordinary Shares of 6d. each. The capital of the company will thereupon be restored to £200,000 by the creation of 6,301,170 further shares of 6d. each. The company will benefit in that its balance-sheet will be strengthened by the reduction of over-valued assets, that it will receive a very necessary sum for the provision of working capital, and that it will have 6,301,170 shares available for issue for the provision of further working capital if required. The board draw attention to the fact that if a satisfactory response to the issue of the Preferred Ordinary Shares is not received, the only alternative will be an entire reconstruction of the company. This would prove a far more expensive proceeding than the reorganisation now contemplated.

BANK OF BRITISH WEST AFRICA.—A final dividend of 2½ per cent., making, with the interim dividend, 4 per cent. for the year, less tax. This is the same as for the previous year.

BRADWELL (F.M.S.) RUBBER ESTATE.—The report for 1931 states that £5,162 was brought in, and, after deducting the loss for the year of £2,576 thereon, there remains a credit balance to go forward of £2,586. In the previous year there was a loss of £1,364. The last dividend was 10 per cent, for 1929.

BUDLA BETA TEA.—Final dividend of 3 per cent., less tax, making 6 per cent for 1931, against 5 per cent.

CALEDONIAN CEYLON TEA AND RUBBER ESTATES—Dividend on the Pref. shares of 3 per cent. actual, less tax, in respect of the half-year ending 30th June, 1932. (Same.)

CONSETT IRON.—After allowing for charges, a loss of £88,007 was incurred for the year ended March 31, 1932. Deducting the loss from the credit of £237,733 brought in, there remains £149,726 to go forward. The sum of £200,000 has been transferred from depreciation reserve to meet depreciation. The results, states the report, cannot be considered unsatisfactory in all the circumstances. No dividend has been paid since the 2½ per cent., less tax, for 1924-25.

DIMA TEA.—Dividend of 6 per cent., less tax, for 1931, against nil.

EAST KILBRIDE DAIRY FARMERS.—Final dividend on Ord. Shares at 2½ per cent. actual, less tax, making 7½ per cent. for the year (10 per cent.). Forward, £12,322.

FOSTER'S GLASS CO. (ST. HELEN'S)—Profit £29,752; Ord. dividend 5 per cent., less tax (same) forward £7,076, against £7,911.

GROVESEND STEEL.—Profit of £135,162 for the year to March 31, 1932. In the previous year the profit amounted to £153,189. It is proposed to maintain the Ord. dividend at 5 per cent., and to carry forward £87,258, compared with £89,614 brought in.

ILLINGWORTH MORRIS—The accounts of Illingworth Morris and Co., Ltd. (worsted spinners, Bradford), for 10 months to March 31 last show balance brought forward from previous year of £14,424, and dividends, free of tax, received from subsidiary companies, of £66,940, making a total of £81,365. Debenture interest and bank charges absorb £45,374, leaving a credit balance to be carried forward of £35,991. Owing to reductions of British import duties and unstable financial conditions of purchasing markets throughout the world, the directors have deferred consideration of renewal of payment of Preference dividends. For the preceding 12 months dividends, free of tax, received from subsidiary companies amounted to £59,027. Last Ordinary dividend paid was 5 per cent. in respect of year 1927-28. Preference dividend paid to March 31, 1928.

JOHN HARPER AND CO.—Dividend of 7 per cent., less tax (same) on Ord. Shares. Forward, £2,275.

MONKS INVESTMENT TRUST.—Dividend of 3 per cent. (7 1-5d. per share) for the year, less tax. (Previous year, 4 per cent.)

NORTH BRITISH COLD STORAGE AND ICE—Dividend of 4 per cent., less tax (making 7 per cent for the year, against 10 per cent. and bonus of 2 per cent., for previous year).

ROYAL SOVEREIGN PENCIL.—The dividend on the 7½ per Cent. Cumulative Preference Shares for the half-year to 30th June, 1932, will be paid on the 1st July, 1932.

SCRIBBANS AND CO.—Profits for the year to April 30, 1932, £237,067, comparable with the figure of £259,593 for the previous year. After providing for the dividends, which are at the same rate as those paid last year—namely, 7 per cent. on the Ordinary and 19 5-6 per cent. on the Deferred, there is a balance available of £45,926. The directors recommend that £20,000 be transferred to development reserve, £10,000 transferred to general reserve, and £15,926 carried forward, against £4,640 brought in.

TRUST UNION—The following dividends are recommended:—On the 4½ per cent. Pref. at 2¼ per cent., less tax, for the half-year to 15th May, 1932; and on the Ord. at 5 per cent., less tax, for the half-year to 15th May, 1932, making 9 per cent. for the year, against 10 per cent. for 1931.

THAMES GRIT AND AGGREGATES.—Final dividend of 5 per cent., less tax, on Ord., making 10 per cent. for year ended March 31, 1932. (Previous year, final of 10 per cent., making 15 per cent.)

WILLIAMSONS.—Final dividend on Ord. Shares of 7½ per cent. and bonus of 5 per cent., both less tax, making 17½ per cent. for the year. (Same.)

THE MONEY MARKET

CHEAP BILLS.

The clearing banks were again buyers of short-dated bills in Lombard street yesterday. June dates were taken at ½ p.c., July at ⅝ p.c., and August at ¾ p.c. Discounts generally remained easy, with the "hot" Treasuries dealt in at 11/16 p.c. For three months' Bank bills leading houses quoted 11/16 p.c. as their minimum buying rate. Fresh floating credit borrowers had usually to pay ⅞ p.c., and non-clearing bank vendors again renewed day-to-day loans at this rate.

On a little Eastern buying spot silver was quoted 1/16d. higher at 17d., but forward was unchanged at 7d. per ounce. Gold was quoted 5d. higher at 113s. per fine ounce.

Dollars were unchanged on the day at 3.67¾, but Canadian dollars again weakened, yesterday's final quotations being 4.28½, as compared with 4.25 on Tuesday. Francs finished at the best for the day at 93 3/16, as against 93 3/32. The German exchange closed at 15.47½. Dutch florins were ½c. easier at the finish at 9.07.

Argentine dollars were still a nominal market yesterday, and milreis closed ⅛d. better at 5d. Among the Far Eastern currencies, Japanese yen finished without alteration at 21¼d.

RAYON MARKET.

DULL TRADE.

MANCHESTER, Wednesday.

Rayon piece-goods are still moving rather quietly owing to the unsettled weather. Buyers are afraid to purchase heavily of summer goods until they are assured that a warmer spell will come along. As soon as this happens a much larger demand is expected. All-rayon mixture styles, such as crepes, voiles and satins, have received moderate support for the home trade, but linings and furnishing cloths have been rather neglected. Corset and lingerie goods have been in fair request, but casement cloths have lagged behind.

Foreign outlets are still buying cautiously. Steady support is being lent by the Dominions, especially Canada, Australia and East Africa, but actual orders for India and China are poor in spite of a persistent inquiry. Price difficulties are restricting operations for South America and Egypt, and the Continent generally is doing very little.

Spinners are delivering production against contract, but complain that few new orders are being booked.

MOTORS AND TEXTILES.

BIRMINGHAM.

GRAIN.

FLOATING GRAIN CARGOES (BALTIC).—WHEAT—Cargo market continued dull, and prices further gave way under selling pressure from North America and weak overseas cables. No. 1 Northern Manitoba Vancouver July sellers 26/-, No. 3 ditto 25/-, soft white and Western Pacific August-September 26/-, Australian July 26/3. Parcels irregular and Canadian grades easier, but Plate firmer. No. 1 Northern Manitoba Vancouver sellers 25/9, No. 2 ditto 24/6, No. 3 ditto 23/9, No. 1 Northern Manitoba Atlantic June 26/-, No. 2 ditto 24/9, No. 3 ditto 23/9, hard winter sample June 24/9, Australian July 26/- per quarter of 480lb. Futures dull and weaker despite adverse sterling exchange. Manitoba grade May 23/-, July 23/2, August 23/9, November 23/11½; London grade June 23/1, September 22/11, December 23/1½ per quarter of 480lb. MAIZE cargoes quiet, but held for steady prices. Plate afloat sellers 17/10½, June 17/10½, July 18/1½, August 18/4½, September 18/7½. Parcels quietly steady; Plate afloat sellers 17/1½, May-June 17/3, June-July 17/3, July-August 17/6, August-September 17/7½ per quarter of 480lb. BARLEY maintained. Parcels No. 3 Canadian Western Atlantic June sellers 19/6. Persian June 19/3 per quarter of 400lb. OATS steadier for Canadian parcels. Plate afloat sellers 14/-, July 14/1½, August 14/3. No. 2 Canadian Western Atlantic June 20/7½ per quarter of 320lb.

MARK LANE CORN.—The mid-weekly market was thinly attended, and trading restricted. Breadstuffs easier, but feeders firm owing to adverse sterling exchange. WHEAT again easier in sympathy with reduced c.i.f. offers; No. 1 Northern Manitoba ex ship 28/-, No. 2 do. 26/9 to 27/-, as to position; No. 3 do. 25/9, No. 4 Manitoba 25/6, hard winter 26/9, Australian 28/- to 28/3 per 496lb.; English 27/- to 28/- per quarter of 504lb. FLOUR dull; London straight run 25/- per sack for country deliveries, and 24/- London area; country straights 20/- to 21/6 ex store. Of imported, Manitoba patents 24/6 to 27/-, Australian 20/6, French patents 20/3 ex store per 280lb. MAIZE firm; Plate landed 19/3, ex ship 18/3, May-June 18/6, June-July 18/9, July-August 19/-, August-September 19/3 per 480lb.; yellow maize meal £5 17/6 f.o.r. London; yellow African ex ship to arrive £5 per ton. BARLEY steady; Plate landed 24/- to 25/-, as to sample; No. 3 Canadian Western ex ship 20/6, landed 21/6 per 400lb.; English malting nominal, feed 27/- to 28/- per quarter of 448lb. OATS maintained; Plate landed 17/3, ex ship 16/3, Chilean white landed 24/9 to 26/- as to quality; No. 2 Canadian Western ex ship 21/3, landed 22/-, No. 3 do. ex ship 20/3, landed 21/6, No. 1 Canadian feed ex ship 19/3, landed 20/6, Canadian mixed feed ex ship 15/3, landed 16/3 per 320lb.; English 23/- to 25/6 per quarter of 336lb. MILLERS' WHEATFEED dull; broad digestive bran 6/-, middlings 6/6, oatfeed 5/4½, ground oats 8/4½ ex mill per cwt.

LIVERPOOL.—Overnight cables generally were disappointing, and forward deliveries of wheat here gave way considerably during early trading, and although a moderate recovery took place prices again receded under selling pressure, and, aided by weak afternoon cables, marked a heavy decline from previous night. C.i.f. parcels wheat decidedly lower. No. 2 Manitoba afloat selling at 24/3 and Rosario-Santa Fe (64lb.) May 23/6 per quarter. C.i.f. parcels River Plate maize afloat sold at 17/6 per quarter. WHEAT on the spot dull and lower. MAIZE—Spot parcels quiet at late rates of 4/- to 4/0½ per cental for River Plate. FLOUR quiet, and prices still tend downwards. Graded wheat futures, after giving way 1⅛d. per cental during early trading, recovered ⅛d to ¼d but again moved downwards, with slight interruption, finishing easy at the worst point, or 2⅛d. to 2¼d. below previous night. Values—July 4/10⅜, October 5/0¼, December 5/1⅜ per cental. Sales—200 loads, at 4/11½, ⅜d., ½d., 10½d., ¾d., ⅜d. for July, 5/1¾, 0⅝d., ¾d., ¼d. October, and 5/2½, ¾d., 1¾d., 1⅞d., ½d. for December delivery.

PROVISIONS.

LONDON CENTRAL MEAT.—Supplies to market, 1,889 tons—470 tons British and Irish produce, and 1,419 tons imported. Steady demand for beef, with chilled firmer. BEEF (national mark prices): English long sides, select, 5/10 to 6/2; ditto prime, 5/6 to 5/10; ditto good, 5/4 to 5/6. General prices, including national mark: English long sides, 5/4 to 6/2, ditto hindquarters, forerib and flank, 6/- to 6/8; Irish Birkenhead killed long sides 5/4, ditto hindquarters, forerib and flank, 5/10 to 6/2. Slow trade for pork, at easier prices. PORK—English, 3/10 to 4/4; Irish, 3/8 to 4/4.

SMITHFIELD POULTRY AND GAME.—Market generally steady. Quotations: Surrey capons 1/5 to 1/6, chickens 1/- to 1/4, country 9d. to 1/2; Irish 9d. to 1/2, Dutch 11d., 1/4 and 1/2; English hens, old 7d. to 8d.; country ducklings 1/- to 1/2, Aylesbury 1/3 to 1/5 per lb. Bordeaux pigeons, London killed, 1/3 to 2/-; Egyptian quails, London killed, fresh, 6d. to 3/- each. Eggs English, ordinary packing, grade 1, 9/- to 9/6 per 120.

LIVERPOOL.—BACON — Continental generally steady, with a moderate business reported, chiefly in Danish, as poorer qualities are relatively scarce, but buyers still operate cautiously awaiting the expected liberal arrivals of Danish following the recent heavy killings. Irish, American and Canadian quiet and unchanged. American rib backs, 69/- to 72/- per cwt. Argentine HAMS unchanged. Picnic shoulders nominal; square shoulders 1/- to 2/- lower at 45/- to 48/- per cwt., but short backs, 14-20lb., raised 2/- to 50/- to 54/- per cwt. American and Canadian hams quiet at late rates. LARD on spot partially 3d. dearer at 33/- to 34/- per cwt. for prime steam, with business moderate. CHEESE and BUTTER quiet at recent currencies. EGGS steady at fully late prices. Extra selected Irish hen 8/6 to 8/9, selected 8/3 to 8/4, mediums 7/3, and duck 7/6 to 8/6 per 120.

DUBLIN VEGETABLE—Trade proved very disappointing for usual small mid-week supply on offer. Cabbage failed to sell up at the lowest prices recorded for many years. New potatoes were little wanted, and most barrels were carried over unsold. Other arrivals cleared with difficulty. York cabbage, 3/6 to 5/-, extra 6/- to 9/-, large load; small, 9d to 3/-; cauliflowers, poor quality, 1/- to 2/-; carrots, 2/9 to 3/-; rhubarb, 1/- to 1/6; extra 1/9 to 2/3; scallions, 6d. to 8d. bunch; salad, 3d. to 6d.; extra, 8d. to 1/- doz.; new potatoes, 3d. lb.; parsley, 6d. to 8d. tray, and turnips, 4d. to 6d. bunch.

DUBLIN POTATO.—Demand continues slow, with supplies far in excess of all requirements at 7/6 to 8/- cwt., best table qualities.

DUBLIN FISH.—Market glutted with all classes, mostly in heated condition. On offer, 195 boxes mixed catch from 2 steam trawlers, 94 packages salmon, 15 chests lobster, 30 boxes herrings, 40 boxes mackerel, and heavy arrivals from country and local senders. Sales—Salmon, 1/3 to 1/6 lb.; grilse, 1/- to 1/3; lobsters, 10/- to 12/6 per 13, large; medium, 5/- to 7/6; small, 2/- to 4/-; soles, 25/- to 30/- per 9 pairs, large; medium, 10/- to 12/6; slips, 5/- to 7/6; turbot, 1/- to 12/- each; brill, 6d. to 2/6; herrings, 14/- to 15/- box; mackerel, 3/- to 5/-; plaice, 20/- to 40/- half box; cod, 17/- to 50/-; whiting, 10/- to 45/-; ling, 8/- to 10/-; ray, 7/6 to 14/-; hake, 10/- to 60/-; haddock, 8/- to 20/-; pollock, 10/- to 12/6; conger eels, 5/- to 15/-; gurnard, 2/6 to 3/-, and white soles, 12/6 to 35/-.

CORK BUTTER—Creameries 135/- per cwt.

BILLINGSGATE FISH—Salmon, English, 20d. to 21d.; Scottish, 19d. to 22d.; Irish, 17d. to 20d.; soles, 10d. to 16d.; slips, 8d. to 14d. per pound. Live eels, 10/- to 30/-; dead, 10/- to 20/- draught; turbot, 4/- to 7/-; plaice, 5/- to 10/-; halibut, 8/- to 12/-; lemon soles, 5/- to 10/-; hake, 5/6 to 8/-; skate wings, 2/- to 4/6; haddocks, 2/- to 6/- per stone.

PRODUCE.

LONDON.—SUGAR was quite a buoyant market; trade demand, both on grocery and manufacturing account, revived markedly, and prices for British goods advanced 3d. all round. Offers of raws sparingly made, and higher prices required. July foreign 96 per cent. to U.K. quoted 4/9½ c.i.f. Terminal accorded active support, and prices dearer. August sold 4/9½ to 4/9½ and 4/9, December 5/0½ to 5/10 and 5/10½, March 5/3½ to 5/3½, and May 5/5½ to 5/5½. COFFEE very slow of sale for spot parcels, and rates move against the seller. Export trade with the near Continent is hampered, financial considerations weighing. COCOA quiet and unchanged on the spot; forward more subdued. Accra G/F May-June 26/9, mid-crop 20/9, November-January 26/- c.i.f.; terminal July sold 25/10½ to 25/5, September 25/6. Sales 40 tons. RUBBER without essential change in price, and business quiet. Standard sheet spot sold 1½d., July-September 1½d., October-December 1½d., January-March 1½d., April-June 1½d. JUTE—With sellers again to the fore and easier cables received from Calcutta, prices suffered a further relapse, but the closing tone was steady, after the arranging of a fair amount of business. Firsts May, June, July to Continent sold £14 7/6 to £14 10/- and £14 7/6, closing buyers June-July £14 7/6; new crop August-September quoted £15, lightnings June-July sold £14, hearts sellers £13 5/-, Tossa £14 8/9 per ton c.i.f. SHELLAC remains idle; T.N. spot 54/-, August 46/-, October 47/6. TEA—Indian auctions amounted to 23,772 packages. These experienced a generally better market than for some little time past. Marked attention was bestowed upon teas up to 7d., and prices for common were mostly ¼d. per lb. dearer than on Wednesday last. Clean common now 6d., Pekoe sold 5½d. to 11d., broken 5½d. to 1/4½; orange Pekoe 5½d. to 1/8½, broken orange 6d. to 2/3, fannings 5½d. to 2/0½ per lb. OILS—Linseed steady; spot sellers 16/-, June 12/10½, July-August 13/3, September-December 13/10½, January-April 14/9. Rape dull; crude spot 28/-, refined 30/-. Cotton steady; crude Egyptian spot 20/-, common edible 23/-, deodorised 25/-. Cocoanut slow; Ceylon spot drums 28/-, June-July 21/-. Turpentine steady; American spot and July 59/- per cwt. OILSEEDS—Linseed market quiet, but prices advanced on weaker sterling exchange. Calcutta to London June-July and July-August sellers £9 6/3, Plate to Hull June-July £7 13/9, July-August £7 15/-, August-September £7 16/3, September-October £7 17/6, October-November £7 18/9. Rapeseed quiet; Toria to Hull/Continent June-July £10 10/-. Cottonseed firm; Egyptian black to Hull £5 12/6, July £5 15/-; new crop October £6 1/3, with white sorts at 6/3 per ton less, respectively. Groundnuts depressed on lack of support; Coromandel machined June £13 15/-, July £13 17/6, August £14 2/6, September £14 5/-, October £14 5/-. Soya Beans steady; Manchurian afloat £6 15/-, June and July £6 13/9 per ton.

LONDON METALS MARKET.

TIN EASIER—COPPER STEADY.

TIN—Eastern cables came lower, following the recent holiday, while here the market was less depressed, prices showing a slight recovery on fair buying orders. Official quotations marked an advance of 7/6 to 10/- per ton cash and 2/6 to 5/- forward on balance. Standard cash quoted £115 15/- to £115 17/6, three months £118 to £118 2/6; settlement price £115 15/-. Sales amounted to 625 tons; cash at £116 5/-, £115 15/- and £115 17/6, three months £118 5/-, £118 and £118 2/6. English ingots quoted £117 5/- to £119 5/-. In the East 150 tons reported sold on the basis of £120 15/- c.i.f. COPPER market also displayed firmer features, and a steady demand was reservedly met. On balance official quotations were marked up by 10/- to 11/3 per ton cash, and forward 10/- per ton. Standard cash quoted £26 16/3 to £26 17/6, three months £26 15/- to £26 17/6; settlement price £26 17/6. 500 tons changed hands; cash at £26 16/3, three months £26 12/6 to £26 15/-. Electros quoted £30 10/- to £31 10/- and wire bars £31 10/-. LEAD in moderate support, and values tended in buyers' favour. 300 tons sold; good soft foreign pig June £9 16/3, Aug. and Sept. £10; settlement price £9 15/-. English quoted £11 15/-. SPELTER market weak on liberal offerings and lack of support. 225 tons sold; June £11 16/3 to £11 15/-, Aug. £11 18/9, Sept. £12 1/3 to £12; settlement price £11 15/-. ANTIMONY quiet. AUSTRALIAN WOOL SALES.

At yesterday's wool sale at Sydney offerings totalled 6,225 bales, of which 4,652 were sold. Private sales consisted of 1,505. The quality of the selection was below the average, but compared with the rates at the opening of the sales the market was firm for all descriptions, there being general competition. Prices for dusty and burry wools were irregular.

Five thousand bales were offerde at the wool sale held at Melbourne yesterday. There was a miscellaneous selection, mostly consisting of crutchings and lamb wool. Good competition came from local buyers, and occasionally from Japan.

Mr. C. E. Macaulay, of C. E. Macaulay and Co., Ltd., 15 Haymarket, Dublin, has returned from a prolonged stay in U.S.A. and Canada, after a study of general conditions prevailing in the wool trade.—(Advt.)

COUNTY ANTRIM SHOW.

INCREASED ENTRY OF CATTLE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ANTRIM, Wednesday.

The annual show of the County Antrim Agricultural Society, held here to-day, attracted entries from all parts of the North of Ireland. There was an increased entry in the cattle sections, and the horse-jumping competitions evoked great interest. The Right Hon. J. K. Laidlaw, of Dublin, won the jumping over the course event with Henry Barker.

The following were the principal prize-winners:—

CATTLE.—Albert J. Marshall, Stranraer, two cups and one first; Thomas Hegan, Desertcreat, Co. Tyrone, one cup, one first, and two seconds; William Kyle, Ballymena, one cup, one first, and one third; William Montgomery, Antrim, two cups and one first; William J. Morrison, Randalstown, two seconds; Henry Clarke, Dunadry, two cups, two firsts, and one third; William Clarke, Muckamore, one second and one third and one cup; G. Robinson, Randalstown, one second; Samuel Coleman, Garryford, one cup and one first; Messrs. Hagan Bros., Dooagh, one second and one third; William J. McClure, Crumlin, one first and one second.

THE HORSE CLASSES.—Thomas Wilson, Broughshane, one first; Hugh Boal, Ballymena, one second; Thomas H. Mulligan, Randalstown, one first and one third; John Clark, Antrim, one first; John Boyd, Muckamore, one second; Robert Lusk, Carnmoney, one third; John Bamber, Ballymena, four firsts and one second; S. Owens, Glenwherry, one second; G. S Reade, Muckamore, two seconds; James Simpson, Finaghy, one third; P. M. Owens, Ballymena, one first and one cup; James Wilson, Ballymena, one first; James McGarry, Lisburn, one second; G. Finlay, Belfast, one third; G. B. Caruth, Ballymena, one second; Mrs. H. Morrison, Aghadowey, one cup, one first and one third. R. G. Johnston, Ballymena, one second; F. Logan, Randalstown, one third; A. Willis, Dunmurry, one third; D. C. Lindsay, Lisburn, one first; J. L. Woodside, one third; James A. Duncan, Crumlin, one first; John H. Crawford, Randalstown, one second; John Creaney, Glenavy, one cup, two firsts, one second and a third; James Craig, Straid, one third; Robert Lusk, Carnmoney, one second; John Graham, Kells, one cup.

THE JUMPING.

The prize winners in the jumping competitions were:—John Bamber, Ballymena, one first, two seconds and one third; J. Good, Ballymena, one third; John Warwick, Belfast, one first; R. Cullen, Portadown, one third; Thomas J. Finlay, Belfast, one first; James Megarry, Lisburn, one third; John Mulligan, Belfast, one third; Right Hon. T. K. Laidlaw, Dublin, one first; James Wilson, Ballymena, one first; T. J. Darragh, one second, and Mrs. E. Brown, Carnmoney, one third.

LICENSED TRADERS AND LIQUOR LAWS.

A deputation representing the Licenced Traders' Association waited upon the Minister for Justice yesterday at Leinster House to put before the Minister the views of the Association in regard to some of the changes in the Intoxicating Liquor Laws. They asked that the District Justices should be given full discretion in the matter of endorsing convictions on licenses. The afternoon closing hour, from half-past two until half-past three, was the next point raised by the deputation, who pointed out to the Minister the great inconvenience caused to the public by this law in the four boroughs, with special reference to Cork, Limerick and Waterford.

The removal of all restrictions on St. Patrick's Day was another point raised, and the opening of public-houses at 9 a.m. instead of at 10 a.m., as at present, was urged. Clubs, it was stated, should not be allowed to sell liquor at any time outside the hours provided for in the licensed houses, and should be open for inspection.

The Minister gave the deputation a sympathetic hearing, and promised to consider carefully the entire matter.

THE RELIEF OF UNEMPLOYMENT.

Supplementary estimates, details of which were available last night, show that it is proposed to make a sum of £25,000 immediately available for the relief of distress and unemployment. A sum of £1,000 is intended to be voted for the Tailteann Games, and £1,000 in aid of the Irish Olympic Council.

CENTRAL CATHOLIC LIBRARY RESTORATION.

THE AMERICAN MARKETS.

SELLING RESUMED: LIST CLOSES HEAVY.

Reuter's Telegrams.

NEW YORK Wednesday.

Selling was resumed when the Stock Exchange opened with a weak tendency to-day. The passage of the Garner Relief Bill, involving the sum of $2,290,000 000, by the House of Representatives, was one unsettling factor. Another was the reduction of 3 per cent. in steel mill activity which was partly attributed to seasonal influences. The maintenance of a firm tone in the Bond market, however, had a sustaining effecet.

With steel production at its lowest level since December, and some uneasiness being manifested over the Government economy and relief measures, brokers are inclined to the belief that the market is acting favourably.

General Motors total sales to dealers during May amounted to 66,739, as against 153,730 cars during the corresponding month of last year. The recent strength of the dollar exchange has strengthened the belief that the withdrawals of gold may be nearing an end.

The market finished at around the day's lowest levels, and the closing tone was heavy.

WINNIPEG GRAINS.

WHEAT opened easy at 1⅛c. to 1¼c. decline. An early unfavourable influence was a private grain report indicating the condition in Alberta at 106 per cent., in Saskatchewan 89 per cent., and in Manitoba 96 per cent., with 100 per cent. considered normal. Prices were further depressed owing to professional selling, while the receipt of favourable Canadian and foreign crop news, coupled with heavy arrivals, further helped the decline. The market closed barely steady, 1⅛c. to 1¼c. cheaper. Opening options—July, 55¼; Oct., 57½; Dec., 58½. Closing options—July, 54⅞; Oct., 57½; Dec., 58⅛. Rye steady at ⅜c. loss. GOLD MOVEMENTS.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York in its daily report on the movements of gold announces the following:—Exports to France, $17,079,000; to Switzerland $7,197,000; to Belgium $3,493,000; to Holland $2,352,000; to England $50,000. Earmarked for foreign account shows a decrease of $11,952,000.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Wednesday.

General liquidation, together with stop loss selling, caused recessions during early dealings on the grain market to-day. The market was also depressed by the easiness of cable advices and the weakness of the Stock market, while advices of scattered rains in all belts, a slow foreign interest, and poor support constituted other bearish factors. Prices subsequently rallied partially on covering, however, and evening-up operations prior to the issue of the Government's report, which is due to-morrow, was another helpful factor. Wheat values eased owing to selling by Eastern interests, while the market also declined in sympathy with the weakness at Winnipeg. Commission house support, coupled with light pit offerings, assisted an early upward movement in maize, but prices subsequently reacted owing to a favourable crop outlook and in unison with wheat. Fluctuations, however, were extremely narrow. The movements in wheat had an unsettling effect on rye, but values were maintained owing to a fair export demand. Business in oats was quiet, prices moving in sympathy with those of maize.

WHEAT opened barely steady and generally ⅛c. lower, and closed barely steady 1⅛c. to 1c. cheaper.

THE NEW P. AND O. CHAIRMAN.

THE HON. ALEXANDER SHAW.

The Hon. Alexander Shaw was yesterday, at a meeting of the Boards of the Peninsular and Oriental and British India Steam Navigation Companies, appointed chairman and managing director of both companies.

The Hon. Alexander Shaw, who is 49, is Lord Craigmyle's heir, and a son-in-law of the late Lord Inchcape. He is a director of several shipping companies, has been President of the Chamber of Shipping of the United Kingdom, and was a member of the Imperial Shipping Committee last year. He is also a director of the Bank of England.

While Lord Inchcape was chairman of the P. and O., Mr. Shaw was his deputy, and during his father-in-law's illness he became acting chairman.

The new Earl of Inchcape, at the meeting of the Boards yesterday, expressed a desire, owing to the onerous duties in control of widespread interests which have now fallen upon him through the death of his father, to relinquish his position as deputy-chairman and managing director of the companies.

The Board accepted with regret the resignation, and Lord Inchcape agreed to remain a director of the two companies.

Mr. Frederick Charles Allen and Sir William Crawford Currie were appointed joint deputy-chairmen and managing directors of both companies.

HOW CABBAGE PRICES HAVE FALLEN.

NINEPENCE PER LOAD IN DUBLIN.

A fair supply of cabbage arrived on the Dublin vegetable market yesterday and experienced the poorest sale for many years—in fact, it is doubtful if prices ever touched such a low level. Notwithstanding this, the market failed to clear at the following prices:—Large loads, 3s. 6d. to 6s.; extra, 6s. 6d. to 9s. per load; small, 9d. to 2s.; extra, 2s. 6d. to 3s., the latter loads containing from 10 to 15 dozen heads.

Prices on June 9th, 1931, were:—Large loads, 15s. to 60s., and small, 8s. to 36s., both according to quality.

HARBOUR POLICEMAN RETIRES.

Members of the Dublin Port and Docks Board police force have made a presentation of an umbrella to one of their number, Mr. John Parr, who has just retired after many years' service. Mr. Parr was a member of the old Dublin Metropolitan Police, and was on duty at the Viceregal Lodge on the occasion of the Phoenix Park murders. During the Great War he served with the London Docks police, and was a very popular man with all his comrades.

A GREAT LIBRARY.

PROPOSED RESTORATION.

A MEETING of persons interested in the restoration of the Central Catholic Library was held last evening, under the patronage of the Archbishop of Dublin (Dr. Byrne), at the Gresham Hotel, Dublin. Mr. Charles H. O'Conor presided.

The Rev. S. J. Brown, S.J., Librarian, said that the Library, from the outset, had had a certain international character. They had always sought to have represented there the best Catholic thought, as expressed in books and periodicals, from every part of the world, and to have authentic information of Catholic doings and sufferings in every land. There existed, he said, in the chief European languages other than English a great mass of Catholic literature, a great deal of the best of which had no counterpart in English.

They could not sufficiently express their gratitude to the representatives of Germany and France in Ireland. Only two days ago they had received a new gift of some forty valuable books from the German Minister, who had promised to bring to the Library some important members of the Centre Party in Germany, and other distinguished persons visiting Dublin for the Eucharistic Congress.

A GREAT OPPORTUNITY.

The Eucharistic Congress presented them with an opportunity such as they had never had, and, in all probability, would never have again, of getting into touch with representatives, thinkers and workers in the Catholic cause from well-nigh every quarter of the globe. It was quite possible to let that opportunity slip. The object before them was the building up of a great collection of Catholic literature. One hundred thousand volumes was not by any means an extravagant figure to aim at.

The library was not confined to Catholics, but was open to all. It was open after working hours, on Saturday afternoons, on Sundays and holidays, and that up to 10 p.m. It stocked only books bearing in some way on the Faith. All the sacred sciences were represented, and there was in it a large collection of works on the spiritual life. There were also poetry, drama, literary criticism; there was sacred art and music. They hoped to extend greatly the last named department, almost the entire collection of their works dealing with sacred art had been destroyed in the recent fire.

MORE SUITABLE PREMISES.

The Chairman said that they had assembled for the purpose of trying to find means for restoring the library. They wanted to find some more suitable place for the library than Hawkins' street. They wanted a more public place—one more in keeping with the term Central Catholic Library. In order to do that they must get a good deal of money. In this age of atheism and Communism and the other isms, a Catholic library was essential in order that the people might keep their faith, and that they might learn from books of reference and other books a Catholic outlook. This library contained books of fiction and scientific books, and the most popular of all books—novels. Catholics, he said, ought to have nothing to do with most of the novels of the time. Most of them polluted the mind, and were unworthy of being read by Catholics.

Mr. Desmond Fitzgerald, T.D., moved that the Central Catholic Library was worthy of support. He said that he thought it was very important that they should work for the Library, because he wanted it to be a valuable aid in the cause of the Catholic revival in this country. They wanted the library in the market place. The Catholic Library should be one of the most vital institutions in this country.

NO MERE STOREHOUSE.

The Very Rev. Canon Boylan, in seconding the motion, said that the Catholic Library was not intended to be a mere storehouse of books, but to have a direct cultural effect. This was the period of Catholic action, and the Holy Father had emphasised the necessity for it. Catholic action was the living up to one's own ideals. They could do so by working in the interests of the Catholic Library.

Mrs. M. Cosgrove supported the motion, and it was adopted.

On the motion of the Very Rev. James Dempsey, P.P., seconded by the Rev. F. Power (in the room of the Minister for Finance, who was unable to attend, but sent a subscription) all present were appointed as a General Committee, with the following as a Sub-Committee—Mr. Desmond Fitzgerald, T.D.; Mrs. Barniville, Mr. Denis Barrett, and Mrs. Kevin O'Higgins.

THE FUTURE OF SHANGHAI.

AMBASSADORS CALLED INTO CONSULTATION.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

TOKYO, Wednesday.

Discussions about the future of Shanghai were, it is believed, carried a step farther this evening when Viscount Saito, the Japanese Premier and Foreign Minister, summoned the British, United States, French and Italian Ambassadors to meet him.

The nature of the conversations was not revealed, but it is thought that the Ambassadors clarified the attitudes of their Governments to the proposals put forward by Mr. Yoshizawa, the then Foreign Minister, on May 13th.

Mr. Yoshizawa, in explaining the circumstances which led to the Japanese decision to withdraw the whole of her expeditionary force, is understood to have made overtures to expedite the opening of a round-table conference to secure the permanent safety of Shanghai.

One of the points to be elucidated in the discussions concerns the scope of the proposed conference. The Chinese Government has stated that it is not opposed in principle to a round-table conference at Shanghai, but it imposes the condition that the conference must embrace the Sino-Japanese question as a whole, not merely local problems like the status of Shanghai.

The Japanese newspapers have been discussing a plan to convert Shanghai into an international free city with a demilitarised zone.

THE METHODIST CONFERENCE.

ADDRESSES BY VISITORS.

THERE was a large attendance at the opening session of the Methodist Church Conference, in Centenary Church, St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, last night. The Rev. Dr. Ryder Smith, B.A., D.D., presided.

The Rev. R. E. Cole, M.A., B.D., Secretary, welcomed the visitors.

The Rev. W. H. Heap said that what Methodists should be most concerned about was the bringing of God to the people. They were too much wrapt up in themselves. Let them consider how politicians had failed to restore peace, absorb the unemployed in industry, put agriculture on its feet, and how the spirit of nationalism was running wild. These were problems which the politicians had failed to solve. It was not merely that the conditions of the world were bad, he said, but, in his opinion, there had been a fall in character.

He supposed that in Ireland, as well as in England, people were greatly concerned about money. But what was money? The fall of the pound was nothing compared with the fall of character.

PROGRESS IN CANADA.

The Right Rev. Edmund H. Oliver, D.Litt., D.D., of Canada, gave an interesting account of the work of the Methodist Church in Canada. He particularly stressed the work for unity, and said that in the year 1860 there were four different denominations of the Methodist Church in Canada, and four different Presbyterian denominations. Their Church had increased enormously in the past year, and the new areas to which they had penetrated were also great. During the past year the Methodist Church in Canada had increased by over 50,000 people. The number of Methodist Sunday school children in Canada was over six hundred thousand.

The Rev. H. Bett, M.A., said that he was strongly in favour of the plea that had been made for reality in religion. Reality in religion was the note of the Methodist Church. Reality in religion could only be got through everyone's personal experience, but he did not disregard the importance of fellowship.

Mr. E. G. Barber, of London, speaking of the differences between the Irish and the English, said that if they differed largely in the minor side of life they all agreed in the deep things. He had no doubt that out of these days of stress, difficulties and entanglements, Christianity would come more into its own.

The Rev. J. Cartwright Adlard, another English delegate, said that he brought to them the deep-rooted love of the Methodist Church in England, Scotland and Wales.

Having spoken of John Wesley's visits to Ireland and of Ireland's contribution to the Methodist Church, he said:—I think that the best days of the Methodist Church are to come. I believe that the Methodist Church was created in the eighteenth century to save Protestantism in the twentieth century.

The Rev. C. H. Crookshank moved that the reply of the British Conference be received with affection and respect. The motion was seconded by the Rev. R. J. Good, supported by Mr. W. M. Elliott, and passed.

STATIONS OF MINISTERS.

At a meeting of the Ministerial Session of the Conference, held yesterday afternoon, the following changes, subject to correction, were made in the stations of the ministers for the ensuing year:—Dublin, Clonliffe, the Rev. Wilfred F. Breisland; Bray, the Rev. Robert H. Foster, B.A., D.C.M.; Sligo (second minister), the Rev. G. Wesley Doonan; Kilkenny, the Rev. James Pedlow; Mountmellick, the Rev. Thomas A. Hartley; Ballineen, Co. Cork, the Rev. John Fleming; Belleek, one to be sent; Lisnaskea, the Rev. John J. Harrison; Coleraine, the Rev. Percy S. Shipway; Castlederg (second minister), the Rev. Samuel J. Crawford; Beragh, the Rev. Thomas McCracken, B.A.; Belfast, Carlisle Circus (second minister), the Rev. Frederick J. Harte, B.A.; the Rev. Robert Maxwell, supernumerary; Belfast, Donegall road, the Rev. Samuel E. McCaffrey; Belfast, Ligoniel and Hydepark, the Rev. John Glass, the Rev. James D. Ritchie, supernumerary; Portaferry, the Rev. William J. Rooney, supernumerary; Lisburn (second minister), the Rev. T. Henry Holloway; Charlemont (second minister), the Rev. George Watson; Dungannon (second minister), the Rev. James B Barton. The Rev. J. Wesley Allen is given permission to seek an appointment in connection with the South African Conference.

IRISH TOURIST ASSOCIATION.

LONDON OFFICE CHANGES.

AN important change in the working of the Irish Tourist Association was reported yesterday at the meeting of the directors, held in the Gresham Hotel, Dublin, Mr. T. J. W. Kenny presiding.

For the first time in the history of the association, Mr. Kenny reported their work was being brought under official sanction and control.

The association had given up its office in London, which was costing £400, and had obtained the use of two rooms free of rent in the Free State High Commissioner's office in Regent street, on condition that the Department of Lands and Fisheries should be allowed to hold exhibitions of Irish produce and Irish woollen manufacturers in these rooms. Otherwise the association would have complete control.

For the opening of the new offices a reception would be held in the High Commissioner's office on Friday next. All the invitations would be sent out by the High Commissioner.

MANY ADVANTAGES.

For the first time in the history of the association this work was being under official sanction and control. This would be a great advantage as it would bring visitors to their office. One half of the people coming to the Irish Free State during the May fly fishing season were English, and, from a tourist point of view, fishing was one of their most valuable assets.

With regard to the arrangements for Eucharistic Congress week, the Chairman stated that it was intended to keep the offices in Dublin open from 8 a.m. till 10 p.m. during the entire week. The full staff would be in attendance, with two interpreters for five languages, and facilities for money exchange provided by Cook and Son.

Arrangements were made to have an interpreter in attendance at the Congress camp in Artane. It had been expected that 6,000 people would be staying at that camp, but it was now reported that the number would be much smaller, and it would not be necessary to have an official present all the time.

A CONGRESS RECEPTION.

There would be a special place for members of the Association in the Congress procession, and they could come in their silk hats or their "hair shirts," as they liked.

He thought they should, if possible, organise a reception to which important people attending the Congress should be invited. They should also have two tourist broadcasts during that week.

Mr. F. Moran seconded the proposal to have a reception, and the matter was left in the hands of the chairman, secretary, and Finance Committee, provided it could be arranged to avoid clashing with Congress fixtures.

On the question of joint publicity schemes the chairman said they were trying to get local bodies to advertise in their general guide, and alluded to the amount of inter-county travel which had been promoted in this way chiefly during the fishing season. Much more could be done in this way.

The following County Council representatives were appointed to the Board:—Captain H. A. Malone, Westmeath; Mr. F. H. Crowley, T.D., Kerry; Mr. P. Hogan, T.D., Clare; Mr. D. J. Madden, Limerick; Mr. Simon Walton, Kilkenny; Mr. J. J. Byrne, Kildare; Mr. F. J. Daly, Lord Mayor of Cork; Mr. M. F. Walsh, Waterford; Mr. W. J. O'Reilly, Louth; Mr. James McKeogh, Tipperary (N.R.); Councillor W. Mulcahy, Tipperary (S.R.); Mr. Thomas McCaul, Mayo; Mr. Andrew W. Cullen, Dublin; Mr. H. B. O'Donoghue, Cavan; Major Donnellan, Limerick; Senator Michael Duffy, Meath; Mr. J. T. Costelloe, Galway; Mr. R. Corish, T.D., Wexford.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

REFERENCES TO DUBLIN "SWEEP."

BELFAST, Wednesday.

THE General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland resumed its sittings this morning in Church House, the Moderator (Dr. Macauley, Rathgar) presiding.

On the motion of the Right Rev. Dr. James Thompson, it was decided that the Assembly should meet in Londonderry on the first Monday in June, 1933.

When the financial report was presented it was stated that there was no financial crisis in the affairs of the Church.

The Rev. William Corkey presented the report of the Committee on Church Extension, and moved its adoption. In regard to ways and means, he appealed for the support of every minister of the Church, and said that if they got that they soon would have the support of every member of the Church.

The Rev. John Waddell spoke of the Church's indebtedness to Dr. Morrow for what he had done in regard to the erection of the Lowe Memorial Church, and on his suggestion an expression of gratification at the scheme's success was added to the resolutions.

The report was adopted.

CO-OPERATION.

The report of the Committee on Co-operation with other Evangelical Churches in Ireland stated:—(1) That circumstances which, in different localities, were disturbing fraternal relations, have been dealt with with success; (2) That the exchange of pulpits last year between Methodist and Presbyterian ministers at General Assembly and Conference time, in some thirteen churches, proved highly helpful; (3) That further exchanges of the same kind are being arranged for this year.

The report also referred to a proposed conference with the Methodist Church Committee.

The report was adopted, the Moderator congratulating the Rev. W. M. Cargin on the work in which he and the Committee were engaged.

The Rev. J. S. Rutherford, Kingstown, submitted the report of the United Council of Christian Churches, which stated that the United Council desires to make a strong protest against the proposal recently put forward that the slum clearance should be financed in the Irish Free State by means of sweepstakes. The Council calls upon both State and local authorities to do their part faithfully in this urgent matter.

The report was adopted.

CHURCH UNION.

The Rev. Professor Davey submitted the Report on Church Union. It stated:—"The Committee reports that it has held a number of meetings, and also two conferences, with the corresponding Committee of the Church of Ireland, while Sub-Committees of the two main Committees have also held several joint meetings. Some progress has been made in defining the main issues, but it is as yet too early to present any definite report on the negotiations. The discussions have throughout been most harmonious and cordial."

The Moderator said that the conferences were not held behind locked doors, and there was no secrecy in the matter.

The report was adopted.

The Rev. J. S. Rutherford seconded the report.

Mr. Hugh M'Neill said that it was with reluctance that he referred to these conversations, which, he believed, might become a disturbing question in the Church. He thought that there was something disquieting in these conversations, and their people were rightly asking why all this secrecy, and why were these conferences held behind closed doors?

The report of the Continental Mission and the Temperance report were adopted.

THE BETTING EVIL.

The Rev. William Mitchell, B.A., B.D., in submitting the report on the state of religion, said that there were 200 bookmakers at work in Belfast. He asked that the real culprits should be prosecuted, and not their clerks, and that more substantial fines should be imposed. At the present time, he said, when so many have been caught up in the whirlpool of the sweepstake craze, it is like the voice of one crying in the wilderness to protest against it. On Monday week last ten million slips of paper, representing the colossal sum of £4,500,000, were rolling about in the drum at the Plaza Ballroom, Dublin. The fact that such a large sum of money should be laid on the lap of the goddess of chance at a time of great commercial depression is evidence of the hold which the gambling habit has on the community. No one who has the moral and spiritual well-being of the nation at heart can view with equanimity this state of affairs. The fact that the gamble is for the sake of the hospitals has, no doubt, obscured the question at issue. But the question arises: "Is it right to do evil that good may come?" I say emphatically "no." The motive behind the whole business is largely selfish, to enrich oneself at the expense of the other man, to obtain a sum of money without giving an equivalent in work or worth. For that reason we would strongly urge our people to discountenance a practice so contrary to the teaching and spirit of Jesus Christ.

BRITISH SAILORS' SOCIETY.

There was a large attendance at the reception given by the British Sailors' Society to the Rev. A. W. Bedford, M.A., of London, at the Presbyterian Association headquarters, 16 St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, yesterday evening. Sir Walter H. Boyd, Bart., K.C., President of the Dublin branch of the Society, and Lady Boyd were among those present.

Alderman J. Hubbard Clark made a brief speech of welcome to Mr. Bedford, and a pleasant musical programme was contributed to by Miss Olhaussen, Miss V. McKinnon and Mr. William Hilton.

A vote of thanks to the lady workers and the musicians was proposed by Mr. J. L. Stewart and seconded by Mr. J. D. Gamble.
